Complaining Is Waste
Oranges and Gold
Mr. Hoover, Dry Leader
Woman Shoots Woman

By Arthur Brisbane

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Jan. 23—This Pacific Coast goes along cheerfully, as well it may, with so many states in the Union helping to build up population and prosperity here.

It's against the unwritten law in this neighborhood to complain, carry an umbrella or wear an overcoat. Besides, this is a land of "Everything can be done."

Mrs. Scudder, the potato chip queen, says, "If Easterners that complain about business would put into their business the energy used in complaining, they would not need to complain." She fries 100 tons of potatoes in a month.

Nature recognizes no depression, and this coast has gigantic crops. The "Sunkist" co-operative organization of orange growers will ship 70,000 cars this year, compared with 50,000 cars last year. Thirty-three years ago they shipped 1800 cars.

Tell your grocer he should sell his oranges cheaper this year. They cost him less at wholesale, and selling good oranges is public service.

There is still gold to be found, if you know where to look.

At Alamos, in the State of Sonora, where Governor Elias rules, an American, L. S. Patterson, bought an old mine from Filipe De Iza. After six months, discouraged, he sold the mine back to De Iza. The latter went to see what work Patterson had done, tapped a rock with a small hammer, uncovering a vein of gold now yielding $2000 a ton.

But don't let that persuade you to buy stock in a gold mine. When it runs $2000 a ton they don't sell it.

President Hoover, as Mr. "R. C. H." of the San Bernardino Sun observes, is now in command and leader of prohibition in the United States.

In a few words, the President said more about prohibition than the Wickersham commission said in 100,000 words, and said it far more definitely.

He has made himself the leader of the drys in next year's presidential campaign, and if the drys have a majority, as this writer thinks they have, that may decide the 1932 campaign.

A woman who lives in Oklahoma fired two shots into a Miss Cardell, aged 28, and Miss Cardell may die.

Jealousy sent the bullets on their way. Such incidents have been frequent since the day, 40,000,000 years ago, when Mrs. Big Tooth split the head of a younger cave lady trying to steal away her husband.

A jealous woman usually kills the other woman to save her husband. And that, although she doesn't know it, is done in obedience to atavistic impulse, to protect the children who need a father.

The jealous husband often kills his wife. That is done to protect his important self-respect.

It is easier than killing the man, and he can get another wife without trouble.

Bishops of the English Episcopal Church decide that prayer by radio is good because it brings family prayer back into the British home.

Nevertheless a prayer broadcast, instead of being addressed directly to the Almighty by the individual, seems a little too scientific.

No radio set is necessary to reach the throne of grace. Employment of the radio reminds you of the country clergyman who began his prayer, "Oh, Lord, as Thou hast doubtless seen by the morning papers."

Dr. Hornell Hart, of Bryn Mawr College, where many women accumulate knowledge back of their high brows, tells parents that early marriages are usually failures.

Those married before 20 are 10 times more apt to land in the divorce court than others. Trial marriages fail because they are experimental and secret.

They fail also, although Dr. Hart doesn't mention it, because the man in such a marriage lacks respect and affection for the woman.

The great philosopher Plato would have women marry well past 30 and men past 50. But that depends on the breed and the individual.

The mother supplies her child's mental and physical strength. She should have children when her strength of mind and body is at the maximum.

The father supplies part of the child's mental ability. He should marry later, giving such brain as he has a chance to mature fully.

BANKERS TELL OF GARRETT DEPOSITS

Handwriting Expert Is Said to Be Last Witness for Prosecution

The government's case neared its close at the Garrett trial today with the testimony of five bankers and a handwriting expert.

After the bankers had testified regarding nine bank accounts showing total deposits in excess of $20,000, Wilbur F. Turner, the writing expert, took the witness stand late this afternoon.

He was said to be the last witness for the prosecution.

The bank accounts introduced in evidence were deposit slips in the names of Oliver B. Garrett, Florence H. Garrett and Florence H. Reddin (Mrs. Garrett's maiden name).

Turner testified under direct examination that in his opinion Oliver B. Garrett wrote the name Florence H. Reddin on ten deposit slips for an account under the latter name in the National Rockland Bank.

WRITING ON SLIPS

It is also his belief that Garrett wrote the name Florence H. Garrett on 27 such slips for an account under the latter name in the Brookline Trust Co.

Bankers who were witnesses were Charles S. Wiggin, assistant cashier of the First National Bank; William Peters, manager of the savings department fo the Boulevard Trust Co.; Frederick B. Barnes, treasurer o fthe South Weymouth Savings Bank; Walter Lambert, treasurer of the Brighton Five Cents Savings Bank, and John L. Fallon, auditor of the Federal National Bank.

Turner was still under direct examination when court was adjourned until Monday. It was expected that the case of the defence

Ship Calls Aid Off Scotland

Chatham, Jan. 23—A radio message from the liner President Harding, stating that the Russian vessel Iakovaversilov was drifting and helpless off Scotland, was received today at the Radio Marine Corp. station.

"Drifting offshore; engine helpless; requested immediate assistance," the message from the Harding said.

The Russian gave her position as 57 degrees north and 7.4 west, which would place her about 250 miles off the coast of Scotland.

Battleship Bill Reported to House

Washington, Jan. 23 (INS)—The House Naval Affairs Committee today reported for passage a Senate bill authorizing $30,000,000 for modernization of the battleships New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho.

The committee adopted a resolution requesting the Navy Department to investigate the feasibility of new apparatus for handling airships on battleships, with a view to increasing the number of airplanes which can be carried.

Italian Academy Honors Garfield

Rome, Jan. 23 (AP)—Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams College in Massachusetts, was received today by the Italian Royal Academy. Senator Guglielmo Marconi, its president, praised Dr. Garfield's work in creating the Institute of Politics at Williamstown. Dr. Garfield praised the efforts of the Mussolini regime in the reconstruction of Italy.

Cuba's $25,000,000 Tariff Is Passed

Havana, Jan. 23 (AP)—Cuba's new emergency tariff law, which is expected to add $25,000,000 to the national treasury, was approved in an all-night session of the House of Representatives and went before the Senate today.

LOUIS S. LEVI'S HOME LOOTED OF $25,000

Robbers Flee With Gems and Jewels in a Daring Arborway Break

Louis S. Levi of 1 Arborway, Jamaica Plain, investment banker with offices at 40 Court st., went across the street with his wife to visit their daughter for two hours last night, and while gone burglars stole $25,000 in jewelry and furs, he reported to police today.

Included in the loot was a priceless emerald and pearl pendant, which Levi picked up in England several years ago out of the belongings of an old English estate.

JEWELS IN LOOT

Also included in the loot were a diamond pendant, several diamond stickpins, a four-carat diamond ring, several pearl necklaces, a jade ring, an emerald ring, a mink coat and a fox coat.

The burglars entered through a rear window, apparently went pominently about their work and rested for a time in the kitchen, as cigarette ashes and matches were on the kitchen floor.

The bedrooms in the upper part of the house were thoroughly ransacked and clothing was strewn about the rooms. Every jewel box was found and opened.

In the kitchen the burglars pried open cupboards in their search for valuables, but left untouched a quantity of plated silverware.

REWARD FOR ROBBERS

Three years ago, according to police, a similar theft took place in the Levi home, but after insurance on the articles had been paid, a youth was caught with the goods in his possession. They were returned and the insurance was refunded.

Levi offered a $500 reward for information of the robbers.

Warmer Weather Coming Tomorrow

Warmer weather for Boston and vicinity by tonight or tomorrow is promised by the official forecaster. At 9 a. m. today the official reading of the thermometer was 17 degrees above zero, but a sharp west wind made it seem much colder.

With the shifting of the wind, however, the mercury will ascend rapidly, according to the weatherman.

WOMAN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Blanche Donahue, 40, of Locke ave., Lynn, passenger in a sedan, suffered a possible fracture of the skull and many cuts today when the sedan was in collision with a truck at Columbia st. and Broadway, Cambridge.

The sedan rolled over and then crashed against a pole, narrowly missing striking John McGovern, 14, of 230 Broadway, who was standing on the sidewalk.

Mrs. Donahue was pulled from the wreckage and taken to Cambridge Relief Hospital. The driver of the sedan, according to police, was Charles Davis, 45, of Margin st., Peabody.

Arms Parley to Meet in February, 1932

Geneva, Jan. 23 (INS)—The council of the League of Nations today set Feb. 2, 1932, as the date for the forthcoming general disarmament conference.

Designation of the site of the conference was postponed. Because of the opposition of Germany and Italy, designation of Foreign Minister Edouard Benes of Czecho-Slovakia as president of the conference was held in abeyance.

$11,369,500 More Is Given for Dry Fight

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—The House today passed the justice department's annual supply bill calling for an outlay of $51,229,000 for the next fiscal year, including $11,369,500 for the prohibition bureau and the State Department supply bill carrying $16,651,000.

Grapefruiting of Rudy Wins Harvard Boys' O. K.

Grapefruit or no grapefruit, Rudy Vales had grapefruit for breakfast today—but he ordered it himself and did not take it informally, as he did last night while playing at the Metropolitan Theater.

Inasmuch, however, as an enthusiastic and appreciative grapefruit grappler applies himself solely and diligently to the juicy matter at hand and can spend no time in lip-dripping conversation, Rudy stuck to his personal grapefruit of today and would say nothing about the mongrel grapefruit of last night.

It was a rather shopworn and fading grapefruit that descended in a long parabola to splash and squash over Rudy, his drummer and the others of the Connecticut Yankees as Rudy turned from directing to pick up his megaphone and croon.

STUDENTS LIKE IDEA

"Oh, give me something to remember you by . . ." he had crooned on the previous number, but he had said nothing about grapefruit.

There was a scurrying in the second balcony after the grapefruit had landed, and finally Patrolmen David Caswell and Frank Chapman, detailed to special duty at the theater, emerged into brighter light with three Harvard students.

They were taken to Lagrange st. station where, although verbally critical of Rudy, his attainments and his waltzings, they denied having hurled the grapefruit. They were released.

But today the students, Joseph T. Johnson, 19; William F. Blanc, 18, and James S. Angier, 18, were still critical.

SONGS "LACK FIRE"

They composed a cheer on the spot:

"We don't like Rudy,
We don't like Rudy.
We may be rudey,
But we don't like Rudy."

The Harvard trio of non-grapefruit throwers object most of all to Rudy singing Harvard songs that

Texas Guinan May Be Lingle Witness

Chicago, Jan. 23 (INS)—Texas Guinan may be invited to testify in the trial of Leo V. Brothers, charged with the murder of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, newspaper reporter.

That was indicated today, following an interview in which the dapper St. Louis gunman told of his work while employed by Miss Guinan in the Green Mill cafe on the North Side here.

Hurley Hits Devens $105,000 Road Bill

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—Secretary Hurley today opposed the Rogers bill to authorize expenditure of $105,000 in constructing roads and sidewalks at Camp Devens, Mass.

While such construction is contemplated eventually, Hurley wrote the House military committee, shelter and hospitalization works at other posts were more urgently required now.

German Chancellor Faces Angry Crowd

Chemnitz, Germany, Jan. 23 (AP)—Chancellor Bruening, arriving here today for a conference with Saxon industrialists, was greeted at the railway station by crowds of unemployed who shouted, "Down with him."

They milled about his automobile until mounted police dispersed them. The crowd gathered again in front of his hotel but was driven off.

Gas Company Wants to Issue More Stock

Petition for approval of the issuance of 65,000 additional shares of capital stock was made to the Department of Public Utilities today by the Boston Consolidated Gas Company. Price of the stock was given at $100 per share, the par value.

It was announced that the revenue would be used for plant additions, extensions and permanent improvements.

Huerta Kidnaped by Auto Thieves

Los Angeles, Jan. 23 (AP)—A. de la Huarta, son of Adolfo de la Huerta former provisional president of Mexico, reported to police today he had been kidnaped by two robbers who forced him to drive to the city limits and then took his auto. He was not injured.

LEADERS IN CLASH OVER POLITICAL EFFECT

Wet Faction Seeks to Sway His Views; Rivals Demand He Remain "Pat"

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 23—The furore kicked up by the Wickersham report continued to rage unabated around President Hoover's head today, while the growling and uneasy factions of his own party sought to pull and haul him in their several directions.

The out-and-out "wets" in the party, and also the moderates, are aghast at the thought of what Mr. Hoover's bone-dry message to Congress may do to Republican chances in the East next year, if, as is expected, the Democrats go anti-prohibition in platform and candidate.

They are urging Mr. Hoover to act while public interest still is at high pitch and issue a public statement to the effect that he still has "an open mind" concerning revision of the Eighteenth Amendment, notwithstanding his curt rejection of the only method of revision proposed by the Wickersham Commission.

OPPOSE "WEAKENING"

The bone-drys in the party, who acclaimed the President as their own, following his message, are equally insistent that he shan't issue such a statement, which they claim would be "weakening." They demand that he stand four-square on his message and fight it out in 1932 on that line.

Some of Mr. Hoover's closest political advisers in the past 24 hours have assured newspaper correspondents privately and earnestly that his message to Congress was "misinterpreted" and that he still has "an open mind" on methods of revising the Eighteenth Amendment.

Asked bluntly if they spoke for the President in the matter, they admitted they did not, but merely gave it as their own estimate of his state of mind. It was quite evident, however, that those around the President wished the impression to go out to the country that the President is not as dry as his message has made him.

Wednesday, after editorial digests from all parts of the country had been scanned, revealing that the country as a whole interpreted the message as bone-dry in content and intent, there was a cabinet council at the White House.

Present were Secretary of War Hurley, Postmaster-General Brown and Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, the trio of his cabinet upon whom Mr. Hoover leans most heavily for political guidance.

After this conference the word began to circulate around that the President's message had been "misinterpreted."

And today, Senator Fess, who on Wednesday morning was so confident that Mr. Hoover had chalked

REED URGES RESERVATION SPECIFICALLY PROTECTING U. S.

FAVORS PLAN BE GIVEN SENATE

League Court Group and Foes Differ on Interpretation of Formula, He Says

By EDWARD L. RODDAN

Washington, Jan. 23 (US)—A reservation to the Root-Hurst formula specifically protecting the United States against the menace of advisory opinions by the League of Nations court, was today being advocated by Senator David A. Reed (R.) of Pennsylvania.

In suggesting this course, Reed was influenced largely by the testimony Wednesday of Elihu Root, co-author of the formula, who first told the Senate foreign relations committee that he thought this country was amply protected under the revised court protocols.

Under cross-examination by Reed and other committee members, however, Root was forced to admit that this was "rather vaguely done" as the protocols now stand.

EXPLAINS HIS PROPOSAL

Reed's attitude and that of other committee members indicated that Root's appearance before the foreign relations committee only accentuated the growing dissatisfaction with the Root-Hurst formula.

Explaining his proposal, Reed said:

"Everybody agrees that advisory opinions should not be rendered without the consent of interested parties. Mr. Root claims we still have the right of veto under the fifth Senate reservation. Secretary of State Stimson thinks we have it under Article 68.

"Some Senators agree with one, some with the other, and a third group of whom I am one, doubt whether the right is preserved in either way.

"All that I suggest doing is making clear beyond that which we all agree upon as desirable."

URGES NEW RESERVATION

Senator Reed said he thinks such a reservation as he proposes should be offered by some member of the Senate when the question of ratifying or rejecting the treaty comes before that body. He was unprepared to say that he himself would do so.

Reed's position was of prime importance, because he voted for ratification with the Senate reservations in 1926. The Root-Hurst formula is now offered as a substitute for reservation five, which specifically protected this country against advisory opinions.

RUDY HAS MORE GRAPEFRUIT

should be blood-stirring and singing them in a blood-thinning way.

"The sons of Harvard see red when he croons a Crimson tune," said Angier thoughtfully. "My father may have been dean of Yale freshmen, but I am the captain of my Crimson soul."

HIS "ADVERTISING" PEEVES

The Harvard youths averred that their strongest aversion to Rudy was generated at the Harvard-Yale game (a rumored football contest) when Rudy, they said, appeared at the game with a sign on his back:

"Yes, I am Rudy Vallee."

They said there were between 200 and 300 Harvard men at the Metropolitan Theater last night and that, of course, some of them may have carried grapefruit.

"We better behaved boys at Harvard cannot, of course, keep an eye on the scalawags," said Johnson thoughtfully.

"We had an eye," acquiesced Angier and Blanc.

For his part, Rudy today would say merely that his rebuke delivered over the footlights last night after the grapefruit's forced landing, was his last word in the matter.

RUDY IS ANGRY

The grapefruit, thrown from the second balcony, crashed against the cymbals o' Rudy's drummer and gave up this life in a wide spattering that touched most of the bandmen.

The grapefruit narrowly missed Rudy and his megaphone. Later Rudy stepped to the footlights and said, coolly:

"It is not an act of courtesy, whether or not you approve of me, to interfere with others' pleasure. If you don't like me, you don't have to come here."

Britain to Build New Type Warships

London, Jan. 23 (INS)—A new type of warship, especially built to guard the trade routes of the British Empire, may soon be added to the British navy.

A 200-ton "small cruiser" of considerable fighting power will be built. Although such a vessel would be useless against a large cruiser, it would be capable of putting up a good fight against armed raiders or submarines, which constitute the greatest menace to merchant shipping.

'G. G. A. SCORES CITY CONTRACTS

More than $1,000,000 in contracts for city work last year were not advertised, and 100 contracts were not awarded to the lowest bidders, the Good Government Association charges in its current issue of City Affairs, which goes into the mails to association members tomorrow.

Particular attention is given the Public Works Department and, in the absence of Mayor Curley, Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke, head of the department, met the charges point by point today and defended the administration.

Rourke admitted the letting of many contracts for paving without advertising, saying this was the only way the city could get done all the work it set out to do each year to aid unemployment and to put the streets in good condition.

He declared the public was protected in every instance. Where contracts were awarded to concerns whose bids were not the lowest, he said it was done because the lowest bidders were not properly equipped to do the work right or still had pending considerable work previously contracted for.

The Good Government Association calls for an investigation of the city buying and makes the following allegations:

That the public is not given a complete account of city contracting, that charter violations are countenanced and that present buying practices are not satisfactory.

That extra work allowances on contract jobs appear excessive, amounting to $65,000 on 74 contracts specifically investigated.

That eight contractors received over $1,000,000 in the paving work on those 74 contracts.

Hatpin Alibi 'Best Ever,' But Speeder Pays $10 Fine

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 23 (AP)—To Frank A. Williams of Chicago goes the championship in the alibi division of motor speeding, according to Magistrate Harry H. Porter.

"Well, judge," said Williams, accused of going through a stop light at 43 miles an hour, "my wife and I were quarrelling and as we approached the corner she jabbed me in the leg with her hat pin."

Magistrate Porter smiled. Then he said:

"You're fined $10 and costs, but it's the best alibi I have ever heard."

DE VOE JURY IN 45-HOUR TIEUP

Los Angeles, Jan. 23—At noon today (3 p. m. E. S. T.) the seven men and five women deliberating the fate of Daisy De Voe, erstwhile confidante of Clara Bow, were still deadlocked after 45 hours in the jury room.

Twice in a little more than 30 minutes last night, the strained and worn jurors filed back into the courtroom to inform Judge W. C. Doran that an agreement among them was seemingly out of the question.

They appeared first at their own request, and in response to Judge Doran's queries, the foreman, Ralph Henry Boynton, Hollywood business man, declared that the jury had been unable to reach a verdict.

IT TAKES MORE than one squashing, oozy grapefruit to wean Rudy Valee, crooner, from his taste for the breakfast delicacy. He proved this today when he ate grapefruit for breakfast—and did not get a spatter. DRY LAW MUST CHANGE, SAYS MACKINTOSH

Wickersham Board Member Declares That Revision Is Inevitable

San Francisco, Jan. 23 (AP)—Kenneth Mackintosh of Seattle, one of the five members of the Wickersham commission who recommended further trial and strict enforcement of prohibition, asserted here today that a change in the dry law was inevitable.

The cause, he said, was:

"American fathers and mothers are appalled at seeing their boys and girls return home intoxicated, night after night.

"Prohibition put the saloon out of business. We may now look to something that will eradicate bootlegging and its attendant evils. The home, whether wet or dry when the law went into effect, now demands that something be done to keep the young away from the speakeasies.

ALCOHOL EASY TO MAKE

"It is too easy to make alcohol. Almost anyone can afford to set up a small still in his cellar. And as for the taste of the stuff, there are very few left who can really discern. The new generation, certainly, cannot tell the old brands from overnight stuff. I should suppose they would be rather suspicious of the taste of the genuine product.

"As was to be expected, passionate partisans, without having had an opportunity to examine there fully the long report, were quick to put their prejudiced interpretations on such of it as they were informed of, and voice their opinions and criticisms."

DEFENDS HOOVER.

Mackintosh branded as baseless the charge that President Hoover "dictated" to the commission.

"The accusations against the President," he said, "are inspired only by the lowest desire to discredit him and his commission. The President never in any way interfered with the framing of the report, nor did he exert influence in the subtlest manner to any member what his wishes were in regard to the commission's findings."

Bank Men Testify About More Garrett Accounts

Trial of the former police liquor raider, his wife and Lillian V. Hatch on charges of conspiracy to extort from John F. Sullivan, was resumed in Superior Criminal Court after a day and a half postponement caused by the illness of Mrs. Garrett.

She had apparently recovered from the cold which caused adjournment Wednesday morning and she was the first of the accused trio before Judge Patrick H. Keating when the session opened today.

Evidence of additional Garrett bank accounts went into the record of trial over the continued objections of defense attorneys, Daniel J. Gallagher and Herbert F. Callahan.

BANKER ON STAND

Wiggin was the first witness as the government's case went into its fourth day.

The first four accounts introduced were in the First National Bank.

Under questioning of Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle, Wiggin produced records showing an account in the name of Oliver B. Garrett which reached a total of $740 deposits between January, 1926, and January, 1927. The total of withdrawals during approximately the same period was $682.63.

A savings account in the name of Florence H. Garrett showed total deposits of more than $7700 between January, 1926, and July, 1928. Withdrawals during the same period were more than $ 400.

MRS. GARRETT TRUSTEE

The third account was that of Florence Garrett as trustee for Oliver B. Garrett. It originated in the Dorchester Savings Bank, which was merged with the First National. Its total of deposits was $442 between October, 1923, and October, 1924.

The fourth and smallest account was a savings account of Florence H. Garrett showing a total of $86.80 between October, 1923, and October, 1924. The largest single deposit was $13.

Under cross-examination by Gallagher, Wiggin testified he did not have at hand records showing whether four large withdrawals from the largest account of Mrs. Garrett were in cash or check. He was excused to seek such memorands at the bank.

These withdrawals were: $2442.70 on February 8, 1926; $1500 in July, 1926; $2000 in July of the following year and $1000 in May of 1928. The balance of the account following each withdrawal was shown to have been small.

ONE ACCOUNT OF $7.38

Peters presented records of a Florence H. Garrett account showing deposits of $5684.80 and withdrawals of $5490.40 between March, 1925, and July, 1928. He was questioned by Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel J. Gillen.

Like Wiggin, he did not have with him memoranda regarding cash and check withdrawals, and he was requested by the court to fetch them and return at 3 o'clock.

An account under the name of "Reddin" in the South Weymouth Savings Bank was introduced through Barnes, treasurer of that institution. It was opened in September, 1927, and on July 10, 1928, there remained in it a balance of $4,216.66. There was but one small withdrawal during that time.

MORE RECORDS.

Lambert produced the records of a savings account of Florence H. Garrett in the Brighton Five Cents Savings Bank. It showed a total of $842.98 deposits and no withdrawals between October, 1924, and July, 1928.

The account at the Federal National Bank was in the name of Oliver B. Garrett, showing total deposits of $854.88 between December, 1925, and May, 1926, and a single withdrawal of $800, paid by Florence H. Garrett on written order of Garrett.

French President Seeks New Premier

Check Passer Is Guilty of Larceny

Brockton, Jan. 22—William G. Harper, 31, of Whitman, who gained notice last summer when he announced he would run for governor on the "platform of Jesus Christ," pleaded guilty to larceny by false checks in district court today and was held in $3000 for the Grand Jury.

Gypsy's Magic Spell Cost Springfield Girl $3000

Springfield, Jan. 22—A magic spell cast over her by a gypsy girl cost Miss Mary Burke of School st. exactly $3000, she told Springfield police today.

Miss Burke said she visited the fortune teller several days ago in a Main st. store and was advised to draw whatever money she had from the bank and have it "doubled" by a magic wand.

The $3000 roll was passed over to the gypsy who made a few motions and then passed it back to Miss Burke, warning her to keep it in her dress for three days without looking at it.

Today was the third day. Miss Burke discovered the roll consisted of two $1 bills and torn newspapers. The Main st. store is vacant.

RED CROSS AID FOR MILLION IS ASKED

Relief Calls From Drouth Area Roll Up; 587,000 Now Receiving Help

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Relief calls to the Red Cross for food and clothing during the past few days have been so great that Chairman John Barton Payne today said close to a million people would need aid by February 1.

"Our reports today show we are caring for 587,084," Payne said.

"Our field workers in the one state of Arkansas alone estimate figures 350,000 persons will be on the Red Cross rolls in that state by February 1. This is more than one-quarter of the entire population of the state.

RELIEF EXTENDED

"Relief has been extended to a number of counties in West Virginia, Virginia, Alabama and Ohio in the past few days, as the local resources were exhausted.

"The magnitude of this task in caring for drouth sufferers, and the acute need for the relief fund of $10,000,000 which the Red Cross has asked for, can be comprehended when a comparison is made with the relief work by the Red Cross in the Mississippi valley flood in 1927.

"At the very height of that emergency 600,000 persons were cared for by the Red Cross. Today we are helping within 50,000 of that number and our workers tell me we will be giving food, clothing and other types of relief to almost a million by Feb. 1, if calls continue to mount.

CONTRIBUTIONS MOUNT

Contributions in the Red Cross $10,000,000 relief fund were boosted to $1,284,000 today.

As a result of the radio appeal last night by President Hoover, former President Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith and others, officials at Red Cross headquarters were busy answering inquiries as to where to send money.

out his prohibition course for 1932, and who said "of course Mr. Hoover would run as a dry," apparently has suffered a change of heart. Senator Fess was assuring inquirers today that Mr. Hoover has an "open mind."

MAY ASK REFERENDUM

The troubled situation was not helped much by the visit to Washington of a delegation of New York Republicans, headed by W. Kingsland Macy, the new State chairman, who let the President know that New York is wet, and that if he persists in the stand taken in his message to Congress there is grave doubt as to whether he can carry the State in 1932.

In some administration sources today the suggestion was put out that Mr. Hoover might propose a constitutional referendum on the prohibition question for 1932.

He is being urged in some quarters to do that in order to relieve the party of the boneship mantle which his message to Congress placed about it shoulders.

GOVERNORS TACKLE UNEMPLOYMENT AS LONG-RANGE PROBLEM

ELY ATTENDS CONFERENCE AT ALBANY

Roosevelt Outlines Plans to Seek Means of Preventing Future Depressions

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP) —Governors of four neighboring states met with Gov. Roosevelt in the executive chamber here today for a conference upon prevention and relief of unemployment.

The visitors are Ely of Massachusetts, Lehman of New Jersey, Case of Rhode Island and Cross of Connecticut. Gov. White of Ohio was due in reaching Albany owing to a delayed train. Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania or a representative is expected tomorrow.

The conference open to the public today, began shortly after noon. Gov. Roosevelt explained it was not called to deal with the present unemployment emergency, but to consider the question as a "long range problem."

The seven states represented, he said, only a little over five per cent of the total land area of the United States, but have 33 per cent of the nation's population, not wholly industrial, as they produce 11 per cent of the agricultural products of the nation.

LEAD IN INDUSTRY

They have 47 per cent of American wage earners and receive 52 per cent of all wages paid.

"I think, therefore," said Gov. Roosevelt, "that we can probably say these states represent a large factor in industrial life.

"Problems relating to unemployment, its prevention and relief become in the past year the overshadowing problems in all industrial states.

"Every governor of an industrial state has been bombarded with suggestions as to the state's duty for relief or prevention of unemployment.

"The purpose of this conference is to secure in the most convenient form for the executives here gathered, an informal discussion of various aspects of this problem."

WOLMAN IS SPEAKER.

Gov. Roosevelt introduced as the first speaker Leo Wolman, member of President Hoover's committee on recent economic changes. Mr. Wolman spoke on the utilization of public works as a means of combatting unemployment.

In 1928 and 1929, he said, public works construction cost nine and a half billion dollars, employing more than 800,000 persons. Of the total cost, cities of more than 30,000 population bore more than one quarter; the federal government 10 per cent, and the state and county governments in New York 10 per cent.

Bryce Stewart, of a firm of industrial advisors, interrogated by the governors, said he could see no reason why the seven states represented at the conference should not set up a central clearance station to serve as a public employment exchange.

Unguarded Liquor Cargo Seized by Customs Guards in Harbor

TOMPKINS HELD IN LARCENY

DeWitt R. Tompkins, Boston wool dealer, who has been under guard at City Hospital for nearly a week, was taken to police headquarters today and booked for larceny of $36,571.17 from two Summer st. wool concerns.

He was fingerprinted and photographed and taken to Municipal Court, where he was held in $10,000 for a hearing Feb. 6. Police said he appeared to be without funds. He was petitioned into bankruptcy recently.

Tompkins lives on Berwick rd., Newton, but when inspectors went for him last Saturday they found he was in City Hospital for stomach trouble and a nervous breakdown. Today doctors declared him well enough to leave and his guard, Patrolman Patrick Hennessey, and Inspectors Joseph Loughlin and William Connolly took him to headquarters.

He is charged with larceny of $19,812.76 from the J. & W. Bastard Co., 184 Summer st., and larceny of $16,758.41 from Frederic C. Rawson of the same address. He is alleged to have obtained funds by presenting false credentials and promising 50 per cent profit.

Tompkins was in business for more than 15 years and was prominent socially. He was also treasurer of a Sunday school. His house in Newton is said to be heavily mortgaged.

Filing Down a Probe Report

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Wickersham investigation was so successful it's being investigated itself.

The Wickersham report was something like an Army court martial. The decision had nothing to do with the verdict.

We got an Army court martial in Camp Zachary Taylor in 1918. Five charges. Here's what happened:

First—Refusing to plant grass seed on commandant's lawn. Not guilty.

Second—Saluting an officer with both hands in my pockets. Not guilty.

Third—Double-timing a sick detail. Not guilty.

Fourth—Threatening to shoot a second lieutenant. Charge, wasting ammunition. Not guilty.

Fifth—Refusing to shine shoes in time of national stress and peril. Not guilty.

On all five charges, guilty. Sentence, 30 days in the shade.

We could never understand why we could be innocent of the charges one by one and guilty of them all in a lump.

And we will never understand how the Wickersham Commission ran applesauce through the concrete-mixer and got Lolagny.

Two Youths Quizzed in Market Thefts

On suspicion of having worked a new "racket" which has cost marketmen thousands of dollars in recent weeks, two youths were arrested in the North End today and taken to Hanover st. station for questioning. They are alleged to have visited express company call boxes in the district and removed order slips. If a slip asked the express company to call on a certain dealer for a shipment, they would hire a pushcart man, give him the slip and send him for the goods.

Yale News Editor Hits Cheating View

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 23 (AP)— The Yale Daily News, under-graduate publication, commenting editorially today on a statement issued by Dean C. W. Mendell of the college, on class-room dishonesty said:

"Cheating at Yale is so prevalent as to demand instant and sweeping measures of reform."

While the News declares "it is useless to lay the ultimate reproaches upon anybody but the students themselves," it charges the faculty with laxity in supervising examinations.

Husband Jailed in Gun Case; Wife Held

Springfield, Jan. 23—Charged with carrying a loaded revolver, Charles C. Ford of Worcester st., Boston, was found guilty in court today and sentenced to six months in jail. His wife, Gertrude, 17, and Joseph McIntyre of Casanova st., Boston, who were seized with Ford in an alleged stolen car, received suspended sentences on charges of possessing firearms. McIntyre and the girl are being held for Boston police in connection with the automobile theft.

$70,000 RUM SHIP SEIZED

The auxiliary fishing sloop Automatic, loaded with $70,000 worth of liquor, was seized by customs men today at the Bent Shipyards, inside the L st. bridge at the foot of K st., South Boston.

In belief of the customs men, the sloop, licensed for cod fishing and never before suspected of rum-running, must have slipped through the heavy coast guard liquor blockade in the outer harbor to reach the shipyards this morning.

The United States customs special duty patrol, aboard the launch Peg, herself a former rum runner, never before captured a rum boat so far inside the harbor, they said.

When the customs men boarded the sloop, where there was no member of the crew aboard, fishing nets were spread over the deck and draped over the sides, as if drying. A quick search speedily disclosed the liquor.

Ownership of the sloop is not definite, according to the customs men, but they will proceed against the seized vessel.

CONVICT FLEES JAIL 2D TIME

Ray A. Williams, former Boston gunman, who escaped from Deer Island in 1928, made another successful dash for liberty today as he left a courtroom in White Plains, N. Y.

Williams, a prisoner from Sing Sing, was one of seven convict witnesses in a murder trial.

Slipping his wrist from a handcuff as he was being placed in a prison car he ran a short distance and leaped into a passing automobile. He abandoned the car at Mamaroneck, and started toward New York city on foot.

Charles Palino, driver of the automobile, said Williams held his hand in a coat pocket, jabbed him in the side and said:

"I've got a gun. I want you to drive me to New York."

Five Horses, Pony Die in Lenox Fire

Lenox, Jan. 23 (INS)—Five racing and driving horses and one Shetland pony were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed a barn at Blantyre, the Berkshire Hills estate of ex-Congressman Woodson R. Oglesby of Yonkers, N. Y.

The horses were driven to safety, but all because panic-stricken and plunged back into the burning structure.

An over-heated furnace was believed to have caused the fire. The loss was estimated at $40,000.

PAVLOVA'S BODY LIES IN STATE

The Hague, Holland, Jan. 23 (INS)—Her incomparable "poetry of motion" stilled by death, the body of Mme. Anna Pavlova lay in state in the chapel of the Catholic Hospital here today.

Funeral services for the great dancer, the favorite of kings and emperors and the idol of millions, were conducted earlier at the Russian Orthodox Church, not far from the hospital where a sudden attack of pleurisy ended the career of the woman described as the most accomplished ballerina of contemporary times.

Victor D'Andre, former accompanist and husband of Pavlova, paid tribute to the philanthropy which she had practiced in behalf of Russian refugees since her virtual exclusion from her native land several years ago.

Pavlova probably will be buried in London, where she had lived for the last few years.

Wrestler Is Held in $5000 on 2 Charges

Pleading not guilty to indictments charging violation of the immigration laws and to an attack on an immigration inspector, Samuel Skorski of Chelsea, a heavyweight wrestler, today was held in $5000 bail fr the Federal Grand Jury by Judge James A. Lowell.

Although having a wife in Chelsea, Skorski, according to Asst. U. S. Atty. Schenck, arranged with a friend to marry a Polish girl in Canada so that she could enter the United States. When an immigration officer went to Skorski's home, the latter is alleged to have ejected him.

Blame Divided for Firing on Germans

Hamburg, Germany, Jan. 23—The court investigating the shelling of the Hamburg-America liner Baden last October by revolutionaries at Rio de Janeiro today divided the blame between the Brazilians and the ship's captain. Twenty-seven were killed in the affray.

Unintelligible signals led to a hot firing and Capt. Rolin overlooked a note on his sailing permit that he was to communicate with Santa Cruz.

16 Landed After West Indies Cruise

Sixteen passengers for Boston were landed here today by the Lady Drake of the Canadian National Steamship line, when the vessel docked at Commonwealth Pier from the West Indies. Among the passengers landed at Boston was Thomas O'Connell, a Montreal, Que., alderman, who continues his journey from Boston to Montreal by train.

Three Factories to Resume Full Time

James M. "Golden Rule" Daley of Lynn today issued a statement that in three of his factories the workers will be back on the job at full time within three days. Factories in Beverly and Salem will be running full schedule by the end of the week. The factory in Lynn will be using all its labor on Monday or Tuesday.

GANDHI TO BE RELEASED

New Delhi, India, Jan. 23 (AP)— Viceroy Lord Irwin, it was understood here today, already has reached a decision to release Mahatma Gandhi, imprisoned Nationalist leader.

Only the details of Gandhi's removal from Yeroda Prison, Poona, so as to avoid a public demonstration, remain to be arranged.

SENATE PLANS POWER BOARD COURT FIGHT

Names of Three Members Sent to Hoover Recommitted to the Committee

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)— The Senate today recommitted to its interstate commerce committee the nominations of three members of the power commission, which President Hoover refused to return.

The Senate action opened the way for a court test of their right to office.

The vote was 45 to 32.

The nominations were of Chairman George Otis Smith of Maine, and Commissioners Claude L. Draper of Wyoming and Marcel Garsaud of Louisiana, who dismissed Solicitor Charles A. Russell and Accountant William V. King. King later was reinstated.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, author of the recommittal motion then introduced a resolution to direct District Attorney Rover here to bring suit to test the commissioners right to office.

The charge was made and denied in Senate debate today that the re-employment of Frank E. Bonner, former executive secretary of the Power Commission, indicated the administration was "friendly to the power interests."

'FRIENDLY TO TRUST'

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, said the only conclusion which could be drawn from Bonner's present employment in the interior department was that the administration supported his views, which he contended were "friendly to the power interests."

Bonner was discharged from the commission at the same time as Solicitor Charles A. Russell and Accountant William V. King. King was re-employed but Russell, who also asked reinstatement, was not.

"Russell and King were bringing these facts to the surface," Wheeler said, referring to valuation claims of the power companies, "and Bonner was treating them lightly, upbraiding King and Russell for paying any attention to them and belittling the whole procedure."

WHEELER SEEKS LIGHT

"The committee has no evidence that Bonner was acting under orders from the President," Couzens said.

Wheeler said he plans to introduce a resolution asking for correspondence between the President and heads of departments "in connection with this matter."

Lost Fortune

MRS. MYRTLE T. BLACKLIDGE, collector of internal revenue, Chicago, who says she lost $50,000 in borrowed money at crooked faro table. Federal officials are probing case. (I. N. R. photo.)

SEEK ARNSTEIN IN FARO DEAL

Chicago, Jan. 23 (US)—State and federal authorities were today trying to find out how Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge lost $50,000 in a faro game at Springfield, the state capital. Mrs. Blackledge is United States internal revenue collector at Chicago.

At the same time Edward R. Litsinger, chairman of the Cook County board of review and former candidate for mayor, contended that he loaned Mrs. Blackledge the $50,000 and offered a reward of $2000 for arrests and convictions.

"I believe the entire plot was engineered in Chicago and because of that fact I feel that State's Atty. Swanson should interest him if in this crime," Litsinger declared.

"I was a sucker. The loss of money does not mean much to me. I felt duty bound, however, to expose this plot."

Mrs. Blackledge, on her part, denied any collusion with gamblers or confidence men, insisted that she was an innocent victim and had gotten the money from Litsinger in all

Today, Blackledge was reported in a state of collapse.

In connection with the case it was announced that a search has been started for Jules (Nicky) Arnstein, reputed New York confidence man. One of the three authors of the crooked game bore a strong resemblance to Arnstein, according to descriptions given detectives by Mrs. Blackledge.

Arnstein is said to have been seen here in the downtown district last Monday.

Veteran in Need Pleads for Support for Bonus

Editor Boston American:

First I want to thank the Boston American and the V. F. W. on its good work that it is doing for the veterans on the Wright-Patman bill for the bonus. I also agree with your editorial on January 15, "Sherman was Wrong." I for one could use some of the money of the so-called bonus and I think the government owes it to us now, not in 1945 when we may be at some soldiers' home or pushing up daisies.

I have been unable to find work for the past seven months and receiving very small compensation. My state aid that I received for one month amounting to $10.00 has been stopped due to the fact that one of the investigators from the State House could not find where I lived, but the address where I live she took a report back from a 12-year-old child who did not know me. On the child's word my state aid was stopped.

At the State House when I reported there I was asked my right address which was the one they had. I hope the bonus will be passed soon as us veterans will not have to rely on the state and be insulted by girls holding the jobs the veterans should have.

Here is hoping that all veterans will work together with the Boston American and the V. of F. W. and not with Sec. Mellon who let get by $1,800,000 to purchase in Berlin a home for the American Embassy. He was too busy watching the veterans relief appropriations so the vet. would not get his till 1945.

Wake up, veterans, and let's go as we did in 1917. Nothing was too good for us then.

Y. D. VETERAN.

Blames Democrats for Hoover's Failure

Editor Boston American:

The communication belittling President Hoover and assuring the defeat of any candidate for President whom the Republicans might name, forces us to pen this missive of resentment at the attitude that it conveyed.

I would like to declare facts in this message, and not fallacy, which seems the basis on which Mr. Logan's article is founded. He states that Mr. Hoover is now definitely overboard, the reason being that he lacks leadership. I refute that statement by saying that lack of co-operation mostly from the Democrats, is the reason that any leadership that Mr. Hoover may possess has never been allowed to manifest itself.

If during the World War General Pershing, Foch and Haig received similar co-operation from their captains and officers that President Hoover has from the Congress we would still be wallowing in No Man's Land or a flag other than the Stars and Stripes would perhaps be flying over this land.

The writer states that with Mr. Smith or Roosevelt in the chair it would be only a short time before pre-war conditions would return; surely such a statement is not based on facts.

Under the leadership of Hoover, Smith, Roosevelt or any other man, the fact still remains that if all the factories, workshops and other places of business were to start working full time it would require only 50 per cent of the toilers than were needed during the prosperous days prior to 1918. Mechanical contrivances and modern inventions would account for the other 50 per cent not being employed and if either Smith or Roosevelt can hurdle that barrier then he will be written in history as an immortal or superman.

Suggests Tax on Wealthy as Means of Pension Fund

Editor Boston American:

How about taxing the big fellows to whom those seeking a pension have devoted the greater part of their lives. Disregard the massing as they are now staggering.

The taxation of stocks and bonds can be considered, as the ones who own them are not of the poorer class and most likely could stand the shock somewhat easier.

Men Like Chickens, and Here Is Proof

Editor Boston American:

I heard the other day that chicken suppers given by women of the churches, to meet the debts of the churches, pay better than any other kind of a meal.

Men like chicken. This was proven at the chicken supper lately given by the women of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, North Easton, where a supper of this type, hiring the men, netted more than enough in money to lay a hard pine floor in the Sunday school room and in the vestibule of the church. This is the fifth chicken supper in this state that has brought good returns to the churches in whose interests they are held.

Charges Bigotry in Brookline School Case.

Editor Boston American:

I read with regret in your paper of the 20th, that the Brookline school committee has denied a public hearing to John T. Connor, recently dismissed as instructor of physical education of the Brookline schools.

I thought that we were emerging from the day of prejudice and bigotry, but I see it still exists in the town of Brookline. I venture to say, and to say it truthfully, that if Mr. Connor was a descendant of the Mayflower, he would never have been ousted.

Members of the school committee were told that the reappointment was not made because Connor was found unfit, but the committee had acted judiciously in not reappointing him. What an inconsistent and ridiculous explanation to offer to the citizens of Brookline.

The Brookline school committee acted not judiciously, but prejudicially and unfairly, and merit nothing but strong condemnation and severe criticism for their action.

The American Legion Post of Brookline, led by the Rev. Crawford Smith, deserves praise for their fight in behalf of Mr. Connor.

Writer Lauds Choice of New Tunnel Station Site

Editor Boston American:

In signing a contract for the leasing of a new station for the Cambridge - Dorchester tunnel route over the traffic circle at Cambridge and Charles sts., the Boston Elevated Railway has shown good judgment in paving a way for more improvements for the benefit of the car-riding public.

People living down that section at present walk some distance for the next station and many take buses to other car points, which transfer to their destination.

Now that will eliminate it all and save 10 to 15 minutes.

Rubber a Symbol of Edison's Mind

Editor Boston American:

Your paper announced yesterday that Thomas A. Edison had gone to Jacksonville, Fla. Now the golden rod will have his attention, and rubber some day will be cheaper.

If I may be allowed to say it, rubber is a symbol of the elasticity of Edison's mind. His life has always been elastic. At 15, he was a telegraph operator. He then invented an automatic device controlled by a clock to report by telegraph to his boss at hourly intervals during the night that he was awake and on the job. All this in Boston.

His elastic mind invented a rat paralyzer. On Oct. 13, 1868, he applied for the first of more than 1400 patents that were later issued to him. In 1875 he came very near inventing the radio. His elastic mind is still working. Every young mind should get the elasticity of Edison's mind. It is always stretching out for something new. Now the golden rod need not stand neglected by the side of the road.

Urges Vets to Join Compensation Drive

Editor Boston American:

Buddies: Will you please write your representatives in Washington asking them to withhold all legislation regarding the servicemen, except such as applies directly to their health, until such time as the matter of adjusted compensation certificate is settled once and for all.

I would state that this has been a political football and I have from good authority information that this is the time to unite and strike hard. This can be done no better than by writing to the above. There are at this time several bills. Many of these would be acceptable to our cause, and immediate action seems assured.

Thanking you and your paper for its most valuable assistance in this matter in the past, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
ARTHUR F. PEABODY.

TROOPER FINDS MOTHER SLAIN

Oneida, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—The body of Mrs. Laura J. Manning, 46, her head crushed with a hammer and her throat slashed, was found today concealed underneath a small trap door in the kitchen of the home of Albert E. Suits, 63, at 309 Mott st., here today by her son, Charles Manning, state trooper.

The finding of the body here followed by two days the suicide of Mrs. Manning's employer, Suits, in a room in a hotel in Rome on Wednesday.

20 Hurt in Berlin Fascisti, Red Riots

Berlin, Jan. 23 (INS)—A score of persons were injured and 22 were under arrest today following clashes between Fascists and Communists last night. Disorders broke out when the Reds tried to break up a meeting of Fascists attended by some 5000 persons.

NEEDLE TRACES SWAYING OF SKYSCRAPERS

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—A magnetic needle which can be placed in the lobby of any skyscraper to trace the building sway in the wind was exhibited to the American Society of Civil Engineers today.

By electrical contact it measures movement invisible to the eye, much of which hitherto has only been guessed with aid of mathematics or from studying the accounts it caused.

Dr. F. C. Brown, director of the Museum of Science and Industry, where the instrument is part of the exhibition in connection with the engineers' annual convention, said it opens new possibilities for measuring stresses and strains.

"It can be applied to almost any moving part in an airplane, and the aviator can observe the kind of stresses being developed in any open or concealed member," he stated. "It has been used already in finding stresses in driving rod of a steam locomotive moving at 90 miles an hour, and the strains in the rail as each wheel passes."

The instrument a "magnetic extensometer," was developed in the research laboratory of the Westinghouse Company of Pittsburgh.

Officer Who Chased "Scorchers" Retires

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Inspector Thomas W. Mullarkey, 63, who joined the police force in 1897 and for eight years pursued "scorchers" up and down Broadway, has retired. A "scorcher" was any gentleman who cavorted his bicycle at more than 18 miles an hour.

Other members of the family are Mrs. Mullarkey, who once sang on the concert stage as Nora Helms, and Thomas W. Mullarkey, a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Horty Commutes Slayer

Budapest, Jan. 23 (AP)—Regent Horthy today commuted a death sentence imposed last week on Capt. Andreas Pinter for the murder of Maj. Nikolaus Kiss, to ten years imprisonment.

RELATIVE SAID "TRY KONJOLA!"

Grateful Lady Tells How Modern Medicine Brought Long Sought Relief In Just Three Weeks

Many of its most outstanding victories are won by Konjola after many treatments and medicines have been tried and found wanting.

MARY A. GLEW

Tens of thousands of grateful people tell how, after months- even years—of experimenting, groping in the dark, seeking in vain for the medicine that fits their case—they finally, to their everlasting joy, turned to Konjola. Such was the experience of Mary A. Glew, 237 Friendship street, Providence. Study her case; then results to get the facts, plain and simple, from the Konjola Man at the Epstein drug store, 24 Scollay Square, Boston. He will tell you of thousands of cases just like that of Mary Glew, who said to the Konjola Man:

"Since taking the Konjola treatment, I eat, sleep and feel like a different person. My work in the department store where I was buyer for 20 years got on my nerves so that finally I had a nervous breakdown. My appetite was poor and I became very weak. My muscles jerked and twitched and I did not sleep well. I tried medicine after medicine and spent dollar after dollar in my search for relief. Then my son-in-law said 'try Konjola.' I did, and in three weeks Konjola brought about a wonderful change in my health. My nerves became calm; my appetite increased; I slept better and my strength returned. After my experience with Konjola I know it is a good medicine."

So it goes, victory after victory whenever Konjola is given a chance to make good. Konjola works swiftly, but it is recommended that a complete treatment of from six to eight bottles be taken for best results. Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs no heart-depressing chemicals. It is all pure medicine, every drop, and every drop works.

The Konjola Man is at Epstein's—Scollay Sq. (Epstein Drug Co.), Boston, where he is telling all those who come the remarkable story of this remarkable medicine.

Pleated Pants and Gay Ties in Style

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Bright necktics are fashionably quite all right, boys, regardless of what the legislatures of the land do about them.

Also pleated trousers, dembosom shirts, white felt hats and polo coats, if you're that minded this spring.

Those are smart, you understand. But if you have average tastes the following, says Amos Parrish, who advises stores on what to stock, is for you:

Gray, tan, chocolate brown or blue suit with two or three-button coat which has a plain, full back, 29 to 31 inches long, and notch lapels. Or a double-breasted coat, which is increasingly popular.

A light gray or tan felt hat, with high, tapering crown, punched-in in front, and the brim snapped down. White soft collar-attached shirt. If not a white shirt, then a blue one.

A necktie of small pattern on a solid background or darker shade in the more sober reds, blues, greens and browns.

Arnold's Name Proposed for Road

Augusta, Me., Jan. 23—A measure to designate United States route 201, from Brunswick, through Jackman to the Canadian line, will be introduced in the Legislature, according to Representative Sterling of Caratunk.

The measure proposes that it be called the Arnold Trail, for Benedict Arnold, who in 1775, led a force of American Revolutionists against the British in Quebec.

Law School Girls to Gather at Party

Portia Law School seniors will hold a bridge party at the Women's Republican Club, 46 Beacon st., this evening. They are assisted by the class presidents, Miss Pauline Rogers, of Boston, evening division, and Miss Doris Savage, of Brookline, day division.

Scientists Check Course of Fireball Over New York

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—The attention of astronomers was called today to a meteor of remarkable size and brilliance which was observed darting across the skies last night at various points from New Jersey to Vermont.

Hundreds of persons in Elmira, N. Y., saw what they described as a ball of fire with two lines of light behind it, sweep across the heavens shortly after 6 p. m. Mary Clegg Suffis, professor of astronomy at Elmira College, said the object was a meteor.

At Syracuse, N. Y., the meteor was visible for nearly a minute. Observers there said that flashes of light shot out from it as though it were disintegrating.

John E. Morse of South Newfane, Vt., and his wife said it appeared to be about the size of a large automobile headlight. It disappeared with an audible explosion.

Charles Earle, 14, of Atlantic City, N. J., said the meteor appeared about half the size of the moon. He said it was visible for about 15 seconds. It was bright red, with a tail of dark red and yellow. He estimated the length of the tail as about 20 times the diameter of the body of the meteor.

Prof. Caroline Furness of the astronomical department of Vassar College at Poughkeepsie, said the meteor probably was of the type known as a fireball, similar to the one observed November 19.

COPELAND BILL TO ABOLISH LIQUOR CURB

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—A bill to remove restrictions on the distribution of prescription liquor by physicians as recommended by the Wickersham commission was introduced today by Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York.

The New Yorker said the bill was designed to carry out the only recommendation the law enforcement commission had been able to agree upon—as far as he could see.

Prior to submitting suggestions concerning control of medicinal liquor, the commission concluded the removal of present restrictions would remove "causes of resentment on the part of the medical profession."

In addition to recommending that statutory fixing of the amount of liquor to be prescribed by physicians be abolished, the commission recommended abolition of the requirement of "specifying the ailment for which liquor is prescribed upon a blank to go into the public files."

It recommended also "leaving as much as possible to regulations rather than fixing details by statute."

Senator Copeland is a physician. His bill specifically would do away with the statutory fixing of the amount of medicinal liquor and the number of prescriptions which may be written by physicians and make it unnecessary to specify the ailment for which the liquor is prescribed.

SENATE VOTES BIG ROAD FUND

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—The $213,964,000 agriculture department appropriation bill carrying $125,000,000 to be immediately available for road construction, was passed today by the Senate.

The bill now goes back to the House and probably will be sent to conference for reconciliation of differences between the two branches.

The bill is the fourth to pass the Senate of the 11 supply bills which must be enacted at this session. None has been approved finally.

The Senate also added an amendment to provide for reappropriating about $2,500,000 for loans to drought-stricken farmers in North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama from the funds which have been repaid by farmers in those states from the emergency flood loans last year.

Girl, 18, Given Life for Killing Woman

Independence, Kan., Jan. 23 (AP)—Muriel Sullivan, 18-year-old assassin, pleaded guilty today to the murder of Mrs. Maude Martin of Coffeyville. She was sentenced to life imprisonment. The girl, a waitress at Seminole, Okla., confessed she shot Mrs. Martin for $85.

Mrs. Martin was slain, she said, to prevent her from testifying against Dr. S. A. Brainard, charged with performing illegal surgery which led to the death of Esther O'Dare Nidiffer.

Meyer Must Face Senate Inquiry

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Senate banking committee today appointed a sub-committee to investigate charges that Eugene Meyer, Jr., nominated as governor of the Federal Reserve Board, "conspired" to ruin the joint stock land banks.

Body of Perry Found at Liverpool

Liverpool, N. S., Jan. 23—The body of Antone Perry, fisherman of Provincetown, Mass., who was drowned Dec. 2 while attempting to board his ship, the Rhodora, of Gloucester, was recovered from the harbor here yesterday.

KNOCK THAT COLD IN A JIFFY

Here's Relief Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Cost only a few cents.

POLICE AMAZED BY CRATER WILL

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—The purported discovery of the will of Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater, who has been missing nearly six months, mystified authorities today.

Mrs. Stella Crater, his wife, casually told detectives yesterday that a will, leaving his entire estate to her, was among the documents and cash she reported finding in her Fifth ave. apartment after she returned from Portland, Me., last Sunday. It was signed in 1925, she said.

"I wish I knew whether he is alive or dead," she said. "I know he wanted me cared for. He wanted everything to go to me." By law, Mrs. Crater cannot claim the estate for seven years or until there is proof of her husband's death.

The fact that the will was not reported along with the first discoveries amazed authorities. Mrs. Crater's attorney said its existence had previously been known but she simply had neglected to mention it.

N. Y. 'BLOODS' IN ANNUAL FLING

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Society's big fling of the year, the Beaux Arts ball, will crowd the Hotel Astor tonight, with flame-colored pajamas and architects impersonating skyscrapers.

Once a year Park ave. revels publicly in a bal masque similar to Paris' bohemian quartet's art ball, and this year the party's a "fete moderne—a fantasie in flame and silver."

Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt will wear red pajamas. Mrs. J. S. Coeden's party of 12 will be dressed alike in red wigs and modernistic overalls with one red leg and one black.

Always a lavish party, the ball this year will be less costly than formerly. Thousands of dollars heretofore have been spent on a single dress. This year the simplicity of the ball allows lately depressed Wall Street families to get gay for a night in costumes costing mere hundreds of dollars.

Beaux Arts architects, who sponsor the ball, will come as skyscrapers they have designed. The ball is given for the benefit of the Beaux Arts Institute of Design's educational work.

These suits and overcoats were made expressly for The Continental—the product of months of study on our part and the manufacturer's to produce an unusual suit and overcoat at $22.50. The woolens are most unusual — select patterns, the popular colors. The models are all that's in vogue. Sizes are complete. Many conservative colors and patterns too. Many dressy woolens. Many hard finished hard wearing worsteds. After producing this suit for two consecutive years we now find the experiment unsuccessful — therefore you may have them for $16.

FATAL BLAST OF GAS IN LUNGS A RARE CASE

The death of Mrs. Maude Branton, 45, caused by an explosion of the kind while on a hospital operating table in Los Angeles was declared today by Boston doctors to have been one of the most rare accidents in the history of surgery.

A coroner's jury yesterday held that there was no negligence in the death of Mrs. Branton, which was caused by the "explosion of anaesthetic gases, the cause of which we are unable to determine."

No evidence of negligence of anyone connected with the operation was found.

SPARK IS BLAMED.

Several physicians and surgeons, including those engaged in the operation, testified they believed a spark of static electricity set off the anaesthetic gases. They testified they did not know the source of the static spark.

"Not knowing what kind of a knife was used for the operation, nor exactly what anaesthetic, it is difficult for me to assign a reason for this very rare accident," said Dr. Lewis Dexter, anaesthetist at City Hospital. "If a radio knife was used when either tchelene or nitrous oxide gases were administered, the static spark might easily have come from the radio knife battery.

RARE ACCIDENT.

"If an ordinary scalpel, such as is in common use in this hospital and in the State, was employed, it is a question where the static spark came from.

"According to the press dispatches on this case, gases were used for the anaesthetic, and so it is very hard to determine just what did happen. Such an accident has never occurred in this hospital and seldom has occured in any hospital."

Because of the ever present danger of such explosions in operating rooms doctors are always on watch to guard against them, Deputy Health Commissioner Dr. Victor Safford explained.

ETHER INFLAMMABLE

"Ether vapor, like gasoline, is highly inflammable," Dr. Safford said. "There is always a danger of sudden explosion when ether vapors mix with air. But this case in Los Angeles is very unusual because the doctors, being aware of the great danger of explosions were very careful. The last such case that I heard of occurred in Philadelphia 30 years ago."

In the old days when lamps were used in operating rooms extreme precautions had to be taken. Today, with electric illumination, and the strict regulations against smoking or lighted matches in any hospital operating room, the authorities are constantly on guard against static sparks, he added.

Sao Paulo to Greet Italian Sea Fliers

Sao Paulo, Brazil, Jan. 23 (INS)—Preparations were made today for a reception of Gen. Italo Balbo and his companions in the formation flight across the South Atlantic to Rio de Janeiro. The Italian aviators will journey here from the Brazilia seaplital today to receive the plaudits of at least 400,000 Italians.

Bermuda Lifts Auto Ban—for Doctors

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 23 (AP)—Tourists still must ride bicycles to get anywhere on the island in a hurry, but the House of Assembly has mitigated restrictions against motor vehicles to permit doctors to use them on professional calls.

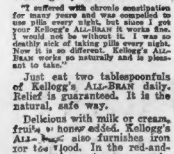
New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Creditors of Prince & Whitely, suspended from New York Stock Exchange, will receive an offer of 25 cents in cash and certificates to yield 75 cents on the dollar.

WHY TAKE PILLS?



There's no need to drug yourself with laxatives when constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal. Mr. F. C. Aminsen, Kennyhole, Washington, writes:

"I suffered with chronic constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night, but since I got your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN it works fine. I would not be without it. I was so deathly sick of taking pills every night. Now it is no different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally and is pleasant to take."

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily. Relief is guaranteed. It is the natural, safe way.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Brand New Dependable Merchandise

The Summerfield Co. goes far out of its way to protect its customers. Its policy is never to offer for sale merchandise that is not of dependable durable construction regardless of how low the price.

Saturday, 9 A.M. to 9 P.M.

If You Find It Hard to Believe That These Values Are Possible Read These Paragraphs

Summerfield's originated the one-price sale in Boston. It has been copied and exploited to the "nth" degree.

But we know, as you do, that imitations are rarely the equal of originals, and we feel sure that none of them offer you the quality, the variety, the value of a Summerfield Sale.

Thousands on seeing the statement, $29.50 to $59.50 values for $15, immediately doubt it, because it seems impossible.

We agree that it DOES SEEM unbelievable, but we say to you in all sincerity that in every case we make a deliberate policy of understanding rather than overstating our offerings.

We dislike to mention comparative prices because the practice is often abused and misleading.

But because we so sincerely want the New England public to realize the importance of these values, we here depart from our usual custom and give you the exact prices at which these items were originally marked in our stores, exclusive of intermediate reductions.

It is not our practice to use unbelievable, silly superlatives.

But because this sale is so unusual we feel that we are justified in telling you that there is hardly an adjective that can do it justice.

The Sale (Originated by Summerfield's in Boston)—That Makes Even Manufacturers Themselves Wonder How Such Values Are Possible—MUST Be Worth Investigating!

GIFFORD FAVORS RESUBMISSION OF DRY LAW

Washington, Jan. 23 (INS)—Members of Congress from Massachusetts have a mandate from their state to vote for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment, Rep. Charles Gifford (R) of Massachusetts, declared in the House today. He is classed as a dry.

At the same time, he said, he would oppose every attempt to weaken the enforcement power of the bureau of prohibition through limitations on appropriation bills.

Gifford's statement was made during discussion of an amendment to the Justice department appropriation bill, prohibiting employment of former convicts as agents. The amendment was defeated without a record vote.

"Many of you notice a remarkable change in the voting on the prohibition amendments yesterday," said Gifford. "I am one of those from Massachusetts who think we have a mandate from our people to vote for resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"If measures were submitted this session, I believe many from Massachusetts would vote for repeal of the amendment or the Volstead act.

"But we have witnessed a fight here to break down enforcement by limitations on appropriation bills. I shall not vote to weaken these agencies of enforcement."

Mexican Town Is Wiped Out by Quake

Mexican City, Jan. 23 (AP)—Miahuatlan, in the state of Oaxaca, was entirely destroyed by last week's earthquakes. Not a house was left standing in the town, a government commission reported today. Several thousand inhabitants are living in tents. Twenty people were killed. Another tremor shook Oaxaca yesterday, but there was no damage.

New Arrest Is Made in Buckley Killing

Detroit, Jan. 23 (AP)—Frank Cammarata, gangster named last August by Thomas C. Wilcox, then police commissioner, as one of the men responsible for the killing of Jerry Buckley, radio speaker, was arrested today in a residence on Eastlawn ave.

Senate Votes Probe of Tomato Tariff

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Senate today adopted a resolution by Senator Hayden, Democrat, Arizona, directing the Tariff Commission to investigate the difference in cost of production at home and abroad of tomatoes, peppers and green peas.

Train Whistle Ban in Andover Refused

A petition by Andover residents to restrain Boston & Maine trains from blowing whistles in early morning at two grade crossings in the town was dismissed after a hearing today before the Department of Public Utilities.

Light Frocks Have Smart Look

By ANN ARDEN

MODEL, From C. F. HOVEY CO.—American Staff Photo

IT TAKES a strong constitution to keep pace with the young school crowd home for the holidays. They dash madly from luncheon, to matinee, to tea-dance and on into the night. Now and then it is possible to catch one or two of them sufficiently static to notice what the general fashion trend is.

* * *

SUCH WAS our luck the other day at luncheon—we chose the smartest luncheon rendezvous in town and then sat, crumpet in hand, waiting for arrivals. It seemed that everyone was late, so there was much hub-bub to find tables and companions, but once they were settled we started making mental notes.

* * *

LIGHT FROCKS verging on the pastel range were most popular. We saw two charming dresses. One was a canton crepe dress with simulated peplum; it had a hand-finished jabot and interesting sleeves. In a clear aquamarine shade. The other, also a crepe, was in a soft rose shade with chiffon and Valenciennes lace at neck and sleeves. Gold and a light green were other colors seen repeatedly.

* * *

OVER THESE light frocks practically everyone wore the dark coat with dark fur. A stunning black broadcloth model with a striking collar of Persian lamb had an interesting side button closing.

* * *

THESE LIGHT colors happily accent the dark coat and offer a charming diversion from the black or brown of the winter ensemble. They bring a gay hint of the spring season to give a bright fillip to the winter wardrobe.

* * *

THE SMART frock pictured is a one-piece affair in a Periwinkle blue silk crepe. Groups of inverted pleats are placed low on the skirt each side of front and back panels. The upper section is in double-breasted effect, marked with four large buttons, and topped with square-cut revers.

* * *

THE SHORT sleeves are banded in fur, and the belt is run through buckle of the material. The hat is black, in alternate bands of felt and Panamalac straw, its flare brim caught with black and white cire cords. The sueds gloves are in three-quarter length.

2 Admit Slaying and 89 Robberies

Chicago, Jan. 23 (AP)—Police today said they held two young men who had confessed a slaying and 89 robberies. Francis Smith, 23, and Lester Frankel, 27, admitted responsibility, they said, for the death of Robert Wallace of Evanston, head of a firm of architects, who was caught in the crossfire of a running battle between police and two bandits several weeks ago.

CANADA PRIME MINISTER TO VISIT HOOVER

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Prime Minister Bennett of Canada is considering a visit to Washington to confer with President Hoover.

State Department and Canadian legation officials declined today to discuss the conversations regarding the projected visit.

One report was that the Premier would arrive within a week to discuss with President Hoover Canadian-American problems.

One of the most important questions between the two governments and on which the next move is up to Canada is that of the St. Lawrence waterway development.

Before he left to attend the imperial conference in London, Bennett had before him a note from the American government setting the attitude of his government toward pushing forward of the St. Lawrence project. The Canadian government has not replied to that note.

Man Shot Years Ago Coughs Up a Bullet

Havana, Jan. 23 (AP)—Fifteen years ago, the Heraldo de Cuba said today, Arturo Rente was accidentally shot and the pistol bullet entered his head. The doctors said operation for its removal would be fatal.

Yesterday, Rente, who had almost forgotten the wound himself, coughed and the bullet flew out of his mouth.

Republican Leader Named in Perjury

Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 23 (AP)—Victor Seymour, former western manager of the Republican Senatorial Committee, today was charged with perjury by a Federal grand jury. George W. Norris, Broken Bow, Neb., grocer, who attempted to oppose Senator George W. Norris in the Republican primary, also was indicted.

YOUTH HELD BY COURT IN BACK BAY KILLING

Orrin Taylor, alias Gerald Lee, who confessed yesterday to slaying Theodore Chychuk, a Back Bay lunchroom owner, nearly four years ago, pleaded not guilty to murder in Roxbury Court today and was held without bail for the grand jury by Judge Ahern.

The 27-year-old youth had a lawyer, Curtis G. Metzler, who, in his behalf, waived the reading of a complaint received earlier today from Judge Miles of the same court by Sgt. Maurice Sullivan and Special Officer Joseph Condon of the Back Bay division.

There was no testimony before Judge Ahern. Taylor, neatly dressed, stood calmly in the dock during the brief proceedings. He seemed tired and told police he had been unable to sleep much last night.

In obtaining the complaint from Judge Miles, Sergt. Sullivan outlined Taylor's alleged confession. He had formerly worked for Chychuk in the Puritan lunchroom, 280 Huntington ave., and went back to get money he knew was kept in a coffee can in the icebox. The owner found him and attacked him with a cleaver, whereupon Taylor fired twice the confession said.

Taylor must face a larceny charge in Municipal Court where his chum, George van Hoff, was arraigned today for armed robbery and illegal possession of a revolver. Van Hoff was held in $30,000 for the grand jury.

Tax on Cigarettes Looms in Vermont

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 23 (AP)—The first gun in what may become a legislative battle to impose a state tax on cigarets was fired in Vermont today.

The Bennington delegation in the House went on record as favoring a tax of one cent on a package of 20 cigarets and a proportional levy on greater quantities. The tax would be collected through wholesalers.

Never saw SUDS like these, women say

Mrs. M. A. S.—
"Swift lather loosens dirt"

"I wouldn't have believed a soap with any 'body' to it could dissolve so quickly and completely," says a Roxbury letter. "But I soon found out that these Granules suds are real Chipso suds. An hour's soaking loosened the dirt so that my clothes needed only gentle rubbing. And the suds were still there!"

Mrs. C. R.—
"I like having suds 'on tap'"

"Making suds with Chipso Granules is as easy as turning a faucet. That's all I ever do, in fact—just pour on water and let my clothes stand in those wonderful suds till rubbing time! I just wish I had 'before and after' pictures to show you how Chipso Granules have helped my hands."

"Now my washday is shorter as well as easier," writes Mrs. C. B., of Northampton

Letters from all over New England tell how enthusiastic women are about Chipso Granules. These women are delighted with this time-saving way of washing clothes and dishes. Chipso Granules, you know, are rich Chipso suds in ready, prepared form. Water—even lukewarm water—turns these tiny steam-dried bubbles into rich, creamy, cleansing lather. Every bit of soap dissolves right away. Try Chipso Granules for yourself!

Mrs. R. B.—
"Pretty is as pretty does!"

"The washing-machine salesman introduced me to Chipso Granules. 'Did you ever see prettier suds?' he asked me as he lifted the top off the washer. I never had; but I assured him that it was what they did to my clothes that interested me. My very first wash answered that question. Chipso Granules suds work even better than they look!"

Mrs. A. H.—
"Keep hands soft for fine sewing"

"As I do a great deal of fancy sewing, dishes and clothes-washing were trials to me. The strong soaps I felt I had to use for quick results roughened my hands. With Chipso Granules, however, I don't have to 'work up' my suds and that saves a lot in itself. These wonderful suds soak dirt away, too; I do far less rubbing, and dishes are easy. Now my hands don't 'catch' even in satin."

Hundreds Delayed by Disabled Trolley

Hundreds of residents of Brookline, Jamaica Plain and Chestnut Hill were delayed in reaching their destinations early today as a result of the breakdown of an inbound Jamaica Plain-Subway street car at Huntington ave. and Forsyth st.

Following many attempts to move the car and its trailer under their own power, they were finally pushed by another car to a crossover and passengers transferred. This ended the tieup, which lasted nearly half an hour.

Warns of Fraud on Storekeepers

Back Bay and Jamaica Plain police today were warned by City Clerk Wilfred Doyle to watch for a man selling bogus business certificates to small store owners. The city requires each person doing business under a trade name to file a business certificate with a 50-cent fee. The alleged swindler is charging store keepers $2 each for the bogus certificates Doyle received 15 complaints today.

New Infantile Paralysis Serum Found

London, Jan. 23 (INS)—Prevention of infantile paralysis in lower animals by inoculation and a strong probability that human beings may enjoy similar immunity from the scourge in the future was revealed today at St. George's Hospital.

Dr. James Collier, lecturer on forensic medicine at the institute, announced that Dr Weston Hurst of the Lister Institute of Preventive Medicine discovered the infantile paralysis serum.

Dr. Hurst, credited with the discovery, is author of several medical books and a fellow of the Royal Society of Medicine.

Police Besiege Revolting Students

Lima, Peru, Jan. 23 (AP)—University students, protesting against measures of reform proposed by the authorities, have locked themselves inside the building and for two days have been "besieged" by the police. Every now and then students appear at windows and shout:

"We are hungry. We are thirsty. Down with the rector!"

Undertakers Hit by Depression

Chicago, Jan. 23 (AP)—The undertaking business, which those in it claim is an unfailing barometer of financial conditions, cites data to substantiate a surprising statement that fewer persons die in periods of depression, and that increasing mortality indicates improved business.

The reason for this mortality reduction, the undertakers say, is that fewer people are making "whoopee," and are eating more sanely and economically.

Young Folks to Attend Dance at Algonquin Club

EVELYN ROYCE CHARLES PIERSON KATHERINE HEDGE SYDNEY GRAVES

MISS EVELYN ROYCE, Mr. Charles Pierson, Miss Katherine Hedge and Mr. Sydney Graves will be among the young so-

Many Dinners to Precede Dance at Algonquin Club

PRECEDED BY A NUMBER of fashionable dinners this evening, the first subscription dance of the season will take place at the Algonquin Club. There will be another one later in the season. They seem to have taken the place of the senior supper dances of other seasons, and invitations are eagerly sought by the smart young crowd. The chairman of the committee is Mrs. Frederick Dabney of Medfield and Miss Agnes Boardman is assisting her. Mrs. George Richmond Fearing, 3d, a sister of Mrs. Dabney's, Miss Rosamond Blanchard, Miss Mary Otis, Miss Rachael Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Thacher, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Gelston Kip are among those entertaining before the dance.

MRS. IRVAN LESTER, WISTER of 32 Hubbard pk., off Fenway, will entertain at a dinner dance this evening at the Hotel Statler in honor of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Wister, whose engagement to Mr. Robert Hallowell Gardiner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hallowell Gardiner of Gardiner, Me., was announced recently. Mrs. Wister will also entertain at dinner tomorrow evening at the Statler before the dance at the Algonquin Club.

MRS. GEORGE JACKSON HILL, JR. (Betty Heath), of Heath Hill, Brookline, gave a large tea-party yesterday afternoon. She has recently returned from Washington where she has been visiting her sister-in-law, Miss Lucy Hill.

AT THE CHILTON CLUB today there is being held the first gathering of women in the interest of the National Women's Committee for Washington Cathedral. A committee headed by Mrs. Herbert Hoover as honorary chairman is composed of many well-known women of the United States who are working throughout the nation to awaken interest in the Cathedral. Mrs. Frederick S. Converse is chairman of the New England division and Mrs. Robert Amory of Readville is vice-chairman. These women are hostesses today and among those expected to attend are Mrs. John Lowell, honorary chairman for Massachusetts, Mrs. John Winant, honorary chairman for New Hampshire, Mrs. William H. Schofield, chairman for New Hampshire, Mrs. Robert Hallowell Gardiner, chairman for Maine, and Mrs. Charles H. Merriam, vice-chairman for Rhode Island.

OTHERS EXPECTED TO ATTEND are Mrs. G. Bramwell Baker, Mrs. J. Coby Bassett, Mrs. Francis W. Clapper, Mrs. Charles E. Mason, Mrs. J. Franklin McKiwain, Mrs. Ralph Lowell, Mrs. Robert C. Morse, Mrs. Frances M. Seamans, Mrs. George S. Selfridge, Miss Elizabeth Storer, Mrs. Richard C. Storey, Mrs. William O. Taylor, Miss Ellen G. Todd and Humphrey F. Redfield, secretary of the committee who will outline the work that is spread through every state of the Union. The effort in behalf of the Washington Cathedral has the endorsement of the presiding bishop of Episcopal Church and his blessing for its work.

Ball Styles Stunning

By BARON GEORGE WRANGEL

Universal Service Special Cable

St. Moritz, Switzerland, Jan. 23—One should really have an airplane for travel between the ice and snow of Switzerland and the sun and warmth of the Riviera. Those back here from Monte Carlo for the gala ball at the palace found the trip genuinely worth while, for the showing of gowns was really stunning.

There was the Duchess of Alba in black charmeuse and the Marquise De Polignac (the former Nina Crosby) in iridescent black with silver shoulder straps and magnificent diamonds.

In the dancing competition, Miss Alva Sergeant, gowned in pearl gray georgette with matching pearls, and Mrs Samuel Goldwyn, in silver brilliante on a white background, both won prizes.

Mrs. Arthur Vincent was present in a printed flower chiffon and Mrs Hubert Martineau, the former Maimie Morris of Chicago, in scarlet with pearls as her jewels.

Miss Muriel Ames Gives Recital for Nursing Alumnae

MISS MURIEL AMES, daughter of Dr and Mrs John L. Ames of 87 Chestnut st, one of the directors of the Household Nursing Association gave a piano recital for the members of the Alumnae Association and the School of the Household Nursing last evening at the headquarters, 222 Newbury st. Mrs. Frederick Cook sang.

MRS. CHARLES F ALMY, JR., Dr. Thomas Ayer, Miss Leslie Beebe, William Andrew Bird, Mrs. Margaret S. Carter, Stewart M. Davis and Miss Dorothy Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. Florence Coles of Boston are sailing today on the Homeric for a 63-day cruise in the Mediterranean.

MRS. SAMUEL CABOT, Miss AIMEE LAMB, Miss Katherine W. Lane and Miss Amelia Peabody will pour at a tea to be given on Monday afternoon, January 26, from 4 until 6, at a private view to open an exhibition of paintings by John P. Benson at the Guild of Boston Artists, 162 Newbury st.

Children's Charter Read at Federation Meeting

By NANCY BREWSTER

Seventeen hundred members of the State Federation heard the 19 principles of the children's charter, which was adopted by President Hoover's child welfare conference, read at the mid-winter meeting at the Hotel Statler yesterday, when Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar, General Federation welfare chairman, presented them with strong recommendation for their wide distribution by clubs throughout the State.

Mrs. Dunbar's address, as well as that of William N. Doak U. S. Secretary of Labor, was broadcast over radio station WBZA.

19 PRINCIPLES

The 19 principles follow:

1—Spiritual and moral training to help children stand firm under the pressure of life.

2—Understanding and guarding his personality as his most precious right.

3—A home with the love and security that a home provides.

6—Wholesome mental and physical recreation.

7—A home environment safe, sanitary, harmonious and enriching.

8—Properly equipped schools, museums and kindergartens.

9—Community that is conscious of its duty to provide for his culture and social needs.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

10—Vocational guidance that will yield him the maximum of satisfaction.

11—Training for parenthood, homemaking and citizenship.

12—Protection against accidents due to modern conditions.

13—Training for the physically handicapped child to make him a community asset instead of a liability.

14—Intelligent dealing, when he is in conflict with society, by the home, school, church and courts.

15—The right to grow up in a family with adequate living standards to insure social harmony.

RURAL DISTRICTS NEED AID

17—In rural districts the extension of social, educational, recreational and cultural opportunities.

18—Encouragement in development of voluntary youth organizations.

DR. SMITH SPEAKS

In direct harmony with this program was the plea of Dr. Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education, who asked for the support of club women on the bill filed in the Legislature to increase educational requirements.

"This measure is not directed at unemployment relief," Dr. Smith declared, "but if it had been adopted a year ago, the 10,000 children now employed in Massachusetts industries would be in school and men out of work would be holding their jobs."

The bill provides for raising the age limit from 14 to 15 years, the grade from six to seven and continuous school opportunities to 17 years.

CLUBS ENDORSE BILLS

The federation went on record as endorsing the measures providing for pasteurized milk; the state program for the study of rheumatism; for special probation officers for juveniles in district courts; and for four safeguards for child adoption, provided by Theodore F. Lathrop, secretary of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

The adoption bill, proposed by Mr. Lathrop, provides for the investigation of all petitions for adoption; a trial residence of six months; the denial of right of appeal to parents who have neglected their duty towards the children; and the subjection of advertisements for adoption to the Department of Public Welfare for approval.

General Fedcration to Hold Biennial • Meeting in Seattle

Announcement that the 1932 biennial convention of the General Federation will be held in Seattle, Wash., was greeted with applause when Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, Massachusetts candidate for president, promised a lively campaign in that distant city.

Mrs. Poole was given a prolonged ovation when she rose to address the convention after being introduced with a glowing tribute by Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, state president.

"Dr. Gilbreth, vice-chairman of President Hoover's committee on emergency unemployment, told me that Massachusetts topped every state in the country for efficiency in our relief work in the Welfare Chest," Mrs. Poole reported.

"Furthermore, New England tops the nation in its strides against the billboard nuisance. Massachusetts hotel men were the first to order down their billboards from our highways. This sets an example to the entire country."

19,000 CASES OF FLU IN U. S.

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—An estimate of more than 19,000 influenza cases in the United States was made by public health officials today, on the basis of reports showing 3887 recorded for the week ending January 17.

"There is an outbreak in Europe as well," Surgeon-General Cumming said, "it has abated in Poland and France, but still is extensive in Germany and England.

"Apparently it is in mild form abroad also. The prevalence here is above the normal curve for the season—but not nearly so widespread as in 1928-1929."

Round Table Awards

Six awards of $1 each will be published each Saturday for the best contributions chosen from those printed in this column during the week. The household suggestions may include not only recipes, but any sort of helpful hints for housewives—economical cookery or housekeeping in any of its forms.

Address all contributions to Martha Lee, Boston Evening American, 8 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass.

HAM BAKED IN CIDER
With Cornmeal Covering

Wipe the ham with a damp cloth. Make a dough of 4 cups of cornmeal and 1 cup of flour. Place this dough on the ham from ¾ to ¼ inch in thickness, covering the ham all over. Put the covered ham in a roaster, place in a moderate oven uncovered for a few minutes until the cornmeal is hard and slightly browned. Lower the temperature and bake slow for 4 or 5 hours. Punch holes in the cornmeal and pour in sweet cider from time to time, or use grape juice or the juice from peach or pear pickles. Remove ham from the oven shortly before serving. Break off the crust, wipe free from the cornmeal and rub liberally with brown sugar. Put back in the oven for a few minutes until sugar begins to melt. Serve immediately with a crown of pierced cranberries on toothpicks and a border of spiced red apples.

SPICED RED APPLES

Select firm red apples. Make a syrup in a large flat pan from 2½ cups water and ¾ cup sugar. Add a pinch of cinnamon and nutmeg and a few drops of red fruit coloring. Peel and core apples and simmer in the syrup, turning gently from time to time until clear and transparent. Arrange around the ham.—Mrs. E. M. Drake, 433 Warren st., Roxbury, Suite 4.

PINEAPPLE COOKIES

Beat 1 egg, add 1-3 cup of sugar slowly, ¼ cup of chopped walnuts, ½ cup of thoroughly drained pineapple, grated, ¼ cup of flour that has been mixed and sifted with ¼ tsp. of salt and 2 tsps. of baking powder. Drop by spoonfuls in a greased pan and bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes.—Mrs. John T. Leslie, 338 Pleasant st., Winthrop.

Delightful Night Snack

Diet or no diet, I want my bedtime snack. After a fairly early dinner and a long busy evening, 11 o'clock finds me just plain hungry. Sometimes I exercise lots of will power, thinking hard of superfluous calories, and go to bed, only to toss and turn until I cast good resolutions to the winds and forage the ice box. I've found, though, that I am sure of a good night's sleep if I'm careful what I choose for this bedtime snack. And it's usually a bowl of cool milk with several of those popular cream lunch crackers, made in the sunny bakeries of the thousand windows. You know the crackers I mean. I am sure—the ones that come in the economical wax-wrapped pantry package that brings them to you oven fresh? These plump, easily-digested rounds of health are creamy, tender and flavorful and as good to eat as they are for you.

Correct Table Service Holds the Interest of All Housewives

Martha Lee Relates Simple Fundamentals of the Proper Setting

How to set a table correctly is a question that's interesting to both the novice and experienced housewife, since fashions do change in table setting even as in dresses, but there are a few simple fundamentals of table service on which we can safely build.

Firstly, have your table service simple. It is far better to attempt only as much as you can do well than to try to imitate the elaborate rituals of the richest lady in town.

SPOTLESS LINEN

But the first rule is positive and that is that hot foods shall be served on hot plates and cold foods cold on chilled plates. No good housekeeper can afford to overlook this fundamental.

The next rule applies to spotless linen and shining silver. In many homes, the tablecloth is but a memory. A painted varnished or rubber finish table requires only little runners or square doilies and these are so easy to rinse out that the last excuse for soiled table appointments has vanished.

These runners or squares can be made of almost anything from checkered gingham to Italian cutwork.

KNIVES AT RIGHT

There are so many short cuts to shining silver nowadays that the weekly scouring and rubbing is a thing of the past in most homes. It is convenient to keep a little jar of silver polish near the sink, to shine up a stained piece of flatware as it goes through the washing ceremony.

Even the simplest meal requires that each place be carefully set with the proper utensils. Knives have their unvarying place at the right of the plate with the sharp edge of the knife turned toward the plate.

The fork is at the left with the prongs upward. The water glass stands about an inch above the point of the knife and the bread and butter plate stands on the opposite side just above the fork.

A small butter plate goes at the end of the fork with the butter knife either across the top or at the right-hand edge of the plate. Additional silver and glass is added as the meal may require and of course the inevitable napkin appears, usually at the left of the fork, although sometimes on the plate.

CHEERY SMILE CAPS ALL

I do try to polish up my best smile for breakfast and try to have the table just as attractive as possible. This seems the least we can do to help start the day right.

Fashion favors colored breakfast cloths or white cloths with colored borders and smart napkins to match are helpful. If it isn't possible to have a flower or two in a small vase, an artificial bud of the best quality is not to be despised.

In setting the breakfast table, first comes the bread and butter plate, butter knife and water glass. If you are going to have melon, orange, grapefruit or prunes for the first course, the necessary spoons should be placed at the right of the knife. A dessert spoon for cereal may be laid between the knife and fruit spoon.

Boiled eggs would call for the addition of a tablespoon, which would be placed next to the knife and the cereal and fruit spoons would move over to the outside places. Silver should be laid in the order of its use, the pieces last to be used being on the inside next to the plate.

FRUIT COURSE

If coffee is poured at the table, a teaspoon should be placed on the saucer.

If a fruit course is to be served, this can be placed on the table before the family gathers, with the breakfast napkin to the left of the place just beside the plate.

If coffee is not made in a percolator at the table, it should be strained in the kitchen into a fine china, silver or earthenware pot. Toasts or hot breads are served in a basket or on a tray in a folded fresh napkin large enough to keep the heat in.

Avoid crowding a small table. A tea wagon is a wonderful server for the housekeeper and may stand beside the dining room table holding fresh china and silver, while the soiled plates and silver are piled on its lower shelf.

Later we'll talk about the family and company luncheon.

Eggs a la Tripe

This is an old-fashioned recipe popular with the new generation. Peel and cook six medium-sized onions in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and reserve the liquid. Separate six hard cooked eggs, mashing the yolks and cutting the whites in long thin slices. Melt four tbsp. butter and blend with six tbsp. flour, one tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. pepper. Gradually pour in three cups milk and one cup onion liquid combined. Cook and stir until mixture thickens. Add the egg yolks and whites and pour over the onions that have been transferred to an oiled, shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with four tsp. buttered crumbs and brown in hot oven (375 deg.) for 10 minutes.

Lemon Souffle

When you are serving a vegetable dinner or any meal that lacks protein, here's an excellent dessert to balance it. Separate six eggs. Beat yolks thick and lemon-colored. Beat whites until stiff. Gradually beat into the yolks five tbsp. powdered sugar ¼ tsp. salt and one tbsp. lemon juice. Fold in the whipped egg whites. Transfer to a buttered baking dish. Bake in moderate oven for 30 minutes, or until brown and puffy and firm in the center.

Finds Peppers Handy In Kitchen and On Table

By MARTHA LEE

FROM MARTHA LEE'S FRIDAY MORNING BROADCAST OVER STATION WLEX

Paeans of praise for the pepper family, especially the pimiento. This gay scarlet vegetable, so deliciously flavored and decorative was originally a native American plant, but later was cultivated in Spain and Italy for commercial canning. Recently however, America has added pimiento canning to her talent and vast acres of this popular vegetable have been planted in Georgia and California — if you're interested in geography. The pimientos selected for canning are large, smooth-skinned, deep threads and sweet. They are first roasted until the skin is easily removed, then they are cored and steamed, and slipped whole into the cans. They range in size from the 10c jar to the large tins for hotel use. Personally I prefer the size that contains six of the whole peppers and find that if you scrape any left-over peppers without leaving a trace of olive oil they will keep in the ice-box safely, instead of quickly moulding as they usually do.

Martha Lee

Not only do pimientos add color to unattractive pan dishes, such as creamed chicken, creamed fish, etc. but they lend an elusive and piquant flavor that's all their own. And they're invaluable for decorating.

STUFF WITH VEGETABLES

However, don't limit your use of pimientos. Try standing the whole pimientos in well buttered muffin pans and then served on the platter. With a sprig of parsley between each pimiento, a colorful border appears to decorate the crispy roasted critter.

A delicious pimiento and rice soup may be made by adding ½ c. of strained tomato juice to 4 c. of thin white sauce. Season with salt, tabasco sauce and finally add 2 finely minced pimientos. Mix together 4 tbsps. of cream and 2 egg yolks. Add to the soup and bring to a boil. Then add ½ c. of fluffy cooked rice and keep hot but do not let boil again.

ATTRACTIVE SALADS

Stuffed pimientos make attractive salads, too. For filling, prepare a French dressing and stir 2-3 c. of celery, 2-3 c. of diced orange stand for half an hour in it. Then add 2-3 c. of pecan meats and moisten with mayonnaise. Stuff the pimientos and serve in a nest of crisp lettuce. Pimiento cream toast is not to be despised and is easily made by adding 4 finely diced pimientos to a rich white sauce, well-seasoned with salt and pepper, and thickened with 2 tbsps. of butter and 2 tbsps. of flour to 1½ c. of thin cream or top milk. This pimiento cream is also good on waffles. And do try eggs scrambled with pimientos. Beat 4 eggs slightly. Add 4 tbsps. of milk, ½ tsp. of salt, dash of pepper and 4 pimientos diced fine. Scramble in plenty of butter. Serve piping hot. Yum's Yum!

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

THE MYSTERY OF GERALDINE

By ANTHONY ABBOT

Police Dig Up Bits of Note Telling of Quarrel

How the Story Started

Geraldine Foster, a very attractive young reception clerk in the Washington sq. office of Dr. Humphrey Maskell, "Laughing Doctor," vanished from her Morningside Heights apartment in The Esplanade on the night before Christmas. Her roommate, Betty Canfield, reported her disappearance to police three days after Christmas and appealed directly to Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt for aid. He starts the police on the trail and goes himself to the apartment to search and question Betty. Torn letter of Geraldine's found in her desk interests Colt. Then he visits Dr. Maskell, who tells of a mysterious dark woman caller.

(Now Go On

CHAPTER 7

The Two Jugs

COLT told Mrs. Morgan the story that had just been told to him by Dr. Maskell. To all its details Mrs. Morgan nodded confirmingly. It was true that her little daughter, Doris, had helped the doctor with the distribution of his Christmas presents. It was true that they had been gone on their trip about the length of time fixed by Maskell.

"Might we talk to your daughter?" suggested Colt.

"She is asleep," protested the mother, upon which Thatcher Colt waved his hand, dismissing the notion. But Mrs. Morgan agreed that Thatcher Colt might question the little girl, if it ever became necessary, unless her father objected. Mr. Morgan was not then at home.

For the second time that night, we left the house and returned to the street. There were a dozen questions clamoring in my mind, but the mood of Thatcher Colt forbade any inquiry just then.

A Lioness

"A lioness of a woman, that Fellse organ," was his only comment.

Indeed, when his mind is working on a problem in crime, Thatcher Colt is never a talkative man. All the way to headquarters he was silent and contemplative, smoking his pipe as he lounged back in the car. Centre Street was deserted when we reached the grim old department building, with its marble trim and its ornamental iron, very massive and Georgian in the December night. I was glad to get inside, for there was a raw, pneumonia wind abroad. As we walked through the vaulted stone corridors, past the marble tablets carved with the names of policemen and detectives who died in the performance of their duty, our footsteps echoed on the resounding flagstones. Still Thatcher Colt remained silent, but the very atmosphere of the old building, a place of badges, raincoats, billies, caps and handcuffs, seemed to charge him with new life. No Commissioner ever loved the department with more ardent or fanatical interest.

On his desk lay a stack of reports and he began to finger them swiftly—accounts of what was going forward in the police work of many divisions, the police, the bomb, the safe and loft squads, the Bureau of Crime Prevention—he gathered their import with acquisitive eyes.

Several Clues

From a mass of these documents he picked up a lay-out for a police circular, prepared by Capt. Laird, in broadcast the search for Geraldine Foster. It was ready to go to the printer, and a few days later was being displayed all over the country. With a pencil, Thatcher Colt made a few swift corrections.

Then, while I spread out on a table the long key with its knot of blue ribbon, the letters, the coat and the purse that belonged to Geraldine Foster, all of which would be turned over to the headquarters' property clerk, the commissioner continued to read quickly through a sheaf of notes left for him by Capt. Henry.

"Laird has found nothing," he said glumly. "And Burke telephoned he had plowed through the first waste paper bale and had found none of the missing pieces. But I will put a tail on Dr. Maskell—that may help" —by which the Commissioner meant he would have Maskell followed, night and day.

I sat down at the typewriter and began to transcribe my notes. In my book, I had complete records of all that had been told us by Betty Canfield, the Fosters, Mrs. Morgan and Dr. Humphrey Maskell. As I reduced the potbooks to typewritten sheets, it seemed to me—though, God knows, with no sense of disloyalty—that all of Tatcher Colt's questions, his groping for evidence and witnesses had led him only into an increasing mystery and darkness, instead of nearer to the light.

By noon of the following day, there was still no word of Geraldine Foster. Thatcher Colt had spent most of the morning at the

Milkman Saves Twenty-five in North End Blaze

Twenty-five persons, including several small children, were driven to the street early today when fire broke out in the store of the Crown China Co. on the first floor of a brick dwelling house at 82-84 Prince st, North End.

The fire was discovered by a milkman making deliveries. He sounded the alarm.

Police from the Hanover st. station went into the burning building and aroused the occupants, many of whom were sleeping soundly. Several of the young ones who were brought to the street in their parents, were attired only in night clothes.

The fire worked up to the second and third floors. Heavy smoke damage was caused.

The store where the fire started deals in crockery. The building is owned by Charles Rosen. Police and Fire Chief Henry A. Fox, of the Boston fire department are investigating the blaze.

CALLS DOCTOR 'STAR STATE POLITICIAN'

Mental Diseases Chief Ready to Answer Charges of Alien Favoritism

Frank A. Goodwin, who yesterday charged that Dr. George M. Kline, head of the State Department of Mental Diseases, was employing aliens in his department while residents of Massachusetts remained unemployed, today strenuously objected to Dr. Kline answering the charges at a secret session before the committee on public service.

"If Dr. Kline has anything to say about the charges let him say it in public," Goodwin declared. "And if he appears before the committee I want to be there to hear him."

Apparently angered by Dr. Kline's statement to the effect that he would gladly appear before the committee to answer the charges, Goodwin stated:

"I hope they do call him before the committee, but I would suggest to the members of the body that the time has arrived when Dr. Kline should not be permitted to go into executive session and tell his end of the story in secret. "IS STAR POLITICIAN"

READY TO GIVE FACTS

"He has been getting away with it for a long time in this State. I do not question his ability as a physician, but that is only a sideline with him. He is probably the best politician in the State service.

"He has been employing foreigners in the State service for several years and it is about time to put a stop to it."

Goodwin also reiterated the charges he hurled yesterday while speaking in support of a bill which would give Massachusetts citizens preference in employment in public positions by the State, county and municipalities.

"If the committee was at all seriously impressed with what Mr. Goodwin had to say I will be glad to supply them with the facts in the matter," Dr. Kline said.

GRACE IS NAMED POLICE CAPTAIN

Lieut. Harry T. Grace of the Milk st. police station will be promoted to the rank of captain in general orders to be issued by Police Commissioner Hultman tonight.

Sergt. James F. Blaney, now attached to Supt. Crowley's office, will be promoted to the grade of lieutenant in another order.

Lieut. Blaney will remain at his present post and Lieut. William Lewis of Station 18 will take Lieut. Grace's place at Milk st.

Patrolman George Gardiner, who has been serving as a special officer at Lagrange st. station, will be promoted to a sergeancy at a station to be announced later.

Girl Is Fined as Shoplifter

Helen and Doris Wagner, arrested on charges of shoplifting in a department store, pleaded guilty in Municipal Court today when arraigned on charges of larceny of a dress valued at $16.50 and two books, valued at $2 each.

This being their first offense the girls were given light sentences by the court. Helen was fined $25 and sentence suspended until Feb 22. Doris was fined $25 and given until July 26 to pay.

$50 Weekly for News and Picture Tips

Do you want to get money for being alert? If so, the Boston Evening American offers the opportunity. Each week $50 in prizes will be given for news and picture tips telephoned in to the News-Tip Editor, at Liberty 4000.

What is a news tip? It's the information that something of interest to Greater Bostonians has taken place or will take place. Do you know, for instance, that an interesting picture is to be obtained, that an accident or an unusual event has happened, that there is going to be a business merger? That's a news tip.

If you have a camera, take a picture of some news event, while it is happening. Bring your action pictures to the American quick. Delay often spoils them for use.

There will be $15 given weekly for the best or the most unusual event news tip received; $10 for the next best; $5 for the next best, and $2 prizes for each of the 10 next most valuable tips. Of course, the first one who turns in the tip in an interesting event receives the award on that particular item. Anyone who is alive and alert can win.

'Beer Mashers' Asked Not to Put Mash in the Sewers

This beer business isn't all froth at all—and would you kindly put your old, second-hand beer mash into ash barrels and not in the sewers. It's such a handicap to the sewer system.

It would be much easier handled and cheerfully and without any [illegible] put into ash barrels and covered with a spot of ashes—just to kill the odor.

This is official advice. Save the sewer and you save all.

NEW KIDNAP THREATS TO GREENOUGH REVEALED

Payment of $2500 Demanded on Penalty of "Getting" Beacon St. Baby

Police guard was placed today on the home of Senator Henry Parkman, Jr., at 182 Beacon st., Back Bay, as the result of receipt of a fourth threatening letter by Mrs. Malcolm W. Greenough, society leader, whose mother is now Mrs. Parkman.

Senator Parkman has been active in aiding the police to run down clews contained in previous letters received by Mrs. Greenough in which the senders threatened disfigurement of her child, a boy, born December 13.

Mrs. Greenough, wealthy in her own right, is the wife of a former Harvard football captain who inherited $1,000,000 upon his graduation a few years ago.

MAY ENCIRCLE RUIZ

Announcement that a fourth letter had been received by Mrs Greenough came simultaneously with a tentative report of a New York handwriting expert which, according to the Boston police tends to exonerate Mazin E. Ruiz of Cumberland st., now held on the charge of threatening the Back Bay matron.

"If you don't have the $2500 ready for us when we ask for it, we will 'get' the child," the fourth letter to her said, according to the police.

Previous letters had asked that the money be placed at a corner of the Public Gardens. The latest one demands that Mrs. Greenough carry the $2500 around with her to have it ready for delivery at a moment's notice.

A guard which had previously been placed at her home at 615 Beacon st., and which was removed with the arrest of Ruiz, has been replaced.

Receipt of three letters since the arrest of Ruiz led police to decide to consult a famous New York handwriting expert and Inspector George V Augusta returned from this mission today.

EXPERT'S OPINION

According to Augusta, the New York expert is inclined to the opinion that all letters were written by the same person. If this is so, police say, Ruiz will probably be released.

The expert's tentative opinion added more mystery to the whole situation as when Ruiz was arrested the police reported finding in his possession stationery similar to that used in threatening letters sent to prominent persons in the past, and also ink that seemed to correspond with such missives.

Bank Man in Jail Again Indicted

Although serving a seven-year sentence in the Plymouth House of Correction for the embezzlement of $65,000 from the East Boston branch of the Federal National Bank last year, Lawrence A. Arthur, was confronted with an indictment charging larceny of $29,000 from the same bank in Suffolk Superior Court today.

Arthur, who speculated from the bank's funds while employed as a paying teller, pleaded guilty to the additional charges. Judge Harold T. Williams reserved sentence. Arthur's present prison term was imposed in Federal Court last March 25.

Miss Greene Honored

A dinner in honor of Miss Lillian Greene, who recently announced her engagement to Ian Goldberg, music publisher of Boston, was given at Coconaut Grove, last evening, by girl friends.

FINANCIAL CHIEFS IN BATTLE FOR $45,000,000 WARD BAKING CO.

BOSTON BANKER IS LEADER IN FIGHT TO WREST CONTROL

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Robert S. Ward, a humble young man, began baking bread in the cellar of a Pittsburgh shack 32 years ago.

He [illegible] to the people who were living in the neighborhood.

The father of Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, was struck by their energy and loaned them $5,000.

The Ward Baking Co., out of that beginning, is today a $45,000,000 corporation with 7,000 employees and modern plants in 20 American cities.

And it is the financial stake for [illegible] empire of financial magnates battling on a battlefront from New York to St. Louis to Baltimore, including Boston and Worcester.

Seeking to wrest control from the present management, a committee of financial captains is calling upon the shareholders for proxies for a special stockholders meeting at Baltimore next Monday.

The committee consists of Charles Hayden, the Boston banker; Thomas Mclnnerney, chairman of the board of the National Dairy Products, and Edgar Palmer, chairman of the Board of New Jersey Zinc Co., reported to hold $3,000,000 of the securities of the Ward, the Continental Baking Co. and the General Baking Co.

WOULD MAKE MORROW HEAD

They would place the management and operation of the Ward Baking Co. in the hands of George K. Morrow, head of the Gold Dust Co., principal organizer of United Cigar Stores and recognized to be one of the wizards of modern finance.

They aim the present management is inefficient and lacks initiative.

Contesting against them for supremacy are Ralph S. Kent, president of Ward, and an imposing array of independent stockholders, headed by Howard Ward, a direct descendant of the two industrious young men whose first oven was stoked in the obscure Pittsburgh basement.

Denying the charges of inefficiency, Kent and his associates assert the rival financial captains desire solely to associate the Ward organization with kindred business institutions which they now control.

Mclnnerney is the directing force in the National Dairy Products and Morrow is a power in the Standard Milling Co., American Linseed Co. and two sugar companies, according to Kent's backers, who further claim that the Ward Baking Co. buys $20,000,000 annually of the sort of products produced by those companies.

The Kent followers say this $20,000,000 of bread materials are now purchased largely from New England institutions, H. P. Hood & Sons and the American Sugar Refineries of Boston.

"REGULAR" MEETING FEB. 12

Kent and a majority of the directors have called a "regular" meeting of the Ward shareholders on February 12, two weeks later than that they term the "rump convention" summoned in behalf of the proxy committee.

The purpose of the two meetings is said to be identical—to decide whether the shareholders desire to retain or change the present management.

SHE LOVED TO EAT BUT WAS ALWAYS PUNISHED FOR IT

Much of the suffering from so-called "indigestion" or acid-dyspepsia could be avoided if everyone could know what thousands like Miss Lillian Balint have learned. This New York City business woman, who lives at 2160 Park Avenue, says:

"I suffered from headaches and heartburn after meals—couldn't sleep like I should, never felt good.

"For five years I experimented with medicines and treatments, but I learned about Pape's Diapepsin. I have used three packages now, have gained five pounds, and feel fine. I eat meals and anything I please. At the first sign of disordered stomach a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and the trouble is gone in a minute."

If you, too, suffer from sourness, gas, belching, sick headaches, dizziness, or pain after eating, either regularly or just at times, get a box of Pape's Diapepsin from your druggist. Then you need never worry again about what you eat. These tablets are like candy and just as harmless. If you would like to try them before buying, write Pape's Diapepsin, Wheeling, W. Va., and you will receive a sample box, FREE.

Boston's First Television Station

MISS ELIZABETH HEALY, of Boston, shown talking through television apparatus at the S. S. Kresge store on Tremont st., Boston. People heard a program from Boston's only television station which is WIXAV. This is the first time that a television set was ever shown in a store in America. The crowd that gathered in the radio department of the store all got a chance to view the party on the other end of the wire. (Staff photo.)

TELEVISION IN BOSTON NOW

Boston had its first glimpse into television today when the radio department of S. S. Kresge's store on Tremont st. gave America's premiere demonstration of the instrument.

Hundreds of radio enthusiasts flocked into the basement of the store to see the wonderful, new television set in operation.

Boston's only television station, WIXAV, broadcast a program of music and speaking. The crowd of people filed through the receiving box and each individual got a look into the television (imperfect as television now is, the demonstration impressed the audience with the tremendous possibilities).

L. J. Hallstein, in charge of the demonstration, explained the workings of the instrument. There was a flicker of the television plate which he said was an imperfection and would probably be remedied very soon.

Judge Halts Fist Fight in Lynn 'Swindle' Trial

The Lynn District Court was thrown into a furore today when Medley Holsworth, prominent Lynn attorney, changed the defendant in an alleged swindle case to "fight it out in the corridor."

Holsworth and the defendant, Edward Mathews who claims to be physical director of the Michigan State Normal School, both rushed for the corridor and were about to square off when Associate Justice Philip Kiely and Probation Officer Charles Colby intervened. No blows were struck.

The near battle came while Judge Kiley was hearing the complaint against Mathews, arrested in Reading yesterday, charged with swindling Edward Breed of Danvers of $1000 on the pretense of starting a shoe company in Lynn where he would manufacture shoes without name or stitching.

Holsworth was addressing the court when Mrs. Catherine Daly Goode of Reading, who had instituted suit for recovery of $1000 from Mathews and who was present as a prosecuting witness, leaped to her feet and demanded that Mathews, who was sitting near her, refrain from alleged insults.

"If you have any remarks to make address them to me," Holsworth Atty. for Breed, shouted to Mathews. "If you don't keep quiet I'll take you out in the corridor and give you a licking."

After the near fracas Judge Kiley continued the case until Thursday. Mathews is free on $2500 bail.

SPORTING LOOT IN BOY'S HOME

The interior of the Charlestown police station had the appearance of a sporting goods and hardware store today after the arrest of Hugh L. Duffy, 15, of Putnam st., Charlestown.

After young Duffy had been seen to drop five boxes of cartridges in Charlestown bridge at sight of a policeman, he was chased as a suspicious character and [illegible] caught in his home by Officer Michael McNulty.

Sgt. Melvin Patterson and Special Officers Patrick J. Fallon and Leon Dennen obtained a search warrant and found in the boy's home sporting goods and hardware which they believe were stolen from Charlestown stores.

The boy will face charges of larceny in juvenile court tomorrow.

Taunton River Bill Passes; Goes to Ely

A bill that will put in use $850,000 of federal, State and municipal funds for improvement of Taunton river was passed today by the House and goes to Governor Fuller for his signature, having been passed previously by the Senate. It authorizes Taunton to borrow $20000 for its share of the cost and to raise $70,000 personally appropriated by the State and $750000 by Congress for the project. The channel will be dredged to a depth of at least 12 feet at mean low water from Fall River to Taunton.

No Snow, So Quincy Postpones Carnival

Lack of snow has caused the postponement of the annual West Quincy winter carnival, scheduled for today, tomorrow and Sunday, until January 30, 31 and February 1, it was announced today by Arthur V. Prohan, chairman of the affair. The Massachusetts speed skating championships will be held at that time.

John Jackson Walsh, tercentenary executive and vice-president of the newly found New England Association of America, will officiate at the religious debate between Clarence Darrow, eminent attorney and noted criminologist and the Rev. Dr. Herbert S. Johnson to be held Wednesday evening, January 28, at Symphony Hall.

The subject of the debate, held under the auspices of the Discussion Guild, will be "Is Religion Necessary?"

Boston Quota Club Elects Officers

At the fifth annual meeting of the Boston Club of Quota, International Inc., held last night at The Pioneer, 410 Stuart st., the following officers were elected: Marion L. Godfrey, president; Olive A. Russel Frances M. Gludrey and Theo Ruggles Kilson, vice-presidents; Lucy E. Lalley, treasurer, Elizabeth Kilam, recording secretary; Edith H. Van Amringe, and Bertha L. Goldthwaite, directors.

Divorce Bureau Urged

A central bureau of divorce records with the Secretary of State was urged yesterday by Rep. Lewis R. Sullivan before the legislative committee on legal affairs.

BILL TO TEACH ALL PRISONERS IS FAVORED

Example Set by Pomeroy In Correspondence Course Followed by State

Jesse Pomeroy, still a prisoner of the state after more than half a century, improved himself by taking correspondence courses.

Now, under the provisions of a bill reported favorably today by the Legislative Committee on Education, all inmates of State Prison and correctional institutions would have the same opportunity without cost to them or their relatives.

The bill, drawn up by the State Department of Education would put Massachusetts in the lead if it became law, for in addition to providing free schooling for prisoners, it gives the same opportunities to patients at sanitariums.

LIKES GOOD STUDENT

According to James A. Moyer, director of the division of university extension in the State Department of Education, California is the only State where this sort of thing is done, and there it applies only to prisoners.

Pomeroy was an excellent student, Moyer said. Among other things he mastered several languages.

"The chief gain, perhaps, will be to youthful patients at the tuberculosis hospitals who would be enabled to complete their schooling while being cured," he said.

"The parents of many of these children have been too poor to see to this in the past, and the same applies to reform school boys, although there are cases where the parents are providing extension courses for inmates of the General reformatory."

BENEFITS COMMUNITY

"The new plan would also give prisoners in general a more hopeful attitude toward life, giving them the knowledge that when released they would be equipped to get better jobs than they had.

"Prisoners who were recent immigrants would be able to learn English and thus have a better chance after release. This is a gain for the community, helping to eliminate a near-criminal element.

"There is a fund available in the correction department which is the past has been used in part for recreation and in part to give schooling to exceptional prisoners. For example, some reform school youths have been made auto mechanics and have made good later with the knowledge acquired."

WORK STARTED ON NORWOOD AIRPORT

First Unit of Huge Field to Be Ready for Flying in Three Months

Workmen were laboring today on the first unit of the new Metropolitan airport at Norwood, which eventually will be one of the largest in the world.

When all the units are completed the airport will include 1300 acres an area 15 times greater than that of the present Boston airport.

READY BY APRIL 1

The first unit, to be constructed and ready for flying by April 1 weather permitting, will contain 186 acres, more than twice the area of Boston airport. The contractor is the J. F. White Construction Co.

On the first unit will be four runways approximately 2500 feet long and 500 feet wide. There will be one hangar and a small administration office, the entire unit to cost $60,000.

In announcing beginning of the work, Harold E. Shaw, president of the Massachusetts Air Terminal & Arena, Inc., said today:

SEE NEED OF AIRPORT

"We are advised by several authorities that it will be far more practical to build the smaller and less expensive field first, and to construct the major airport when the volume of business on the first field justifies expansion.

"Boston needs its municipal port on account of its proximity to the city. We recognize its value, but because we see that it is already overcrowded we are going ahead with our work on the Metropolitan Airport, Boston needs another port to provide the facilities which the municipal port cannot."

CENTRE ST. WIDENING BILL UP TO ELY

IS PASSED BY HOUSE FOR SIGNATURE

Rules Suspended as They Were in Senate to Speed Project and Aid Jobless

The $1,100,000 Centre st. widening measure passed the House quickly today under suspension of the rules, as it passed the Senate yesterday, and it is expected will be signed by Governor Ely on Monday.

Besides providing employment to hundreds of men, this project will facilitate the passage in and out of the city of thousands of vehicles daily and will greatly improve national highway No. 1, the Maine-Rhode Island route. Rep. George F. Anderson of the Back Bay paid explaining the bill to his colleagues.

TERMS OF BILL

Under the terms of the bill, Centre st. in Jamaica Plain and Roslindale will be reconstructed and widened by the Boston Street Commissioners, subject to the approval of Mayor Curley.

The width, controversy over which has delayed the project for two years or more is left to the city, but it is understood it will be 80 feet.

ARBORETUM SAVED

The original measure passed in 1929, provided for nothing less than 100 feet and the act with no mention of it, by implication, would mean taking a strip 20 feet wide off the Arnold Arboretum.

The new street will be a highway and not a parkway as residents of the district had requested. The parkway plan was objected to by residents of other parts of Roslindale because it would throw all truck travel on to Washington st. Hill today was directed by Mayor Curley.

WIGGLESWORTH WILL GIVES $4,170,000

Vast Estate of Father of Milton Congressman Goes to His Family

George Wigglesworth of Milton, father of Congressman Richard D. Wigglesworth of the 14th District, left an estate of $4,170,000, it was revealed today when his will was allowed in Norfolk Probate Court at Dedham.

Of the estate $4,000,000 is personal property and the remainder real estate.

A son, Norton Wigglesworth of Milton, and Edward W. Grew of Dover filed bonds of $4,000,000 each as executors of the estate.

Most of the estate is divided among survivors, which include the widow, Mrs. Mary C. D. Wigglesworth, three sons and three daughters.

In addition to Congressman Wigglesworth and Norton Wigglesworth, the sons and daughters are Frank Wigglesworth, Mrs. Anna W. Chase, Mrs. Marian E. W. Brown and Mrs. Ruth Whitney.

Mr. Wigglesworth, a prominent textile manufacturer, president of the Harvard Board of Overseers, for 16 years treasurer of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and former trustee of the Institute of Technology, made many public bequests.

Among them were $50,000 to Massachusetts General Hospital, $25,000 to the President and Fellows of Harvard College, $25,000 to M. I. T., $25,000 to Milton Academy, $5000 to trustees of public reservations, $5000 to the Family Welfare Society of Boston, and $3000 to the First Unitarian Church of Manchester.

121 Inmates Moved as Fire Sweeps Lynn Poor Farm

Hurried removal of 121 inmates of the Lynn poor farm on Tower Hill today was directed by Matron Herbert Richardson, wife of the superintendent, while fire as the second floor of the building.

Pyne among the inmates of whom are bed-ridden was one year's steered when Frank Reddick, cook at the institution discovered the fire in the washroom of the second floor and spread the alarm.

Mrs. Richardson telephoned the Tower Hill fire station and ordered all the farm employes to join in the work of assisting inmates to the street. The fire gained considerable headway most of the damage being confined to the second floor.

A number of inmates suffered from nervous shock and were treated in their quarters after the blaze was extinguished.

SCHOOL 'DRILL BILL' KILLED

A bill exempting conscientious objectors from military drill in schools and colleges, over which a row developed at a hearing yesterday, when the charge of "Communists" was buried at its proponents, was rejected today by the legislative committee on education.

The bill was given leave to "withdraw." It was introduced on petition of Armand C. Bang of Newtonville and was supported at the hearing by Arthur E. White, Harvard student and former major of the Harvard Reserve Officers' Training Corps.

Stricter Rules for Parking Are Urged

Public garage officials at a hearing before the street commissioners today urged stricter regulation of outdoor parking places and licensing of these private enterprises. The commissioners took the matter under consideration.

Samuel L. Lowe, treasurer of the Motor Mart Garage, declared that Boston has made no headway in solving the traffic problem and that Mayor Curley's plan for alternate parking has not been enforced by the police.

Gilman Shoplifting Trial Opens Feb. 2

Mrs. Florence Bennett Gilman of Newton, alleged shoplifter, and her two co-defendants, Miss Julia Riley of Brighton and Mrs. Lillian Donovan of Brookline ave., will go on trial in Suffolk Superior Court Feb. 2, the first Monday of next month, it was announced today by Dist. Atty. William J. Foley. They are now out on bail.

All are charged with conspiracy to steal from six downtown stores, larceny and receiving stolen goods.

DRYS BENEFIT BY QUINCY WILL

Protestant churches, dry organizations and reform societies benefit under the will of Richard D. Chase, Quincy business man, whose will bequeathing an estate of $125,000 was allowed today in Norfolk Probate Court at Dedham.

John F. Hunt, of Quincy, appointed executor, filed a bond for $250,000.

Fifteen public institutions are bequeathed $1000 each, including the National Christian Temperance Union of Evanston, Ill., the National Reform Bureau of Washington, D. C., the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League and the Lords Day League of New England.

Fourteen private institutions are left $2,000 each four are left $3,000 each and four are left $5,000 each. The rest and residue goes to all the Protestant churches in Quincy.

POLICE SHAKEN UP IN CHELSEA

A totally unexpected shakeup in which three sergeants and 22 patrol and traffic men were shifted about, disturbed Chelsea police department today.

Mayor John J. Whalen, who ordered the shakeup, gave no reason for the reorganization, except to say that he felt it would be for the good of all concerned.

Men who had done traffic duty for many months found themselves walking beats and a number of new men were shifted to night duty.

Sergt. William L. Hebb left a state of the liquor squad was transferred to desk duty and Sergts. Walter Borden and William McCauley who had been on desk duty were shifted to street duty.

4 Divorce Trials in Middlesex Court

Judge Clin C. Campbell reserved decision in three divorce cases and continued another in Middlesex Probate Court today. The continued case is that of Herbert E. Bowen of Newton, a lowell municipal superintendent, in which he charges desertion. He testified his wife refuses to accompany him to Ipswich when he got a better position in Newton.

Judge Campbell reserved decision in the cases of Elizabeth Sullivan vs. Eugene Sullivan of Franklin st., Somerville; Dorothy Tucker vs. Leroy Tucker, Malden, and Anne L. Kitzelbaum vs. Peter Kitzelbaum of Belmont, against Gilbert V. Fitzpatrick.

Milk Changes to Be Aired Before Council

Proposed changes in the regulation of Grade A milk will form the basis next Wednesday of a battle before the Governor's Council by milk dealers' representatives and the State Department of Public Health.

According to Hermann C. Lythgoe director of the Division of Food and Drugs, in the department it is proposed to submit cattle to a new tuberculin test and to reduce the bacteria count in Grade A milk from the present 45,000 to 15,000 through further pasteurization.

Lynn Post for Minister

The Rev. Charles M. Charlton, rector at Christ Church, Providence, has been appointed assistant minister at St. Stephen's Church in New York.

Nature is so inconsiderate!

POOR Alice! As old fashioned as her mother. In mother's day there was no help for the girl who suffered every month. But this is 1931.

A million modern women have ended their monthly martyrdom to pain. They make engagements — and keep them — without a thought to the time of month.

And so can you.

If you want your periods to be painless, take Midol—a medicine made for the purpose. Take it in time, and the pain won't even start. If the pains have started, they will subside in from five to seven minutes. No matter how hard a time you've always experienced. Midol never fails.

How can anything so harmless — for Midol is not a narcotic—be so effective, and act so quickly?

Only the specialists who found this wonderful antidote for pain can answer that. But any woman who has tried it can tell you that Midol will remove your last excuse for ever giving-in to periodic pains, headaches, etc.

SOMETIMES EVEN FLAMING YOUTH GETS A SETBACK

AL DELMONT, at whose place down on Friend Street you can woo the charms of Terpsichore and inhale the best spaghetti that can be found this side of his birthplace in sunny, blue-skied Naples, started fighting around 1902. Twenty years later he was able to give Chick Suggs at his peak a boxing lesson. Holding one's boxing form over a 20-year stretch is a marvelous accomplishment. Yet it pales into insignificance alongside the feat turned in by Harold Osborn, who teaches school down in Virginia, in Brooklyn last week.

From a board takeoff Osborn in the running high jump cleared the cross bar at the height of 6 feet 6 inches.

This is a marvelous jump under any conditions. From a board take-off it only has been bettered once in the history of sport. Back in 1925, under the same conditions, Osborn made the world's indoor record of 6 feet, 6⅝ inches. With that one exception no athlete indoors, off a board take-off, ever has jumped as high as Osborn did in Brooklyn last Saturday night.

But what makes the feat really astounding is the fact that Osborn has been in athletics 14 years.

Fourteen years, so long and yet so short.

Few athletes hold their form over a 10-year stretch. There are exceptions to the rule. But when it comes to jumping there are mighty few exceptions.

"Spring suppleness resiliency belong to youth.

How many youngsters can get out and jump over Prime Carnera's head?

A boxer will possess his punch long after his "legs" have gone. An athlete will hold strength and stamina after many wearying years. Even speed will stay with a champion over an indeterminate period. But "spring" is a quality which seldom lasts. It is one of the God given gifts of youth. It is the first of the assets of an athlete to wear out.

OSBORN BETTER NOW THAN THEN

FOURTEEN YEARS ago at the national A. A. U. indoor and field championships in St. Louis, Harold Osborn finished fourth to the incomparable Dan Ahearn in the running hop step and a jump. That same sultry August afternoon we saw young Osborn drop out in the running high jump after a leap of 5 feet 9 inches.

Yet fourteen years later the former Illinois collegian clears the cross bar in a leap off the boards at the remarkable height of 6 feet 6 inches.

That, we believe, is one "for the books."

Besides Delmont boxing has seen many fighters defy the rust of the years. Bob Fitzsimmons, Johnny Dundee, Jack Britton, Joe Walcott, Joe Choynski, Bobby Dobbs, Harry Wills and other fighters have laughed at the years.

In baseball we have had Cy Young, Jack Quinn, Grover Alexander and others.

Look how long the elder Zybzko and Farmer Burns stuck at wrestling.

With more than half a century behind him Norval Baptie still can show flashing blades to the speediest of ice skaters.

Swimmers hold their form until long after the silver galleys at the temples.

But show me the athlete who after 14 years of competition has enough of the spring and resiliency of youth to clear six feet in the high jump.

The Virginia school teacher, Harold Osborn, not only cleared six feet. He cleared six feet six inches, not off the dirt, but off the boards.

SHADES OF MIKE SWEENEY

IT SEEMS but yesterday we stood alongside the jumping standards at old Manhattan Field New York, along with Theodore Roosevelt, then police commissioner, later to become one of the most illustrious presidents of the United States, and Richard Harding Davis the famous author and saw Mike Sweeney clear the bar from a dirt takeoff at the unprecedented height of 6 feet 5¾ inches.

That was a world's record at the time.

It remained so for more than a quarter of a century.

It eventually was beaten. But Sweeney or no other jumper except Osborn ever cleared 6 feet 6 inches indoor off a board takeoff.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

FRIDAY, JANUARY 23, 1931

HITCHCOCK LEADS U. S. POLOISTS

New York, Jan. 23 (US) - The rise of the internationalists, Winston Guest and Eric Pedley, and the acknowledged 10-goal supremacy of Tommy Hitchcock, Jr., were the main developments in the release of the 1931 handicap ratings by the United States Polo Association

Convened at the Racquet and Tennis club, representatives from all parts of the country decided that Hitchcock, captain of the American forces against the British and others was entitled to a place recognition for the tenth straight year.

This means that for the third season Hitchcock has been the red white and blue's only 10-goal player that at present he is the highest ranked contestant in the world, and that he has a chance to surpass the record of the famous Foxhall King, a 10-goal expert on 16 occasions.

Climbing nearer to Hitchcock's status in the estimation of the committee, were Guest, former Yale marvel, and Pedley, pride of the Californian plains, both of whom ascended from eight to nine goals. Mr. Guest, demoted from nine to eight in the mid-season resume, was promoted once more by reason of his excellent work in the autumn open and his performance against the English.

Committee Fails to Advance Hopping

A change in the method of rating, but exits not away by others, was the fact that Bart A. S. Hopping, the dashing youth, who shone particularly on the big four team against England, was not hoisted from eight to nine. Hopping had been tried in early practices and did not reach his crest in the majority of the test matches. The exhibitions for the entire span of major competition was given as the basis of the committee's findings.

Among those promoted from six to seven in the list was S. B. Iglehart, Yale athlete extraordinary.

Browne & Nichols Six to Play at Lake Placid

Browne & Nichols hockey team will play in the Lake Placid (N. Y.) Northwood private school hockey carnival on February 13 and 14. The Cambridge school team will face Northwood school Debbie school of Syracuse, and Country Day school of Utica, N. Y., during the ice series.

Dorman Schmidt, captain and outstanding goal tender of the Browne & Nichols team, will lead the Cambridge invaders in the New York series. Schmidt, besides being a fine goalie is an excellent football and baseball player.

McManus Recovers From Knee Injury

Chicago, Jan. 23 (AP)—Matty McManus, third baseman for the Chicago White Sox and high batting average in the American League last season hopes to suffer more base hits than errors during the 1931 campaign.

McManus injured his knee late last summer when he collided with Chicago for legion. The operation was successful and McManus has the knee cheerful. He will be discharged from the hospital soon.

St. Joseph's Play Emcos Five Tonight

The St. Joseph five will meet the Emcos tonight for the championship of the first half in the Somerville Recreation League at the Somerville high gym. This will be a hard-fought game. Neither team has been defeated. The game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Schoeni Captain of Middie Oarsmen

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 23 (AP)—Midshipman Walter P. Schoeni of Portland, Ore., bow of the Navy racing crew, today was named captain for the 1931 campaign.

FATHER TIME FAILS TO HALT HAL OSBORN

HAL OSBORN, after 14 years competition, last week cleared cross stick at 6 feet 6 inches from a board takeoff indoors. Spring and resiliency are the first things Father Time robs an athlete of. Osborn's feat is one of the most remarkable in the annals of athletics. Read what Underwood has to say of it in FANNING.

Trainer Terms Dempsey and Ruth 'Physical Marvels'

New York, Jan 23 (INS)—For men of their age and considering the wear and tear they have been through Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey are "physical marvels" according to the opinion expressed today by Art McGovern, noted physical instructor.

McGovern, who put Dempsey in condition for his comeback fight with Tunney and has a private gymnasium in this city, said he was surprised at the condition Ruth has been in since the season began. McGovern's gymnasium is the last three weeks, during one of which Ruth and Dempsey were both there getting ready for baseball spring training and Dempsey for his fight with Tunney.

"Ruth weighed 233 pounds on January 1," McGovern told International News Service. "Today he weighs 226. I don't want him to get below 220 before he starts South. He looks great!

Dempsey Is Finest Physical Specimen

"Dempsey is the finest physical specimen I have ever seen. He weighs 185 and looks as if he could get ready for a fight in jig time. However, he is carrying about seven pounds of superfluous weight—mostly around the hips. His general muscular condition is exceptionally fine."

Ruth is 36 years old, Dempsey 35.

McGovern said Dempsey's main trouble physically has been in his stomach. His legs have gone a bit, perhaps, but right today he has the build of the perfect athlete. On Tuesday he chest expansion was four inches. He was 38 inches. In the ring, McGovern said, he will come down to 34. He is the second man in his whole career where he should be about 34 inches. He looks great. He is in general muscular condition is "exceptionally fine," according to McGovern.

Ruth, down to 226 at present, is in good shape for a man of his size. McGovern has trained him during the winter for the last six years and says that today he is in better condition, physically and mentally, than at any time at this period.

12,000 Fans See Sonnenberg Down Wykoff in Mat Bout

By RINGSIDE

Twelve thousand persons paid $18,000 to see the former Dartmouth football hero defeat Lee Wykoff, ex-University of St. Louis star, in a stirring match at the Arena under the direction of Paul Bowser.

It was a Sonnenberg crowd. The fans turned out to see Gus thrill them with his famous flying tackle. The fact Sonny is no longer mat king didn't seem to mean a thing with the cash customers. Gus appeared to give them the kind of action they desire.

Sonny won the first fall with his famous flying tackle in 27 minutes 1 second. Wykoff captured the second fall in 24 minutes 20 seconds with an arm-and-body lock.

Then Gus gave Wykoff a bad break. He went flying through the ropes into the press section when he tried to win the deciding fall with a flying tackle. This writer will hear testimony to the fact there was plenty of power behind the Wykoff dive, as when he hit the head on, he almost dislocated our left shoulder.

Wykoff Dives Through Ropes and Is Hurt

Wykoff made another dive at Sonny when he got back into the ring. On this occasion he went through the ropes, cleared the press table and crashed to the floor of the Arena. He suffered a back injury and was unable to continue. The decision went to Sonny.

Nick Lutz of Chicago scored a sensational victory over Pat McGill of Wakefield in 18 minutes, 20 seconds. The crowd went wild as Lutz and McGill furnished the fastest wrestling seen in this city in several years. It was later announced that Lutz had been signed to clash with Jack Sherry, holder of their semi final match.

Infected Finger Puts Dempsey in Hospital

New York, Jan 23 (AP) A small cut on the fourth finger of his left hand has forced Jack Dempsey into the Polyclinic hospital here for treatment.

Dempsey disregarded the cut as of no consequence but an infection set in swelling the hand to twice its normal size. Dr. Frank Brennan said the former heavyweight champion probably would be able to leave the hospital in a day or two.

BOSTON BOXER FAVORITE TO BEAT BRADDOCK IN BOUT AT NEW YORK GARDEN

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—Jimmy Braddock, Jersey City heavyweight, will spot Ernie Schaaf, Boston protege of Jack Sharkey, 15 pounds when they step into the Madison Square Garden ring tonight. Schaaf weighed in today at 188½ pounds while Braddock tipped the scales at 180½.

By JACK CONWAY

Ernie Schaaf rules a favorite to win over James J. Braddock in their 10-round bout at the New York Garden tonight.

It will be Schaaf's first bout in New York since he won from Max Baer, Pacific Coast heavyweight, last December.

Jack Conway

In the event Schaaf wins from Braddock he will be matched to meet the winner of the Tommy Loughran - Max Baer tussle which takes place at the New York Garden on Feb. 6. Jack Sharkey American heavyweight champion, will second Schaaf tonight.

Johnny Buckley and Al Lacy will also be in Schaaf's corner.

Ernie is anxious to win in impressive style as he is also under contract to battle Dick Daniels of Minneapolis in a ten-round contest at an Argonne A. A. show at the Arena on Monday night. Daniels recently won from Al Friedman in a tussle in this city. He also upset Johnny Risko at the Boston Garden.

The Massachusetts Boxing Commission has granted a license to Sharkey to act as one of Schaaf's seconds against Iran nis.

"I'll knock Schaaf right into Sharkey's lap," said Daniels when told that the American champion was to be in Ernie's corner. "I'll then fire a challenge at Sharkey."

40 Bouts Expected at Arena Bouts

The Irish-American A. C. announces that there will be at least 40 bouts at its diamond belt tournament at the Arena tomorrow night. So that the finals in each class will be run off before midnight, the show will start at 7:30 p. m. There will be bouts at 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds, in the light heavyweight division and also in the heavyweight class.

Benny Gershan, Dorchester heavyweight, will have a flock of admirers at the ringside as he goes his big punches. He has shown considerable promise and looks as if he is going some place. Dick Russell, oldtime ring star is directing Gershan.

There will be some keen competition in the 147 pound division. The entry list includes the names of Fred Moody, Peacock, N. H.; Al Tocci, Needham; Robert Langell, Boston; Emil Bergerson, Arlington, Phil Charlet, New Bedford; Larry Manning, Lawrence, Johnny Young, Brockton, Ernest Matson, Gloucester, Dean Cross, Milford, Armand Choquette, North Dartmouth, Jerry Indrisano, East Boston, Johnny Marcuccos, Lynn, Bill King, Taunton; Bronic Rasprask, Melrose; Jimmy O'Leary, South Boston, and Frank Magno, Boston.

Callahan and Smith in Brockton Bout

Andy Callahan, New England lightweight champion will defend his title against Steve Smith of Bridgeport in a ten-round bout at the Brockton Garden tonight. Smith is a fast, clever boxer and will give the reigning champ plenty of trouble.

Sammy Fuller North End lightweight will clash with Young Montreal in a ten round contest at Providence tonight.

Callahan and Fuller are each eager to win their bouts in decisive style as they have been signed by Eddie Mack of the Argonne A. A. to clash at the Arena on Feb. 9.

Foreign Boxers Will Arrive Here Tomorrow

The Belgian, Norwegian and Irish boxers will compete in the international show at the Boston Garden on February 2 will arrive on town tomorrow morning. They reach New York today aboard the S. S. Mauretania of the Hamburg American line. They were met at a luncheon at the New York A. C. there will leave for Boston tonight and will arrive here in the morning.

Father Bill Cuddy of the St. Joe's T. A. Society greeted the foreign boxers on their arrival in New York

Londos and Dusek in Garden Bout

Jim Londos, Greek heavyweight champion, and Rudy Dusek of Little Rock, Ark., will clash in the feature wrestling bout at the Boston Garden on next Friday night under the direction of Tex Rickard. Dusek has won three straight matches at the Garden and should be able to make things interesting for Londos when he defended the champion in New York and Pennsylvania.

Park Dept. to Hold Handball Tourney

Entry blanks are now out for the Boston Park Department's annual handball tournament, when matches are underway during the week of Feb. 1

Play will be held in two divisions senior and junior, with the system of graded doubles being used in the senior competition. District tournaments will be played in the Columbia field, Hyde Park, Cabot at and Parin at gymnasium. Inter district playoffs will take place on neutral courts.

Carnegie Visitor at Boston College

Rev. Charles Roddy, S. J. faculty director of athletics at Boston College today met in conference with John McGovern a representative of the Carnegie Foundation, in the office at the B. C. gym.

The visit of the Carnegie representative was unexpected and the discussion was kept secret, although it is thought that football is one of the units undergoing a thorough survey.

Hockey Teams Protest Conditions at Boston Garden

PLAYERS ARE FORCED TO USE HOTEL

For three years, visiting hockey managers have protested against the unsanitary and unhealthy conditions of the dressing rooms at the Boston Garden.

As no steps have been taken to rectify matters, the National Hockey League mentors are determined to air their complaints before their board of governors.

Manager Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers and Dave Gill of Ottawa refuse to allow their players to dress at the Garden. The Rangers and Senators dress in the Hotel Manger and wearing slippers and overcoats, walk through the North Station to the rink.

In the first place the dressing rooms at the Garden are too small to quarter a hockey squad. For some unexplained reason, space for dressing rooms was overlooked in the construction of the Boston Garden, despite the fact that the building was erected primarily for hockey. The original dressing room was about large enough for the stick box and even the present room could be improved.

Dressing Rooms Are Often Flooded

The complaints of the visitors center around the overflowing of the shower baths, which flood the halls and the dressing room, often running out as far as the elevators. Although the shower baths are not in the dressing rooms, players unfamiliar with their locations need but to walk up stream and they will reach their objective.

After a game the players are obliged to dress while standing on benches as the floor of their room is covered with water.

Lester Patrick was the first manager to register a complaint on the condition at the Garden. He has absolutely refused to allow his players to dress at the Garden. He has been trying for three years to have conditions improved but with out success.

On their first trip here the Rangers were hit by considerable good-natured ridicule as the result of being in the foyer of the Garden dressed in the hockey uniforms, but they prefer to stand for the kidding rather than dress under the conditions which exist at the North Station rink. Last June Patrick and the Ottawa squad dressed in their hotel and protested against the inconvenience.

Conditions at Garden Should Be Remedied

In a strange coincidence, practically the same conditions existed in Madison Square Garden and for one season, the players dressing in hat boxes.

For arenas such as the Boston Garden and Madison Square Garden to slip up on such an important item as dressing rooms is inexplicable, but there is no excuse for the conditions at the Garden not having been corrected in three years.

Passing the Puck

By BILL GRIMES

The Tigers are "putting the heat" to Referee Davin for awarding a goal to Springfield after over-ruling the goal judge. They agree with the goal judge that the puck was not in the net and are roundly protesting against Davin's decision, which, incidentally, is final.

Any time a visiting club is leading and a local goal judge refuses to flash the signal that the home team has scored, the referee who takes it upon himself to reverse the decision must be either very sure of his grounds or very incompetent.

If Referee Davin was on the level he did the right thing. But if there was the slightest doubt on his mind, under the circumstances he should have taken the goal judge's decision.

Regardless of who was right or who was wrong, the Springfield incident was at least a novelty, for goal judges are usually much too prompt flashing the light for home teams.

There are few N. H. L. centers played a better all-around game this season than Eddie Burke of the Tigers. Burke displayed signs of taking on a new lease of life early last fall and he has been going great guns all season.

Although Burke's playing has been one of the outstanding features of the Can-Am race, the Tigers have yet to receive an offer for their star, which is another indication of the inefficiency of the N. H. L. scouts.

There are number of players in the Can-Am League who have the ability to go up to the big show and replace big leaguers.

Herb Rheaume has begun to hit his stride with the St. Louis club of the American Hockey League.

Steve Sleeper, the well known golfer, is playing right wing for the Harvard second team. He is a natural hockey player and under Joe Stubbs' coaching will develop into first varsity material.

Pontel Contant, the former Tiger, is a standout with the Buffalo Americans. He is a big favorite around the American Hockey League circuit and is getting his share of the goals.

Ronnan Dreis, the new Providence right winger, is a favorite of Hart's, both hailing from Weyburn, Sas. In fact, Manager Sprague Cleghorn signed Dreis on Hart's recommendation.

Joe Fitzgerald, of the University Club, has refused many offers to turn professional. The former Boston College star would have no trouble making the pro grade for he is one of the best defense men ever developed in these parts.

Johnny Gagnon, who starred with Quebec and Providence in the Can-Am League before he was taken up to the big show, is living up to expectations with Les Canadiens. Johnny got off to a slow start but now he is one of the biggest favorites.

The Chicago Blackhawks are doing well to click successfully with Teddy Abel and Art Somers on the hospital list. Abel and Somers have been out of the line out for weeks, but the Hawks have been winning regularly. With the return of their injured stars, the Hawks will be just so much more dangerous.

As the crowds are not turning out, the New Haven Eagles will cost Owner Bill Dwyer a pretty penny this season. The wild type of hockey which the Eagles resort to, has failed to impress the fans in the City of Elms.

PROTEST SENT BY TIGERS

Pres. George V. Brown of the Boston Tigers has written a letter of protest to James E. Dooley of the Canadian-American Hockey League in the matter of Wednesday's game between the Tigers and the Springfield Indians when Referee Davin awarded the Indians a disputed goal against the judgment of the goal umpire and Referee Svanoni.

Pres. Brown's letter follows:

"After going into detail with players, spectators and reading newspapers, I am of the opinion that Referee Davin made a serious mistake in the Springfield-Boston game of Jan. 21, played at Springfield. Reasons are as follows:

"1—It is unusual to have a goal umpire call the puck did not go in.

"2—Referee Davin was in no position to see clearly just what happened.

"3—Every newspaper man present claimed it was not an earned goal even though it was a ruling on their home team.

"We will leave whatever action you desire to take up to you."

Beverly Girl Sets Basketball Record

Argie Ventura set a new scoring record of 31 points as Beverly high school girls defeated Essex Aggies girls, 63 to 9, at the Beverly gym.

She accomplished this remarkable scoring performance in three periods, being replaced by Miss Hoogerzeil in the fourth period. It was the first win in three starts for Beverly.

Braves Should Have Plenty of Rooters This Season

By JOE CASHMAN

The Smiths, Joneses and Browns, three of our most popular and populous families, will each have a representative with the Braves this spring, and if all their namesakes attend the games, all records should be broken.

There would have been nothing unusual about this in the good old days when Yankee and Irish names predominated in baseball, but it is worthy of more than passing notice in these times when the noble athletes go in for such appellations as Comorosky, Cucinello, Schulmeelz, Hodapp, Seeds, Flowers, Wensting, Wasztler and the like.

These Tribesmen with the old fashioned names are all young, right handed pitchers. Ken Jones, the oldest of the trio, is the only one who has had any major league experience and he hasn't appeared in more than five games for the last year.

Yet, all three showed so much promise last spring that Manager Bill McKechnie is counting on at least two of them sticking with the club and giving considerable hurling this coming summer.

Jones Had Tryout With Braves Before

Jones, a tall husky of 26 years of age, was picked up by Wigwam scouts in Pittsfield back in 1928 and taken South by Judge Fuchs the following spring.

He lacked the stuff to stick with the team but showed enough to be farmed out to Providence, where he pitched fine ball until the club disbanded towards the close of last season and the Braves brought him up again.

He finished up a few games for the Tribe and didn't look bad at all. He displayed a lot of stuff and control and with a little more experience ought to prove a valuable addition to Bill McKechnie's mound squad.

Bob Brown and Alonzo Smith, both New Englanders, are finds of Scout Jack Slattery, who picked them up off the sandlots and developed them in the baseball school he conducted at Braves Field two years ago.

That school is still listed at the Wigwam office as a costly experiment since not one of the students has proved to date of any value to the club. But if either Brown or Smith become a winning big league pitcher, the venture will immediately be considered as having been a profitable one.

Gene Rye, Sox Rookie, Signs 1931 Contract

Gene Rye is no better a holdout than the rest of them. The only player on either Boston team who has sent back an unsigned contract agreed to terms with the Red Sox this morning.

When Rye, a rookie outfielder from Wake, first received the document he returned it to Bob Quinn with a letter saying that since no one did better in the Texas League last season than did any of the other Red Sox partners, either new or old, he figured that he deserved more money than had been offered him.

Here's the latest letter received by Quinn:

Dear Mr. Quinn:

Well, I guess you hit the nail on the head when you said something told me what to write about and how to get around, but I guess I would have been better off if I would have listened to myself.

I sure would like to have a nice talk with you this spring. Sorry I caused you all that trouble but will come down this spring and show you I've got the goods.

Well, here's hoping we meet shortly and wishing you all the success in this world with your ball club, I remain,

Yours,

(Signed) GENE RYE.

Carter Definitely Out of Brown Tilt

William Carter, leading scorer on the Northeastern sextet, is definitely out of the game with Brown tomorrow and in all probability will not don a uniform until the Boston University clash, February 6. Carter has a severe case of grippe which has confined him to his home all this week.

Raymond also announced that Capt. Roger Emery would not play at all this season, due to parental objection.

B. C. Rifle Team Loses First Match

The Boston College rifle team suffered its first defeat of the season at the hands of the New York Stock Exchange team, one of the strongest civilian rifle clubs in the country. The final scores show the New Yorkers outshot B. C. by a 1619 to 1449 margin.

GREEN RELAY TO RACE EAGLES

Dartmouth and Boston College will meet in a one-mile relay race at the William C. Prout Memorial meet, the Knights of Columbus track games at the Boston Garden on Jan. 31, as a result of a revision of the team racing program announced by Jim Gaffney in charge of the K. of C. track meet.

The new pairings were made at the request of Dartmouth, which had been billed to race M. I. T. at the Prout games. The latter teams were listed to race at the K. A. A. meet, however, and Dartmouth did not want to race the same team in two Boston meets. Another change made is the pairing of the M. I. T. freshman team with Brown while the Tech B four meet U. of Maine and New Hampshire will race Northeastern.

Tech has two one-mile teams but there is little difference in ability between them. Eight fast quarter milers are on the Tech squad so Coach Oscar Hedlund has made up two varsity teams.

Point in team races are listed for the Prout games and the Knights with the handicap and feature races on the program, make certain an evening of splendid track competition.

Governor Joseph B. Ely and Representative Young will attend the meet sitting in a reserved box near the start of the feature races. It is likely that the governor will be sent to act as starter in one of the special distance races.

Representative Young, one of the late William C. Prout's intimates, again will act as meet referee.

Yankees Add Three Players to Staff

New York, Jan. 23 (US) — The New York Yankees acquired three new players and released another.

The newcomers are Pitcher John Allen, a right-hander who won 12 games and lost 16 for Jersey City last season, Bob Gibson, a first baseman of Edison, O. who played with Richmond in the Piedmont League last year, and Hayden Fouts, a catcher, of Ashland, O. They will report at Orlando, Fla., on St. Petersburg with the first squad on Feb. 2.

Gibson probably will be released to Albany. The club assigned Pitcher Bob Wakefield of the famous Ed. to Jersey City on option.

Shires Signs to Play for Brewers

Milwaukee, Jan. 23 — Art (Dutch) Shires has sign I a contract for the 1931 season to play with the Milwaukee Brewers, President Allen announced yesterday. Shires batted .353 and stole 17 bases for the Brewers in 1930.

Equipoise Will Race in Both Preakness and Derby

MIAMI, Jan. 23 (INS)—Equipoise, fashionable son of Pennant-Swinging, belonging to Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, will start in the Preakness and Kentucky Derby.

Announcement to this effect was made here today by Thomas J. Healy, commander-in-chief of the racing forces of the popular young sportsman.

Equipoise enjoyed several months rest at the Brookdale Farms, near Red Bank, N. J. He was shipped to the old Bennings course in Washington, D. C., to be placed in active training under the personal tutelage of Preakness, Derby and Kentucky fame.

Equipoise will not be asked to do anything more than gallop for the next few weeks. But in late February before the C. V. Whitney standard bearer will be placed in active training. He will be asked to go the full route in the Derby and Kentucky.

Present plans call for Equipoise to be given a race or two before he pass his to the post in the famous Maryland classic on May 9.

Equipoise made a big detail in a match race at Bowie on April 27. He finished the season with a record of eight victories, five seconds and one third in 20 starts. He ran 1,000 miles.

REGATTA AT 'KEEPSIE ON JUNE 17

New York, Jan. 23 (AP)—The Poughkeepsie regatta, most spectacular of the country's rowing classics, will be rowed on the Hudson June 17.

Only once before in the history of the regatta has so early a date been fixed, but it was necessary to take advantage of tide conditions that would not be favorable again until July.

Nine crews again are expected to compete in the four-mile varsity race. They are Cornell, Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Navy, Washington, California, Wisconsin and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Princeton and Stanford probably will do one the same. Stanford has no crews and Princeton's policy has been against competing in the four mile grind.

The regatta will precede the annual Yale Harvard classic at New London, Ct., by only two days.

The first race on the Poughkeepsie program, the freshman test at two miles, will start at 3:45 p. m. standard time; the three-mile junior varsity at 4:45 and the varsity at 5:45.

Chicago, Jan. 23 (INS)—Allen Hall of Chicago today had played his way into the lead in the world's championship three cushion billiard tournament by defeating Frank Sicoville of Buffalo, N. Y. 50 to 27 in 38 minutes. It was the third victory of the tourney for Hall.

Johnny Layton, the defending champ, who lost the opening match to Sicoville, demonstrated last night that he is not out of the running by sweeping aside Charles Jo Ion of Los Angeles with a score of 50 to 15 in 30 innings of brilliant

THE BOSTON HOCKEY CLUB poses for the cameraman just before the Bremen, which will carry them to Poland, sailed out of New York harbor. In the front row are Ed Dagnino, Gordon Smith, Bob Elliott and Ty Anderson. In the rear are Robert Harlowe, Walter Brown, the manager, Ted Frazier and Pete Sanford. The team will play in an international series of amateur games in Kyrnica, Poland, and then skip a bit about the Continent. It will give a good account of itself.

RESERVE BOARD IS BLAMED FOR STOCK BOOM

Washington, Jan. 23 (AP)—Adolph C. Miller of the Federal Reserve Board testified at the Senate Banking inquiry today that the 1927 open market operations of the reserve system caused the credit inflation that brought about the speculative boom of 1928-29.

By buying government securities in 1927 in pursuance of an "affirmative policy of its own," Miller said, the system gave member banks excess funds, which can only be used for investment, and gave both banks and corporations funds to invest in the call market.

These open market operations, Miller said, constituted one of the greatest and most costly errors "ever made by the federal reserve or any other banking system."

Had a "different policy" been pursued at that time, he added, it would have left us with a different condition at this time.

He said the present 2 per cent re-discount rate in New York was "notification that credit conditions are very comfortable and easy in the leading money market," and 'might do something to release the country from the grip of fear.'

The witness predicted a crash again in seven or certainly in ten years, if some control were not exercised over the open market operations by the reserve banks.

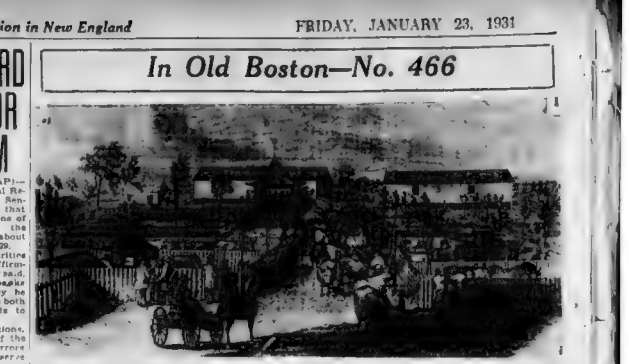
Woodcock, U. S. Dry Chief, Seriously Ill

Binghamton, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP) Anna W. W. Woodcock, national prohibition director, is seriously ill with a temperature of 102 degrees, Dr. Andrew S. Pritts announced this afternoon.

In Old Boston—No. 466



THIS VIEW OF THE BRIGHTON cattle market was made in 1852. Brighton at that time and for almost 30 years was one of the big markets of the country. It handled thousands of sheep, hogs and meat cattle annually. Drovers from all over New England and northern New York disposed of their holdings in Brighton. This picture gives a small idea of the size of the Brighton stock yards 80 years ago.

URGE HOSPITAL FOR ARTHRITIS

Reasonable periods of hospitalization will cure the most acute cases of rheumatism, according to Dr. Joel E. Goldthwaite, international authority on orthopedic surgery, who spoke today in favor of the bill for a state-owned hospital for treatment of the disease.

The bill, sponsored by Dr. George A. Bigelow, commissioner of public health, calls for establishment of such an institution and $20,000 annually for its support.

Declaring there are 150,000 sufferers from the disease in Massachusetts, Dr. Goldthwaite said:

"In my 40 years of practice, much of the time being spent with arthritic cases, I have come to feel that with reasonable periods of hospitalization, especially in the early stages of the disease, the great majority of cases can be cured so the patients may be put back into life as wage-earners. Dr. Bigelow's plan has my most cordial support."

The Mystery of Geraldine

Police College across the street from headquarters. There he had delivered his famous physical training lecture which no "rookie" ever forgets—inspiring the students with a desire to learn how to "get their man"—the scientific way of handling bullies and ruffians, the important holds in jiu-jitsu, in which Colt is an expert, and similar mysteries. Not all of his morning, however, was spent in the college. While waiting for his first caller, he explained to me that he had done some solitary prowling in Washington so, just after breakfast, and had learned two interesting facts.

Lizzie Clark

"I talked with a girl named Lizzie Clark," he explained, with a glint of amusing reminiscence in his eye. "She is a nurse-maid for an Italian family living in the Fifth Ave. Hotel. Lizzie remembers seeing two women leave the house, where Maskell has his office, on the afternoon of Christmas Eve. She said it by her mind was that each of the women carried a large bottle, almost the size of a jug.

"Can you be certain one of them was Geraldine Foster?" I inquired.

"No," admitted the commissioner, with a sigh. But there was a large jug-like bottle in Maskell's office last night—and now it is some wrapping paper with a tag, showing three bottles to be delivered before 3 p. m. on Christmas Eve."

He spoke lightly and yet I could tell there was a worried note in his voice.

"Also," added the commissioner, "Dr. Maskell has left town."

"Where on earth—"

"Right you are! Where on earth? Checkers doesn't know. No one seems to know. The smiling doctor of Washington Sq. has decamped. He eluded my man, an hour after he began to tail him. But why shouldn't he go away? There are no charges against him."

I was alert to ask for more details, but Capt. Laird arrived and I went back to my notes.

The chief of the Bureau of Missing Persons promptly stated, as his theory, that the girl was alive and in desperate hiding. He pointed out that she had remained away before for days at a time.

"So far, it is just like any one of a number of such cases," argued Captain Laird. "I have them all the time. I am certain the girl will return."

"I hope you are right," said the chief emphatically. "But there are elements in this disappearance which make me suspicious—her remarks over the telephone and in that fragment of a note—which, taken with the mystery of the fur coat and the purse. And now Maskell has run out on us. Makes me remember other cases that were not so simple, Captain. You remember Alice Corbett?"

Smith College Girls

Captain Laird remembered her. On Friday, November 15, 1928, Alice Corbett, a junior student, vanished from Smith College, in Northampton, Massachusetts.

"Do you recall the laconic and singular message that she left?" persisted Thatcher Colt. "'Mother, I am going home', she wrote in her note. And that was the last that was ever heard of her."

"Nevertheless, I have always believed Alice Corbett to be still alive," argued Laird.

"That's what people also believed about Frances Ida, John Smith," returned the Commissioner. "Frances disappeared from the same college as Alice Corbett, and oddly enough, also on Friday the thirteenth. There the mystery of a pretty girl, only eighteen years old, talented and worth a million dollars or more, was pondered before they found her dead body floating in a pond. What happened? We don't know. Any more than we know the fate of Dorothy Arnold, or, more recently, what befell the beautiful Mrs. McDowell Rogers when last year she vanished from Barrington Manor in Louisville, Kentucky, apparently never to return. I tell you, the unexplained absence of a beautiful girl is, to me, a danger signal. It has always been so, ever since Fiske Sigel was shopped up and packed into a Chinaman's trunk. We must find Geraldine Foster, dead or alive."

Just then, Captain Henry came in, saluted, and announced that Sergeant Burke wanted to talk to the Commissioner.

"Bring him in at once."

Burke marched into the office, his hat in his hand. The detective's face was read and his eyes were rolling.

"I have the honor to report that I have been through all the bales and I have not found the missing pieces, Mr. Commissioner," he said ingubriously.

Thatcher Colt glared at the detective.

"And you call yourself a detective, Burke?"

Notes Found

"What's this, Burke? You told me you couldn't find them."

"I couldn't, sir," pleaded the distressed detective. "But I found these, instead. They are pieces of a note written by the Foster girl—but they don't belong to the piece you showed me."

Hastily Thatcher Colt fitted the pieces together and read the letter aloud:

"Dear Harry:

"After what has happened, I can never marry you. This is the end of it. You could not love me and take the position you do. I do love you—as you I know before—but I shall never see you again.

GERALDINE."

For a moment there was a complete silence in the Commissioner's office. At length it was broken by Captain Laird:

"Who is Harry?" he asked.

"Harry Armstrong—the boy she was to marry, of course. This is odd! Did she tear up two letters—where in God's name are the missing pieces of the other one?"

Burke held up his right hand as if taking the oath and avouched that he had personally examined every single scrap.

"Go back and try again!" said Thatcher Colt and Burke, rolling his eyes until only the whites could be seen, departed from the office. As Captain Laird and I stood beside the desk, the Commissioner leaned over the torn pieces of paper and said:

"Don't you see that this note is written with the knotched ink used in the girls' apartment—that makes the other note—the blackmail one—even more curious. I wonder if I have sent Burke on a wild goose chase?"

Sharkey-Godfrey Match Is Sought

Philadelphia, Jan. 23 — Jack Sharkey has been offered a large purse to meet George Godfrey, giant Negro, in a Boxing Bowl here, provided the Negro's suspension is lifted by the State Athletic Commission. The offer was sent by the Arena Corporation tonight by Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager.

No figures were mentioned in the telegram, but Maurice D. Fishman, secretary-treasurer of the Arena, said the corporation was prepared to post a guarantee of at least $50,000 for Sharkey.

VAN RYN VICTOR OVER HALL

Montreal, Jan. 23 (AP)—Johnny Van Ryn, United States Davis cup player from Philadelphia, advanced to the finals of the Canadian indoor tennis championships today, defeating J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., 6—4, 6—2.

Van Ryn outsteadied his opponent in every department of the game and gave a brilliant exhibition of overhead play. Hall tried every type of game in an attempt to throw Van Ryn off his stride, but the machine-like play of the Philadelphia star brought him through to an easy victory

BRUINS BOW TO N. Y. AMERICANS

New York, Jan. 23—The Chicago Blackhawks crept nearer to first place by defeating Philadelphia while the New York Americans were defeating the Bruins, 2 to 1.

The New York team's great defense again was the big factor in the triumph with a mistake by "Tiny" Thompson, Bostonian goalie, giving the Americans the winning goal.

With the score tied at 1 to 1 in the middle of the third period and the Americans a man short on a penalty, Billy Burch made a shot from the blue line and Thompson misjudged it.

The disc did past his hand into the net for the decisive tally of the game.

"Happy" Emms started the Americans off ahead 46 seconds after the opening whistle, taking a neat pass-out from Burch to score.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

In the early days of golf when the game was played with the light, feather-stuffed ball, the iron heads were of necessity short, compact and heavy. Some of the heads, like the almost forgotten cleek, being not much more than two inches long. As the years went by the ball enlarged, the club designers went back to original principles, but since the ball now is highly resilient only slight changes in design were necessary. Club makers have no thought of projecting the theory that the new ball cannot be handled without using these clubs, but they logically will claim that the game will be improved for any golfer who equips himself with them. I would say that this new equipment would make a considerable difference with the really good player—55 rounds or better on the average. This is because the new ball puts a slight handicap on the expert player while loosening up the game and making it rather easier for the high handicap shooter.

ROBERT AMES JOINS RADIO PICTURES UNDER LONG TERM CONTRACT

MARY ASTOR APPEARS IN HIS FIRST FILM

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23.—Do contracts pay? Some of the high powered stars wouldn't work without them. Others say that when they get tied up on a contract it means they have to take any parts offered them. I know that Robert Ames fought hard against a contract but apparently he has had a change of mind now, for he has gone over to Radio Pictures on a long term contract.

Mary Astor is the feminine attraction and attraction is what I mean. Mary is one of our most winsome lassies on the screen. Jack Mulhall also has one of the leading roles. Looks as if it might be George Arliss' next picture.

WHAT will Harry Cohn do and what are his plans if A. C. Blumenthal has purchased Columbia Pictures? It is well known in Hollywood that Harry was disheartened when the company whom he produced pictures failed to appreciate "The Criminal Code," "Telable David" and other successes. He said at the time he would sell his interest in Columbia. It looks now as if he might have kept his word, although there is nothing definite about the Blumenthal sale. Another idea! Mr. Blumenthal was associated with William Fox and much of his money was made in deals with Mr. Fox. Those who are close to William Fox say he is yearning to come back into the business. Does it mean he will be associated with Blumenthal? A mere speculation, of course, but worth thinking about.

THE KIDS are going to get a break this coming year on the Paramount lot. Rumor has it that with Miss Green and Junior Searles all signed up now they have taken that veteran juvenile star, Jackie Coogan, into the fold. Jackie is a big boy now. He goes to military school, he is straight, athletic-looking and a fine manly chap. True, he is no longer the little boy that Charlie Chaplin featured in "The Kid," who won our favor with his baby ways. He is a young man now. But he still has a way with him and Paramount has signed him on a long contract. His first picture is "Huckleberry Finn." Here's hoping he will make them all sit up and take notice.

MANY FRIENDS in Hollywood have heard that Norma Talmadge has gone to Miami. Yes, that means Norma has definitely decided not to play in "The Greeks Had a Name for It" on the stage. She will have a vacation in Miami for some weeks and then come back to Hollywood to make a picture for United Artists who hold her contract. Norma is a smart girl. She felt an appearance on the stage in "The Greeks Had a Name for It" would do her no good since she had scant sympathy with the play, so in spite of the publicity she received she called it a day and went on to Miami for a holiday.

GREEK ARTIST TO GIVE SHOW

Mme. Marika Cotopouli, reputed to be the world's foremost interpreter of the Greek drama who will present at the Symphony Hall, Tuesday evening next, with herself in the stellar role, Sophocles' "Elektra," under the auspices of the Hellenic Association of Boston. This single presentation of "Elektra" will be hailed with enthusiasm, by all lovers of the classic drama. It should prove a rare opportunity to see "Elektra" done in the Greek by a mistress of her art.

Except for the new scenery, which was designed by Livingston Platt from Mme. Cotopouli's sketches, the production of "Elektra" will be the same as that presented at her own theater in Athens for several years. The only other variation will be the use of some of the themes from Richard Strauss' "Elektra" for incidental music.

Cannibal
This is an Indian word, thought to be a form of Carribal, as Columbus in 1493 found the Caribs of the West Indies to be gross cannibals. Homer mentions human man eaters. Practice still exists in remote localities.

Foolish to Love Boy Who Is So Fickle

—By BEATRICE FAIRFAX—

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. Write on one side of the paper only. If you wish a personal answer enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, questions of interest will be answered through her daily columns.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Last summer I met a young man whom I liked very much and he told me he cared for me. When I returned to the city I heard he was dancing around with girls that were faster than I was and now we don't speak. I love him very much and want to be friends with him. Do you think it would renew our friendship if I spoke to him or do you think it would make matters worse?

Beatrice Fairfax

SKIPPY.

Dear Skippy—Why not speak to him if you feel like it? As long As he has done nothing to injure you personally there is no reason why you should snub him, except out of jealousy. Anyway, aren't you rather foolish to be so hopelessly in love with a fellow of such light tendencies? He could never make you happy, you know.

Kisses Yours to Give

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 15 years of age and have met many boys. About two months ago I met this boy. He is different from the others. I went out with him a few times; every time I let him kiss me. One day I met him down town and he walked home with me. Before he left he wanted to kiss, but I refused, so he got angry. I haven't seen him since, but am always thinking of him and would like to be friends. Could you tell me what to do? Thank you for your advice.

S. G

Dear S. G.: A girl's kisses are her own, to give or withhold as she feels. Any boy so babyish as to get mad because you didn't want to kiss him at that moment is hardly worth bothering about.

Surly Husband

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Will you please advise me what to do? I am married and very much in love with my husband. I have been married eight years and have three children. My husband stays at his club in Lynn at all hours of the night, or, rather, morning, while I sit at home every evening reading, just waiting and waiting for him to come home. He comes in late, and then we argue about it. He hasn't spoken to me for two weeks. He comes in his meals and bed when he gets ready. What shall I do to prevent any breaking up?

HEARTBROKEN.

Dear Heartbroken—I don't see that there is anything you can do about it. A surly man is the hardest thing in the footstool to argue with or convince by reason. Your present problem is not how to reform him but how to get out of your own lonesomeness so you won't mind so much what he does. Can't their some hobby you are interested in that will take up your spare time? Something you would try to be successful in if you weren't married?

Beatrice Fairfax has a few letters for the young man who named himself "Lonesome Boy," which she will be glad to forward on receipt of address.

What's in Fashion?

Careful Winter Make-Up

—Directed by AMOS PARRISH—

New York, Jan. 23—Isn't it usually about this time of year that you look at yourself in the mirror and wonder what's the matter with your skin?

It's winter that's the matter with it. Too warm houses and apartments and offices that dry it. Cold and damp outdoors that chap and roughen it. More coal smoke in the air to clog its pores and coarsen it.

That's why women who want their skin to look smart and healthy and fashionable give it so much more care in winter. More thorough cleansing. More use of astringing, smoothing creams. And particularly a more thoughtful application of make-up.

It's fashionable today to look femine and individual. And by individual is meant, like yourself. That applies to make-up as well as clothes. A natural look ing make-up is the fashionable one.

It's harder to keep it looking natural in winter. Because of the condition of the skin and because of the reaction outdoor cold has on the skin.

The wrong make-up can make you look hard, painted and uncomfortable. The right one can help make you look just pleasantly exhilarated . . . and comfortable . . . and smarter

Lighter Powder Needed

One of the first things fashionwise women remember about winter make-up is that their skin is probably several shades lighter than it was when their summer tan was at its heydey. And since the first requirement of a natural looking make-up is that your powder match your skin-tone, this is a good time to get a fresh, new box

Powder to match the skin is always essential. But even more so in winter. Figure it out for yourself—if your skin is chapped and roughened, each little roughness catches the powder. It doesn't go on as smoothly as in summer. It literally stands up—conspicuously and prominently.

If it matches the skin, it doesn't show as much as when it's several shades darker—or lighter. It doesn't call so much attention to the rougher texture of the skin

Then there's that matter of red noses—a popular winter complaint. And they look redder when the powder is the wrong shade—especially if it's too light

Warm Lipstick Shades

Speaking of colors . . . consider blue lips—another of the season's tragedies. Fashion-wise women take great thought for their lipsticks at this time of year. They know that one of the purplish shades only makes the lips look bluer. So they choose a warmer shade—one that has more orange than purple in it.

And they take care that this lipstick is applied evenly and all over the lips Because they know that nothing looks quite so cold and colder—than a bright red spot in the center of the lips and blue edges and corners around it.

Less Rouge Needed

If you're one of the lucky ones whose color increases in cold winter wind, take special thought for your rouge. You won't need as much if your own color is going to brighten.

But you will have to be more careful that your rouge exactly matches your own natural color. Otherwise you'll have the effect of a spot of one red, (rouge) in the middle, and another red (your own natural flush)

Of course, if your face doesn't get chapped, and your nose doesn't get red, and your lip don't get blue, nor your own color reigh in the wind—then you can just about do as you please with your winter make-up. Provided it makes you look natur. l and like yourself. Not like a caricature of somebody else

Soup Plate Tipped for Last Drop

By MRS. BEECKMAN.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

1. We have had an argument as to whether it is proper when eating (or drinking) soup to tip one's plate in order to consume the last few spoonfuls

2. Also regarding bouillon. Is it sipped from the cup or from the spoon? J. L

1. Although, obviously, it is supposed to be more punctilious not to tip the plate to capture the last few spoonfuls of soup, I see no real reason, especially when we are dining informally, not to enjoy these good-to-the-last drop mouthfuls if the soup is good and if we wish to enjoy it in its entirety But it must be done as gracefully as possible!

2. The very best way for this is to tackle the heart of the bouil— by sipping the first few mouth fuls with the bouillon spoon and then drinking the rest of the bouillon as you would drink tea

A Sensitive Person

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

When introducing my mother-in-law and myself I introduce first my mother-in-law and then myself. My mother-in-law is feelings, and I have grown to love her, too. Would it be quite all right to introduces my mother first, my husband's mother next and then my father?

Your column is splendid . . . and you have been so helpful to me, although your answers have been to some other inquirer! Keep up the good work. BABS

(Thank you, most heartily, for your thoroughly kind and helpful message of appreciation! . . . what a sweet person you are to send such an appealing thought to us! Thank you!)

I think that your plan of sequence for these introductions is a perfect one, and quite a natural one as well as a correct one

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

Girls Don't Change, But Names, Oh, My!

By WINIFRED BLACK

WELL, WHAT do you think, Nellie's coming to pay us a visit

Winifred Black

I know her mother and her aunts and two of her uncles a long time ago when we all took the first wallflowers that grew in the hollow of the hill to teacher, and were jealous of the one who brought the biggest bunch of the little pink anemones and the wind-flowers that were so hard to find.

In the fall we all took a red apple a day to teacher, I wonder what she did with them? She couldn't possibly have eaten them all, though there used to be whispers that Teacher was married later, with whom Teacher lived, was not a very good provider.

Nellie's mother married a farmer and went way out into the country to live and she was so busy raising chickens, ducks and children and setting eggs and skimming cream and making great pans full of doughnuts and big fragrant loaves of brown gingerbread that she didn't have much time to write

So I don't know much about Nellie's mother But I am crazy to see Nellie just the same

I wonder if she has her mother's blue eyes or her father's brown ones, and does she stammer just the least bit as her mother used to do when some body teased her about the browneyed boy who sat in the next seat to her?

But the principal reason I want to see her is that her name is Nellie

I haven't seen a Nellie for years and years

I thought there weren't any more Nellies, didn't you?

What ever happened to Jennie? There are plenty of Janes nowadays, but not a Jennie in sight

Lily has disappeared, too, and as for Kitty I dare you to find a Kitty in your whole list of acquaintances

Katherine, oh yes! Plenty of Katherines and maybe one or two Kates, but Kitty—why, the very idea!

Louise, gone, too, and so has Mattie Poor Matilda, she a Martha now

I met her at a luncheon the other day and she told me she had buried Mattie's pet canary sang and put a headstone at the head of her grave, and on it are had engraved, "Little Mattie—also as young."

"And so I buried Mat seven years before that," said Mattie.

I suppose I'll bury Martha some day and leave Imogene Mary or something else foreign and exotic

There's ai Peg now or Margot

And Mate Why I knew three or four Mates, once upon a time. They've gone the way of the Millies and the Myrtles and the Nellies. I wonder what happened to the old names and why we are always changing them?

Well, the girls don't change any way, thank goodness.

They look different and they act different, but they're just the same girls under their new names and their new hairdos and their new sport shoes and their new hygienic regime

New Perils in Modern Life

Heart and Kidneys Are Affected

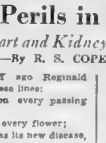
—By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.—

A CENTURY ago Reginald Heber wrote these lines:

"Death rides on every passing breeze,
He lurks in every flower;
Each season has its new disease,
Its peril every hour."

Makes you shiver! Death seems to be just around the corner!

But, really, life isn't so precarious a affair as all this. It was pretty uncertain when the Bishop of Calcutta wrote that quatrain, but times have changed in a century.



Dr. Copeland

Perhaps, too, the good Bishop had in mind, more the importance of righteousness than he had the importance of scientific facts. Doubtless his warning was theological rather than medical. Child, to mind the uncertainties of life, he sought to drive men to repentance.

Of course there is no dodging the perils that beset us every season and every hour. Death lurks in unexpected places and respects nobody. But science is making progress. Popular education is spreading knowledge of how to escape disease.

The expectation of life is far greater than it was a hundred years ago, or fifty years ago. A half century ago, forty-two years was the normal expectation; now it is fifty-eight years. At least sixteen years have been added to the hope of living

Unfortunately, however, in the middle-age groups, disease is just as fatal as it was when Habbu sung. Between the ages of thirty and sixty, the expectation is much the same as it was then.

While science has accomplished wonders, the stress and strain what we are pleased to call "civilization" have brought new perils. Upon the heart kidneys, demands are made these days that were not common in simpler times. Diseases of these organs are more prevalent than in older times.

How are we to accomplish reforms in the physical life, such reforms as the good Bishop cried for when flushing the moral evils of his day?

The answer to this lies in the education of the public in health matters. There is no need to become morbid and self-conscious as regards our bodies. But certainly we should not dodge health knowledge any more than we should use the services of scientific facts. Doubtless his warning was theological rather than medical. Child, to mind the uncertainties of life, he sought to drive men to repentance.

Of course there is no dodging the perils that beset us every season and every hour. Death lurks in unexpected places and respects nobody. But science is making progress. Popular education is spreading knowledge of how to escape disease.

Answers to Health Queries

J. S. H. Q—Do you advise a special diet for an acid condition of the stomach?

A.—Yes For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question

Miss D. H. M. Q—What can be done when the hair splits on the ends.

A—Singeing is often helpful in such cases. A hair-dresser will advise you. Avoid breaking the hair by too harsh combing or by using hot curling irons.

D. M. C. Q—What causes belching after taking yeast? Should I continue taking it under the circumstances? How long will it take before improvement will be noticeable?

A—The yeast may not agree with your particular system—although the belching may be due to some food combination rather than to the yeast. Watch your diet and keep the system clear Yeast is usually taken as an aid to elimination—you should notice improvement within a reasonable length of time

H. V. Q—What will fatten the face?

A.—Try to gain weight in general. Eat plenty of good nourishing food, including milk, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables. Exercise daily in the open air, practice deep breathing. As a tonic take cod liver oil after meals.

A. B. Q.—What do you advise me to use for falling hair?

D. M. Q.—What treatment do you advise for intestinal worms?

TIGER HEART -:- By Robert Terry Shannon

ON THE train going back to Stamford Connie and Kitty settled down and began ready to sense each other's personality.

When dinner was served they were almost on terms of intimacy, except that the richness of the house and its furnishings seemed to depress Kitty. Mrs. Calvert did not join them and they dined alone at a mahogany table set with four silver candlesticks. To Kitty it seemed quite informal, but the stiff linen dinner napkins, the thin china and the delicious food with the array of silver was a strain. She was not quite sure of her knives and forks. The deft butler in his white jacket overawed her

This Connie dimly perceived, but she did not quite realize its seriousness to Kitty

Kitty Satisfying

Dressed in a clever dinner gown of dark blue which they had been brought along with them from the city, Kitty, eating carefully, was satisfactory to Connie's eyes; with a very little more polish Kitty would not be at all obtrusive in whatever social life existed in the neighborhood

Indeed she would probably for a long time maintain a greater reserve than the usual cocktail drinking, jazz-dancing girls of her age. But this summer Connie planned to be rather less active socially than usual; her broken engagement with Jim Tracy for one thing, imposed an obligation of discretion. Kitty's presence, fortunately, might be useful in that direction

Outside, on the stone-flagged veranda, they sat in deep wicker chairs until the headlights of a car came up the drive which announced the arrival of Jim Tracy

"That's funny!" Kitty mused. "You break your engagement with this fellow, and he's right back on the job again. You mean to tell me actually there isn't a chance of you two making up?"

"Not a chance in the world," Connie declared. "We're absolutely through."

Right at the beginning Connie, with characteristic intuition, realized that Jim Tracy impressed Kitty tremendously. Because of Kitty's presence, Jim did not attempt at tenderness toward Connie; instead he was, by every subtle action and intonation, charming and at ease with friendliness

"I'm awfully glad to meet you, Miss Calvert," he said to Kitty. "You going to be up here in the country long?"

He was putting his best foot forward, and Connie had a thin, malicious pleasure in tilting at him

"Oh, you needn't pretend you don't know all about her, Jim!" she said, smiling. "You're the first one I talked her over with, and there needn't be any pretense with us three. She's my sister, although we're not making that entire fact public at present."

But Jim Tracy was not at all confused

"Well, I say you're a good judge at picking out sisters," he smiled to Connie. "Did you tell her, because the wedding that didn't come off?"

"She doesn't know all of the reasons—I'm not sure I do myself—but she knows that we almost got married," Connie returned.

"That's good!" he said with just a proper shade of embarrassment. "You can sympathize with my misfortune, can't you, Miss Calvert?"

"Oh, sure," Kitty said, agreeably. "Everyone does"

"I'm still trying to find out what happened to me," Jim went on speaking easily. "This is the first time I've seen you, Connie, since you told me I was thrown over. I've been hoping, of course, that you would change your mind."

"No, Jim. It's final, I'm afraid."

He smiled with a wry, romantic twist of his lips; rarely had Jim Tracy appeared to better physical advantage. Tonight he had about him just a touch of the haggard, to emphasize the strain he had been under. In his white flannels and blue jacket, he radiated, nevertheless, youthful and magnetic masculinity; his skin slightly pale, was fresh and clear. His gray eyes were a little tired, but there was a kind of humor in them, too.

"That leaves me high and dry, doesn't it?" he said, turning to Kitty.

She sat luxuriously in a deep chair, her feet crossed and a cigarette between her fingers. the violet blue eyes were fixed upon his face, but she was slightly in a shadow and the intensity of her gaze was not obvious

"You'll get over it," Connie said, quietly.

"You're the kind that gets over it," Kitty returned "I wouldn't like to be the girl that fell in love with you."

"Why?"

"Because she'd never be sure when you'd cool on her. There's something fickle about you—if you'll excuse me."

Jim Tracy laughed softly and addressed Connie

"Can you imagine it? I'm the faithful one and you cooled on me, as Kitty says; yet she tells me I'm fickle. Has she told you the same thing about yourself, Connie?"

"Not yet, and I don't believe she will," Connie smiled.

"I didn't mean that as a knock," Kitty said. "Maybe it's a good thing to have a rubber heart—I don't know. Don't pay any attention to what I say, Mr. Tracy"

"Call me Jim, will you, please?"

"Oh, Jim——"

He looked at her closely, he guessing to her intrigued. "I'm sorry you don't like me, Kitty."

"I said I wouldn't like to be the girl to fall in love with you! There's a difference."

Connie was delighted to find that Kitty had a certain ability in conversation, even though it verged alittle toward rudeness The fact, for the first time in his life was probably meeting a man used to the polite usages of life; yet she accepted it perfectly. Her speech still smacked of Tenth avenue, but evidently she was working on her grammar. And it was obvious Jim Tracy was taken with her

"I wonder if you two will excuse me a few minutes," Connie said, suddenly. "I think I'll run upstairs and write a note before she drops off to sleep for the night"

Jim Tracy arose and held a chair aside that Connie might have a clear passage

Tell your mother I inquired after her and sent my love, will you?" he asked

Mrs. Calvert was resting easily when Connie went in and wanted to know all about Kitty's reaction to her new life

"She's down-stairs now talking to Jim Tracy, and they seem to have a strange girl in the house, even if she happens to be my half-sister. But I think we haven't made a mistake."

See Duty Through

"Mistake or not, we have a duty, and we will try to see it through to the end," Mrs Calvert replied "I have observed, Connie, that not a great deal of happiness is achieved by acting against one's better instincts I think we did depress all the kindness and love we can give her"

Connie grasped her mother's hands

"You're a brick, mother. If this thing had hurt you, if it had shadowed your faith in father, even, I'd let out one little squeal. How do you get that way, my dear?"

"By practice, you baggage! You keep an amiable old lady awake with nonsense, and she'll probable turn surly if you don't get out of her bedroom and let her sleep."

When Connie returned to the veranda the chairs occupied by Jim and Kitty were vacant; no one was in sight

Bring Waist to Beauty Lines

Exercises Instead of Rigid Diet

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

WAISTLINES OF too ample proportions have prompted many girls to adopt a rigid diet, when, in a matter of fact such dieting often causes one to lose weight where it can least afford to be lost

Josephine Huddleston

Certain parts of the body respond more readily to exercise than to diet, and these exercises must be followed faithfully if a satisfactory results are to be the reward. The two exercises suggested below work so well together, that I must speak of them as one exercise, best suited to waist and abdomen reducing

Because the body must be free to bend, all tight clothing should be removed before beginning the exercise. Shoes, too, should be removed because this is a bending exercise and the balance must be kept, almost an impossibility in high heels

Standing squarely on both feet place the hands on the hips. Bending the body from the waist, bend back as far as possible. Then with no apparent break in the movement, bend forward at the same time swinging the hands so that the finger tip touch the floor. Quickly place the hands on the hips and repeat the backward bend; alternating forward and backward until you have counted to twenty. You may prove rather tiring the first day but the count can be increased gradually, to fifty

The other exercise is called the pendulum swing. Holding firmly to the back of a chair swing the right leg forward and up as far as you can, then, without stopping, continue the swing back ward and up as far as possible The movement is continuous and the foot must not touch the floor on the downward swing, but should continue on to make the backward movement From the beginning of the first movement until you have counted fifty with each upward swing the movement should not be broken. To simplify the exercise, repeat as you go through the motions; out and up in front of the body then down, and out and up in back of the body. Repeat with the left leg

Measuring in inches, check and watch the progress you will make from week to week, although three or four weeks' time should elapse ere the most rounded curves and take years in appearance from an out-of-proportion figure.

The Marry-Go-Round

Mrs. Solomon on the Reasonable Sex

—By HELEN ROWLAND—

VERILY, MY Daughter, in the eyes of a man, all the ways of a woman are capricious and there is no logic IN her.

But a man is the Soul of Consistency.

Behold, he appointeth Solons to make the laws and thereafter breath lawyers, at great expense, to teach him how to evade them.

He employeth cooks to tempt his palate with enticing dishes—and then calleth doctors to cure him of the indigestion and the obesity brought on by his folly.

He enrolleth magnificent resolutions upon New Year's Day—and, straightway, seeketh excuses for breaking them.

He cutteth off the hair from his head all the days of his life Yet, when it cometh by its own accord, he is distraught and squandereth his shekels upon hair tonics and magazine that he may coax it back again

He appointeth a day of rest—and spendeth it in the strenuous pursuit of a golf ball. He appointeth holidays for rejoicing and merry-making—and spendeth them in sleeping off the headache of the night before.

He kisseth all the women whom he loveth NOT—and flieth from the one whom he loveth best his heart become entangleth Yet, in the end, he is astonished to find himself married to the wrong woman

He installeth a shower in the bathroom of his house, and, each morning, awaketh with a new ailment for evading it

He marrieth the folly of the made-up damsel and singeth the praises of the housewife. Yet he travels the world over and maketh to admire the wall at dances, and the housewife damsel to sit by her own lonely fireside and sigh.

He prayeth around all the years of his youth with the wild women who help him to acquire his headache. Yet, when he weddeth one of these, he expecteth her to to turn, by some magic, into the tame wife, who CURETH his headaches

He spendeth half his life in the pursuit of money—and honor or women—and the other half in wondering WHY.

Yet doth he continue to scoff at the inconsistency of woman, and to write himself down The Reasonable Sex.

Flay Forbes for Exploding 'System' Myth

'Whitewasher,' 'Sold Out to Interests,' 'Deserts Common People'

By B. C. FORBES

New York, Jan. 23—I am accustomed to a bombardment of criticism, but not to my attempt to answer one question. Is there a diabolical Wall Street System? Is the shafts, sharper than usual have been coming thicker and faster than ever before.

It's too bad, I'm told, that I have sold out to the Money Trust. My "whitewashing" job is a failure. I no longer have a friend left. Many people have become unspeakable tool of Wall St. And I'm at least a thousand varieties of unprintable epithets.

B. C. Forbes

Yet I'm unrepentant! I cannot even promise to mend my ways. Where the shoe pinches most I am afraid to tell the truth as I see it, then I'll quit. That, gentlemen, is the main satisfaction a writer enjoys—liberty to speak out sincerely.

Not so long ago I was a very "courageous" fellow for being the first to rip the lid off the Bank of United States scandal. It takes just as much courage to write favorable truths as unfavorable truths—but not one word more because the question of courage never enters my mind. I regard myself as, in a humble manner and modest way, a public servant. And, believe it or not, I ain't for sale.

• • •

From the West:

"There is a 'system' just as sure as you are born. There is a clique in Wall street that can make prices rise and fall at will, but what about the —— investors that flood the nation with securities sponsored by our so-called financial leaders."

• • •

From the East:

"Your recent effort to apply whitewash to the activities of Wall St. financiers has not added to your own prestige as an independent and fearless financial writer.

"There exists today an almost unanimous opinion among business men that Wall St. bankers (the group you defend) are ALONE responsible for the current business depression. They first fostered and encouraged the financial jamboree of 1928-29, during which time they flooded the country with worthless paper. Then they kicked the market down by deliberately ringing the country into a business depression, and held it there while they bought back their precious paper at their own prices.

"A new era of intelligence and understanding will bring the wrath of the people against these plunderers and their power will sane like that of the grafting politicians who are now entering the limelight."

• • •

"Let us admit that Wall Street would not steal, lie or withhold charity. There is still another side to the picture. Has not the entire Wall Street men of the group reference when they are accused in the growth of monopoly, who have ever raised their voice against monopoly or have failed to oppose all efforts to curb monopoly? I think this is an important issue.

"Justices Brandeis and Holmes have said, 'There are still interested, high-minded citizens who believe that the rapidly growing aggregation of wealth in corporate form is a menace to our liberties.' Certainly, this is a very different economic philosophy from that of Wall Street, and I think quite a few people outside of Wall Street would agree with the Justices.

"I have thought of you as more of a friend of the people than your recent writings would indicate."

• • •

From the Middle West

"You have well as I do that when the big break in stocks started the public was loaded down from the top clear to the bottom. It was loaded on them through high-pressure propaganda and statements from practically all bankers and financiers throughout the country. This is my opinion, the workings of the System you speak of."

• • •

This from J. G. Anderson, Rock Hill, S. C. is in a different vein:

"I have had dealings with New York bankers for 30 years, running into the millions, and never once detected any crookedness in one of them. On the contrary, my impression was that they were honest and dependable and as straight as an arrow."

• • •

Requests are made that I discuss the subject further. What has most impressed me during the last two years or more has not been knavery in the highest financial circles, but dumbness.

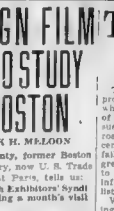
FOREIGN FILM MEN TO STUDY IN BOSTON

By FRANK H. MELOON

George B. Canty, former Boston mayor's secretary, now U. S. Trade Commissioner at Paris, tells us:

"The French Exhibitors' Syndicate is organizing a month's visit to study cinema exploitation in the United States. The party, headed by the president, Leon Brazillon, will leave Paris on March 15, next, and will visit Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Dayton, Detroit, Buffalo, Washington, San Francisco, and Hollywood. A trip to Niagara will be included."



George B. Canty

The international "technicians" on this visit will doubtless be interested in Boston, which is not to be tempted to duplicate it, if they had the Falls.

• • •

Brookmire Economic Service is bullish on the outlook. It says:

"Evidence that business has reached bottom is multiplying. A period of fluctuation around present levels will follow, leading gradually into improvement and revival."

• • •

"Czar Peter's funds for Paul's speculation" is an expression used in our B. C. Forbes column yesterday. It could apply very well to the "short selling" practise by which bears are allowed to borrow from brokerage houses the stock owned by "long" customers. Legislation to make this ending practise illegal is considered plainly needed by State Street authorities.

• • •

Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities reports there are 87 motor bus lines operating in the state under certificates granted by the department an increase of five over the previous year. Earnings of the bus lines have not generally been affected by loss of patronage due to use of automobiles and to the general business depression, it says. We have been unable to find that bus lines have at any time been run at a profit. Competition due to the keen competition that has prevailed from the outset.

• • •

Writers recently have referred to approximately 25,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States. The 1930 registrations totalled 26,718,000. There is an apparent discrepancy between the two figures, yet it is evident on second thought that many thousands of automotive vehicles are scrapped each and every year, and therefore in most states subject to re-registration. The gain of registrations in 1930 over those for 1929 was 8 per cent. Alfred Dexter Lindsay, president of Lindsay Light Company of Chicago, tells us

• • •

Attendance at the Boston Motor show, according to our personal observation, was nice, if anything to be desired. The majority of people appear most interested from a purchase point in displays most to their means, rather than in machines they already own. I also heard the "trade-in" inquiries are to very large extent. Boston Automobile Club books, where price tests are being signed against any decline in values, are not assisting in curbing demand. It is of some significance that all the names we recognized as signing were those who also pay real estate taxes.

• • •

Chairman Alexander Legge of the Federal Farm Board is quoted as saying prohibition of short selling is not possible any more than prohibition of liquor is possible.

Leaving the liquor out of the question, we are thinking Mr. Legge is unsure into the effectiveness of the Farm Bureau action restricting acreage to 30 per cent, 20 per cent cash margin on short sales.

• • •

Looking on the "long side," it is plain that marginal commitments for an upswing are very much hampered when the marginal requirements are raised. An old saying can in the final trend always be sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander, and may apply to our bulls and bears of Wall and State Streets.

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

The crucial test of the market probably will be afforded next week when the bad earnings statements of the steel companies will be issued and at the same time the railroads will be reporting their December revenue. If these statements fail to shake the confidence to any great degree, it would give stimulus to group movements that would tend to influence further recovery in the list as a whole.

While the bad steel and rail earnings' reports hang over the market it is foolish to climb after stocks in the hopes that there will not still be experienced while the market remains in the existing test area, keen observers say.

California Packing Profit Estimated

Latest unofficial estimates of California Packing's earnings for 1930 place profits at the rate of $4.75 against the $4 dividend. Nevertheless, it is least slightly higher today after a gain of one in Wall Street of the new estimate.

Worthington Pump Buying Improved

Quality of buying in Worthington Pump was reported improved today when the stock was in evidence. Worthington's 1930 earnings are expected as having exceeded $5, a sum which is considered by many as a liberal basis for the stock to sell more than $20 a share above its 1930 low.

Reo's High Yield Attracts Buying

Quite but persistent demand is evident for Reo Motors, with a good deal of the buying attracted by the yield of almost 10 per cent.

Warren Bros. Has Increased Buying

Increased buying this week in Warren Bros. was attributed to its favorable ratio to estimated 1929 earnings of $5 a share, and the yield provided by the $3 dividend. Outlook for business is thought improved for the giant Boston pavers.

Chicle Earnings to Set New Peak

Report of American Chicle Co. for 1930, to be published early next week, probably will show a net profit of approximately $2,200,000, equal to about $4.40 a share on the 500,000 shares outstanding. This will represent a new record, being approximately 5½ per cent in excess of the former record earnings of $2,107,596, or $4.22 a share, in 1929. Last year was the ninth consecutive year under the present management, in which earnings of Chicle have exceeded those of the preceding year.

Balance sheet as of December 31 1930, will show the company in strong position. Current assets of approximately $4,800,000 were nearly eight times current liabilities of slightly over $600,000. Working capital of $4,200 000 compared with $3,323,536 at the end of 1929.

Cash at the close on December 31 were between two and three times total current liabilities. Sales for Chicle's operations in November was entirely overcome in December, with net income in that month comparing favorably with amount of December 1929. Thus far in January indications are that operations will at least equal those of the similar month in 1930.

Moving Picture Houses Crowded

If the market persists of continued group activity in Fox Loew's and Paramount motion picture shares there will be rumors of increasing earnings, deals, etc. Such activity will afford trading opportunities, but caution in dealings remains necessary, as the motion picture industry faces a waiting spring and summer of rather intense competition, while there remain several situations in the industry and some of the individual companies are ironed out. But the basic fact is that motion picture houses are usually crowded.

Earnings Reports Comparisons Made

	Since New Jan 1	Adds
Increased earnings	43	3
Decreased earnings	10	2
Unchanged dividends	229	15
Increased dividends	14	4
Decreased dividends	16
Omitted dividends	12	1

Awaiting Bethlehem Steel Forecast

The financial district is now waiting for a forecast on probable earnings of Bethlehem Steel for final quarter of last year. Confederation that dividend action will be attached to the possible dividend action. Because it is well known that Bethlehem will not cover its 56 share rate in 1930, considerable talk has been heard of a reduction in the distributions to common stock. Nothing has been heard from authentic sources on the subject, however. Selling of Bethlehem on rallies is still popular among professional traders as well as outsiders who are hedging long positions in other issues.

United Carbon Contract Good

Officials of United Carbon attach considerable importance to the announcement made with a Columbia Gas & Electric Corp. subsidiary under which the latter will purchase all United's natural gas from its eastern Kentucky gas land holdings.

Construction of a 20-inch line to Washington from this existing system of the Columbia company in Southern Pennsylvania practically has been completed, and other lines now under construction will furnish natural gas to several large consuming areas along the eastern seaboard, probably ultimately serving New York.

Low prices for carbon black and curtailed consumption of natural gas from its large Louisiana reserves, from which several big pipe lines radiate, affected the earnings of United Carbon last year. The 1929 net, not allowing for the participating provisions of the preferred, is likely to approximate the $1.75 a share paid on the bonds on the 337,585 common shares. The company has been retiring the preferred steadily, and only about 18,000 shares are now outstanding. It is anticipated the 3% dividend rate on the junior issue will be maintained.

CURB MARKET PRICES CLOSE HIGHER

New ork, Jan. 23—Curb stocks rallied to new 1931 highs in the most active session of the year today, with aggressive buying centered in the utilities, selected specialties and oils, all of which moved ahead substantially.

Despite heavy profit taking in the final hour, the greater majority of issues were able to close moderately higher, although well below their high points of the recovery.

Electric Power & Light warrants, reflecting the strength of this issue on the big board, was the outstanding feature of the utilities advancing 1¼ points.

Other strong issues in this group included Electric Bond & Share, American Gas & Electric, American & Foreign Power warrants, Northern States Power, United Gas and United Light & Power.

Cities Service rallied moderately to within a fraction of its high for the year, but late softness forced it down to approximate its former close.

Grain Prices Are Slightly Lowered

Chicago, Jan 23 (INS)—Heavy unloading by tired longs and lack of aggressive support resulted in a setback in grain prices here today. Closing prices for wheat were down ½ to ⅝c, corn 1¼ to 1⅜c and oats ½ to ⅝c. Rye finished ½ to ⅝c off.

STOCKS SCORE FRESH GAIN IN WALL ST.

New York, Jan. 23—A flare of old-time bullishness appeared on the New York Stock Exchange today, as trading quickened to the best pace in two years.

Aggressive professional operations of the rise were resumed, notably in some of the utility and motor stocks. The list sagged a little in profit taking for a time during the afternoon, but moved up briskly in the final dealings, and closed around the day's best levels.

Strength of the hond market was also well maintained. Heaviness of the grains was apparently ignored by the security market.

In the utilities, issues of the Electric Bond & Share group were lifted briskly, Electric Power & Light rising about 4 points in a large turnover, and Commonwealth & Foreign Power 2. Consolidated Gas shot up in active trading.

Sharper rising gains, 4 points included North American, Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Johns Manville, General Electric, DuPont, Rock Island and Atchison. Case and Eastman gained about 3, and Allied Chemical made a 5-point gain of 6, part of which was lost.

Bethlehem Steel gained more than 2 in response to a report that the regular dividend will be paid.

S. R. Steel, American Telephone, closed up a point.

A statement of George F. Baker, dean of Wall Street bankers, that there are some slight indications of improvement in business conditions along certain lines, more cautious enough, attracted wide attention, for Mr. Baker's taciturnity is one of his best-known characteristics.

A statement of Owen D. Young, head of General Electric, that it seemed certain a depression had struck bottom, also lent encouragement.

SURVEYS ENCOURAGING

Fresh statistical surveys continue to show that business has shown strong resistance to depression since November. The Federal Reserve Board's monthly survey showed that its index of industrial production dropped only 3 per cent in December.

Moody's prosperity index, as declined for December, showed a negligible drop, after the sharp drop of November.

McGraw Hill's "Business Week" says:

"The ability of business to hold the line is becoming impressive, and is far more significant than its failure to make any spectacular gains."

F. W. Dodge's weekly building contract figures showed that the volume for the first half of January was close to the average for December. An official of General Motors Oakland-Pontiac division said sales so far in January showed a gain of about 15 per cent over the like period of 1930.

C. E. Thompson, head of Thompson Products, motor parts makers, said he felt reasonably sure that the 1931 automobile production of 4,000,000 units were too conservative and that of 4,500,000 or earlier estimated, would be nearer right. Figures for January are roughly 3,500,000 and 3,800,000.

Credit rates remained extremely easy. Bankers' acceptance rates were cut another ¼ of 1 per cent, making the bid rate for 30 to 90 days 1½ per cent.

While there had been some expectation of another cut in the New York federal reserve rate of 2 per cent, it was felt in some quarters that money is already so cheap that a cut could have had little influence.

A better tone in sterling exchange was regarded favorably, as it lessened the prospect of a movement of gold from London. The Bank of England's reserves is already $63,000,000 under the holdings at the resumption of gold payments in 1925.

W. Maryland's Net Is 87cts a Share

Western Maryland R. R. reports for 1930 preliminary net income of $1,960,974 after taxes and charges, equal to $11.05 a share on the 177,420 shares of 7 per cent preferred, on which no dividends have been paid. Allowing for sinking fund annual dividend requirements on the 7 per cent preferred, and 4 per cent on the 64,560 shares of second preferred, the balance is equal to 87 cents a share on the 829,721 shares of common.

In 1929 net income was $2,917,822, equal to $18.44 a share on the first preferred and $2.65 a share on the 323,696 shares of common, after dividend requirements on the 70,555 shares of second preferred.

Canadian Exports of Nickel Larger

Montreal, Jan. 23—Exports of nickel, says Dominion Bureau of Statistics, increased nearly 40 per cent for December over November at 70,145 gwt., against 47,872 in November, and was $1,485,212, against $1,091,033.

Cotton Steady at New York Closing

New York, Jan. 23—Cotton futures today closed steady, 8 points higher to 5 lower: March, 10.48; March, 10.71; July, 10.92 to 93; October, 11.32 to 33. Spot steady; middling 10.80.

Fisk Tire Planning Factory in Chile

Trusts Are Merged

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 23 (AP)—Marine Trust Company of Buffalo today announced it had taken over the Commercial Trust Company of Buffalo.

HUDSON - ESSEX SALES BIG AT AUTO SHOW

Sales of Hudson-Essex cars at the automobile show are running considerably ahead of 1930. This was anticipated when the new line was brought out early in December. The factory has given to the public more automobile for the money.

Also incorporated in both Essex and Hudson are rare riding qualities.

"I have yet to hear," says F. A. Ordway, president and treasurer of the Henley Kimball Co., "from any Hudson-Essex owner or customer who has had a ride in one of these cars who has not proclaimed it to be the greatest performance ever offered by the motor industry at twice the price. Our exhibit in Talbot Hall has been most outstanding. 17 bodies alone being displayed in this hall—it is a complete show in itself. This hall is on the second floor. It was necessary for us to use this space as our regular space in the main show is adequate only for seven cars.

"The tide in the automobile business has turned as evidenced by the larger number of cars that we are selling daily. One of the conditions which arrived in time for the show is the Hudson Club Sedan. This body is a custom job and embodies the very latest designs."

BUICK HEAD IS OPTIMISTIC

Retail deliveries of Buick motor cars throughout the United States during the last 10 days of December but substantially surpassed the amount which had been previously forecast by the company, and total deliveries for the month of December for the first time in several years were greater than during the preceding month of November. This information was made public by Mr. Strong, president of the Buick Motor Co., after he had studied sales reports recently submitted to him.

"Judging from the fact that our December reports are decidedly favorable and taking into consideration the stabilizing influence which the resumption of plant operations on normal lines of industry will have upon the country as a whole, it appears to me that one big cause for the depression [illegible] has been lifted," said Mr. Strong.

"We are now calling various groups of Buick employes back to their work and our plants will be up to normal strength within the next week or ten days. We are looking forward to spring with renewed interest and the facts as known in these first sales reports of the new year would seem to indicate a definite trend upward."

DURANT CARS WIN FAVOR OF VISITORS

"That motor show visitors regard value more than ever has been proven by the interest created by the display of Durant cars since the motor show opened," said Manager Harry C. Dunn, Boston Automobile Co., yesterday. "In no space we have had many visitors and it was not difficult to show by comparisons what outstanding value there is in the line.

"The new Durant 614 came in for a great deal of attention. Our salesmen were kept busy explaining that some of its features were entirely original, and that for the price it is not surpassed by any car in Mechanics building.

"Other models, too, were critically examined. Our out of town dealers had many prospects calling and we are confident that as a result of the show Durant sales will show a substantial increase this year. The new Mathis, a replica of the French car of that make, with American innovations is also attracting much attention.

PIERCE TO HAVE NEW MODELS

"The enormous expenditures involved in the production of new car offerings for 1931 exemplify automotive interests' faith in the future," was the message A. J. Chanler, first vice-president and general manager of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Company, brought to 160 New England dealers assembled in the Hotel Copley-Plaza, for their annual show week luncheon. "In spite of the overdone wave of pessimism Pierce-Arrow has spent over $1,000,000 in getting ready for new models, and this means that Pierce-Arrow is offering the finest cars of its existence.

"In spite of rumors and apparently utterly oblivious to predictions that may have bordered on the pessimistic, Pierce-Arrow has designed, created and built with the same enthusiasm that has characterized their introductory offerings in previous years when prospects held greater inducements.

"Auto shows are a good barometer of the times, and at those already held Pierce-Arrow has made more sales and booked more orders than for the same period last year."

CHEVROLET WAS ONCE AN '8'

When the Chevrolet Motor Company in 1928 announced its six-cylinder car, the motor world greeted it as a radical step by this automobile manufacturer. For people knew of a Chevrolet powered with eight cylinders, not a four-cylinder motor. The Chevrolet once before was a six-cylinder car, however, and in another era of its history boasted of being an "eight."

The Chevrolet car was born a "six" for the first three years of its life it remained a "six" in its first year it was priced at $2150.

In 1914 the engine size, horsepower, wheel base and weight were reduced and the price dropped to $1475. In this same year appeared Chevrolet's famous Baby Grand; considered a "baby" star but still weighing 2500 pounds, and priced at $875. Two years later the Baby Grand's seven passenger brother, the 490 appeared, named after its price. It was one of the first cars to sell under $500 and weigh less than a ton.

Tom Thumb Golf Is Offering Shares

New York, Jan. 23.—With offering of 85,000 shares of no par capital stock on the Tom Thumb Corporation, miniature golf industry, scheduled to open for trading with Wall Street. This industry, which, in the short space of three years, has developed from experiment to a nation-wide sports enterprise, with an investment of more than $3,000,125, according to the Department of Commerce, has been generally considered an outstanding financial success of 1930.

Telautograph 1930 Earnings Increase

New York, Jan 23 (AP)—Telautograph Corporation for 1930 has net profit of $351,380, equal to $1.33 a share on the common, against $350,885, or $1.44 a share, in 1929.

RADIO HOAX IS BARED AT YALE

New Haven, Jan. 23 (AP)—A Yale student by Wrigley mail received a radio set for Christmas. He hooked the aerial wire to a heating pipe and was surprised to find that conversation between him and his roommate could be heard faintly throughout the dormitory. They bought a cheap microphone and the stage was set for the air.

Speakers represented as Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard; Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton, and sundry deans began to broadcast most unorthodox theories. Football coaches, faculty members and coeds differed, broke out in song and wisecracks. The program regularly drowned out all others. It became a sensation.

An enterprising student attached a power tube to the radio, giving it greater range, and bought 3? minutes on the air. He aped about town and signed advertising contracts numerous tradesmen who cater to the campus.

What university authorities or the Federal Radio Commission may do about it is yet to be revealed.

11. Deportation of undesirable aliens and extension of preliminary citizenship periods to ten years.
12. Modification of Volstead Act to permit light wines and beers under Federal regulation.

Rousing a Sleeping Giant

Rebuilt Systems Will Mean Improved Railroad Service at Lower Rates

What the American railroads need most is a progressive viewpoint.

The country is crying out for a rebirth of the spirit of adventure which animated the original railroad builders.

Radical surgery and courage are needed to rebuild railroad systems so that they will conform to present-day wants and opportunities.

Decadence inevitably followed the tacit belief by routine railroad presidents that the industry had already fulfilled its ultimate potentialities of growth.

Railroad corporations are now paying for the sins of decades of lack of inventiveness, research, and planned development.

Instead of planning ahead boldly, latter day railroad managers have sought, through patchwork, to adapt middle of the nineteenth century transportation systems to the altered needs of the present.

Rich rewards lie ahead for modern minded executives who will think creatively of railroads as an effective means for knitting the country more closely together. Coast to coast systems—long the unrealized dreams of pioneers like the Goulds, the Harrimans, and the Hills—would be in keeping with present-day nationalizing tendencies.

The Hearst newspapers think that the time has come for freeing the railroads of the legal fetters which have discouraged progress.

After long bickering, there is at length virtual agreement among the main trunk lines of the East on a piecemeal merger extending from the Atlantic seaboard to the Middle West. This constitutes a significant step in the right direction.

The ultimate goal, however, should be vast transportation systems, co-ordinating under unified ownership and management steam railways, motor vehicles, pipelines and boats, which would offer uninterrupted rapid service from coast to coast and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border.

Properly supervised transportation giants could offer the public improved service at lower rates. It is the part of wise and honest government to see that the public does receive these benefits.

The time is ripe for new railroad setups. The men, the materials, and the capital needed are abundantly available, waiting only for progressive leadership.

Meantime, inertia, backwardness, and political prejudices are conspiring against the material welfare of the American people, as the Nation's transportation arteries continue to harden.

Our Prison Death Hole

Charlestown Rattletrap Jail Continues a Disgrace to the State

Fifty years ago a committee of distinguished Massachusetts citizens condemned the 100-year-old Charlestown State Prison as a junk heap and declared that it ought to be abandoned in the interest of safety, efficiency, morals and health.

The Charlestown State Prison is fifty years older and it is fifty years worse.

The fire officials confess that it is a tinderbox and once it were attacked by serious fire there would no doubt be a holocaust such as at Columbus, where less than a year ago more than 300 prisoners died from burns and suffocation.

The health officials confess it is a breeding place of disease, dismally ventilated and situated in one of the dampest and most dangerous sections of the State.

It is insanitary because it is equipped with ancient plumbing and with a system for personal cleanliness that applied in London Tower and in the death chambers of the catacombs.

It is overcrowded in violation of all modern penal rules—more than 900 prisoners jammed into unworthy structures that, at their best, could accommodate only 700. With the result that idleness begets criminality rather than the regeneration of the prisoners.

The Legislature ought to eradicate it this year.

Complete the Norfolk Colony prison at once. Spend $2,000,000 there this year, instead of the piecemeal construction that is dilatory and expensive.

If the legislators have any overwhelming fears about taxes, let them appropriate only $1,000,000 out of current revenue and put the other $1,000,000 into the emergency bond issue Governor Ely asks.

BEAT IT, BOYS, BEAT IT!

Telephone and telegraph lines across the continent have been merged into one management. Before long we will have transcontinental highways.

We need transcontinental railroads to get rid of expensive and unnecessary duplication of high officials, terminals and services such as we have now with so many separate railroads.

WAITING AT THE BATHROOM

The Little Fellow in the hallway.
Who owns the water that flows into the tub?
The same little Mr. Meek.
The Power Trust.

Will the Little Fellow ever get his bath?
Yes, IF, WHEN and AS the Power Trust wills.
Will the Little Fellow ever do anything about it?
Yes. Some day he will come to his senses and put the Power Trust and all Power Trust emissaries out of their high places in the household of the nation, and take over the control of his own property for his own benefit.

Listen, World! -:- By Elsie Robinson

Should Women Be Criticized?

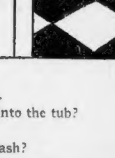
SHOULD WOMEN be criticized?

Should they be called to account for their shortcomings as a man would be called?

Particularly should they be criticized by another woman?

OR SHOULD A "WOMAN STAND BY HER SEX, REGARDLESS?"

A "Feminist" believes that they shouldn't—and she should. Her idea of femininism is Boquets for Ladies and Brickbats for Gents. And what she thinks of the wide open speeches of this column isn't pretty.



Elsie Robinson

MISS ROBINSON:

I've a bone to pick with you. I certainly resent the way you criticize women. You are always saying that men and women should be given the same treatment. That sounds fair, but it really isn't. Women need, and should have, much more gentle treatment than men.

Women may have their little faults, but they are living under strange new conditions and we mustn't expect too much of them in a hurry. When they get around to it they will do their share of the world's work, and they will do in a bigger, better way than men, but she shouldn't be picked on in the meantime. They need a lot of credit and not so much blame. Women have enough to stand without one of their own number nagging at them the way you do. Women should always stand together regardless, the way men do. You never catch men criticizing each other. Men are the conceited sex. Women, on the other hand, are sensitive and high strung and are apt to think poorly of themselves, so their feelings should be considered. Criticize men, but praise women!

A FEMINIST.

An unusual letter? Not in the least. Every time I venture to discuss our fellow female without sweet kisses and soft music, hundreds of letters arrive, sobbing, shrieking, biasing at my injustice. How dare I talk about Women like that? Don't I know what wonderful Wives and Mothers women make? Don't I ever think of all they have to stand? Am I not ashamed of myself? Maybe I'm not a woman at all. Maybe I'm a MAN . . . a brutal, disobedient, scheming man who can't appreciate anything noble 'n' beautiful. From which you may gather that Feminist's letter will be popular. Very. In fact she could probably get herself elected to Congress on that platform since. Nevertheless, though it be with my last literary gasp, I disagree.

I believe that any human who needs a bawling out should get it—regardless of sex. I believe that bawlings out are a vital part of our development, and that they have made men what they are today. I admit men aren't so much. But for practical team work they still have it all over the Dear Little Woman. They're fairer. Better sports. They have a better sense of values. They're more reliable—because they've bumped up against so many consequences when they weren't. For, contrary to the lady's opinion, men do NOT stand together. They criticize each other penetratingly and ruthlessly when criticism is due—and sometimes when it isn't. And they aren't allowed to go off in the corner and pout about it afterward either—or go to bed with a "sick headache."

He may be a poor stick in every other way, but the average man has learned to stand the gaff of ordinary contact. And women must learn to stand it, too, if they expect to rate as Regular Humans. The woman who has to be coddled and given special consideration and exemption from responsibility . . . who can't take the blame for her own acts and shoulder her share of the common responsibility . . . HAS NO RIGHT TO DEMAND THE ADVANTAGES OF EQUALITY.

Capital Silhouettes

By GEORGE R. BROWN

THE LICKERSHAM report reminds one of the story of Alfred Henry Lewis' friend who sat for six hours in a Senate gallery listening to what he termed a marvelous speech by Senator Beveridge.

"What did he talk about?" asked the author of Wolfville. "I don't know," replied his friend, "he didn't say."

* * *

AND THEN, the report is much like the "line" of the old-time burlesque comedian who carried a crownless stovepipe hat on his arm. After stating one side o' a proposition, he would add, as he shifted the hat from right arm to left, "but, on the other hand——."

* * *

"THE PRESIDENT," says CALumnist Coolidge, "cannot abdicate." Still, as Charlie Curtis might say, he could try.

* * *

MR. HOOVER decides to be elected President in 1932 without the Democratic states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois and Wisconsin, but isn't he counting a little heavily on the Republican states of Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Florida and Texas?

* * *

ON THE whole, the crime commission report is vague and noncommittal, no opinion being expressed about the wearing of green hats around the Senate office building.

New York Day by Day

Thoughts While Strolling

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Thoughts while strolling: Peter Arno-looking clubmen with droopy mustaches and tired eyes of a blood-hound. I like to pronounce the name of that art dealer—Knoedler. Jewel studded suspenders in Cartier's.

The Rialto's tallest playwright—Robert E. Sherwood. W. W. Hawkins, a Springfield, Mo., boy, who made good in the city. More Shakesperean plays. The future of ham is Hamlet. Those one - but toned great coats like Jimmie Walker wears. Bruce Barton could pose for the collar ads—wavy hair and everything.

Gloomy ladies who moan they never had a childhood. And attend plays stressing frustration. Something comfortable about the name of Anne. The bored salesmen in that 57th st. yacht store. Nothing looks so hopeless as the expression of a man stepping into a patrol wagon.

Sidney Lenz and Sigmund Spaeth look alike. Fred Detweiler, the painter. Lecture topic: "After 50, what?" I'll take an open fire, the patter of rain and a mystery story. What became of lads who smoked themselves pale coloring meerschaum pipes? A debutante hoop-de-doo: Attaching a single orchid to a bracelet.

* * *

Hard to beat a navy blue and white polka dot tie. Like those that Noel Coward wears. The Grand Central newsboy who wears spats. Park Row's best known reporter—Martin Green. One of those sacred white female zebus of society—waddling into a bank. The high-nosed soandso.

Nothing impresses me more than liveried footman and chauffeur up front in a block long limousine. The legless man and his friendly Boston. Wonder how long it takes Mr. Coolidge to write his column? And does he read it to his wife, poor thing!

There's a country squire look about J. P. Morgan, with all his yachts and what not. And somebody tells me he likes vaudeville. I once met him late at night walking on ship deck and started to speak. But instead popped out in a sudden Gethsemane-like perspiration.

* * *

At a party the other evening, the bachelor host ran out of cocktail ingredients. He despatched an apartment house hall boy for a flagon of gin. When it came he held it aloft and cried:

"This probably holds all the cooking recipes of Lucretia Borgia, but is everybody willing to take a chance?"

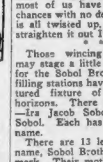
Save for three on the water wagon, everybody was. I'd like to stretch a barbed paragraph here about the folly of the incident, but most of us have taken the same chances with no deadly results. This is all twisted up, but if I stop to straighten it out I'll miss the mails!

* * *

Those wincing at number 13 may stage a little fancy shuddering for the Sobol Brothers, whose gas filling stations have become a sculptured fixture of the New York horizons. There are two brothers—Ira Jacob Sobol and Benjamin Sobol. Each has 13 letters to his name.

There are 13 letters to the firm name, Sobol Brothers—also a trade mark. Their mother was the 13th child born on the 13th of the month. The number of the Sobol Brothers automobile is 13-13 preceded by various letters. Their main office is 1313 avenue.

Their familiar greasing slogan, "Men Who Know," contains 13 letters and the idea for a chain of filling stations came to them in 1913. They operate 91 stations or seven times 13. Their main station has 13 pumps and 26 employes—twice 13. And if you think I'm going to keep on unraveling a free puff this way you are plumb silly.



A group of first-nighters were in a lobby huddle. An ermined night club hostess pranced by, chirping:

"Only the ladies," bowed one. "Pass on in peace!"

In groping about despairing for a final paragraph for this unsalty critique it occurs to me my grandfather used to say every true gentleman should learn to dance, play a fiddle and understand Latin. I got as far as a little spring-heeled two-stepping and "Over the Waves" on a mandolin, and then broke down completely and became a newspaper man. Dear old grampy!
